RUSSIA REJECTS BRITISH-FRENCH PLANS FOR PACT

Molotov Calls Offer Inadequate.

MOSCOW, May 31.—(AP)—With Dictator Josef Stalin looking on and applauding, Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet premier and foreign commissar, tonight rejected the latest British-French pact proposals as inadequate.

In a speech before the supreme soviet—the Russian parliament—Molotov left the door slightly open for further negotiations if Paris and London are willing to meet Moscow's view. He emphasized that Russia stands for a common front of all peaceful nations.

He asserted vigorously, however, the complete independence of Moscow's foreign policy. It was his first speech since succeeding Maxim Litvinov as foreign commissar on May 3.

[Molotov's rejection of British-French proposals shocked London and Paris. British officials were skeptical whether Moscow could be drawn into a mutual assistance pact without the British and French first accepting the soviet viewpoint. There was no official comment, however. In Paris diplomatic observers said fresh efforts would be made to bring Russia into the London-Paris camp.]

Uses Caustic Words.

"It is impossible," he said in a caustic reference to British-French efforts to build a bloc of nations to counterbalance the Rome-Berlin axis, "to think now whether they want to end aggression."

He pointed out that Russia by no means considers it necessary to renounce business relations with Germany and Italy.

He mentioned a possible renewal of trade negotiations with Germany, clearly indicating that Moscow is not leading any anti-Hitler boycott.

Molotov described the British-Polish mutual aid agreement and a like British-Turkish understanding as a good sign, but declared Russia wanted more.

Demands Broader Pact.

The conditions of soviet coöperation include, he said, a mutual assistance pact covering not only those countries guaranteed by Britain and France but "all neighboring countries of the U. S. S. R."

After expressing his uncertainty whether Britain and France "really want to end aggression," Molotov added: "That is why we must be vigilant. We must remember Stalin's warning about pulling chestnuts out of the fire."

[On March 10 Stalin said Russia would not be dragged into conflict with Germany as a cat's-paw to pull British and French chestnuts out of the fire.]

The foreign commissar declared the soviet union's firm intention of defending the frontiers of Outer Mongolia. [Japanese sources have reported recent skirmishes along the Outer Mongolian-Manchukuo frontier.] He warned Japan there was a limit to soviet patience and cautioned Tokio to "drop provocative violations of the U. S. S. R."

Admits Aiding China.

Molotov said Russia was lending aid to China. He recalled Stalin's words to the party congress in March about aiding victims of aggression and said of China: "We are carrying out his words with deeds."

He also touched on the question of the Aaland Islands, which guard Russia's outlet to the Baltic sea. The league of nations council adjourned on May 27 without passing on a Finnish-Swedish proposal to refortify the islands to which Russia had objected. Molotov today referred to Finland's refusal to give information as to the purpose and extent of the proposed fortifications.

The supreme soviet vigorously applauded Molotov and voted unanimously a resolution approving Russia's foreign policy as he had outlined it.

PARTIAL TEXT OF TALK

A partial text of Molotov's address follows:

"Recently serious changes have taken place in the international situation. These changes, from the point of view of peace loving powers, have considerably worsened the international situation.

"We now have to deal with certain results of the policy of the aggressive

THE HEAT'S ON! SLOT MACHINES ARE SHUT DOWN

Cassidy Drive Stirs Syndicate to Act.

The slot machines that reaped harvests of coin for Cook county taverns through Memorial day were silent yesterday. None was in operation, so far as could be determined, in any part of the county.

Tavern keepers said that the syndicate which operates the machines sent out its agents yesterday. They carted away the small ones. They locked up the large ones in steel cabinets. The only explanation given the saloon owners was that "the heat is on."

The heat is being furnished by Attorney General John E. Cassidy, who started his campaign to eliminate the devices from the state in February. It was successful downstate, but machines in the outlying sections of Cook county have continued in operation, with brief shutdowns.

Officials Confer Tomorrow.

Cassidy is to come to Chicago tomorrow and confer with State's Attorney Courtney and Sherif Thomas J. O'Brien about his program. Present at the meeting will be Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the state liquor control commission, who can take away beverage licenses if tavern keepers persist in keeping the illegal gambling devices.

"Perhaps reports of this meeting caused the shutdown of the Cook county machines," Cassidy said in Springfield last night.

It was learned that he had investigators looking into the situation over the week-end and on Tuesday. It was said that he is irked by the lack of coöperation on the part of Cook county officials and the county highway police. Further, Cassidy has announced he has the backing of Gov. Horner in his drive and will continue it to the end.

No Comment from Courtney.

O'Brien was reported out of town and Courtney would make no comment.

The tavern owners in various sections were divided in their opinions as to how long the current shutdown would last. Some of those in Niles Center and Morton Grove guessed there would be a reopening by Saturday. In Forest Park, Melrose Park, and Franklin Park, and along the western roads there was less optimism. "It may be a long time," was the consensus there.

Only in restricted sections to the south have the machines been operating, and Lieut. Henry Andel of the county highway forces at Homewood seized ten Monday in Calumet Park. Harvey, Blue Island, Homewood, and Chicago Heights have been inhospitable to the syndicate for weeks. Last night the machines had been eliminated from the roadhouses that had kept them going.

Eight Murders Laid to Evil.

Cassidy took on his one man war against the machines after his home town of Peoria was shocked by charges that Anton Miller, known as a reformer, was shot to death by racketeers belonging to the operating syndicate.

T. P. Sullivan, chief of the state department of criminal investigation, said that Miller apparently had engaged in a scheme to furnish tavernkeepers with keys that enabled them to open the machines and collect more than their agreed share of the profits. He added that John Balma, mysteriously slain at Joliet about the same time [in January] supposedly was a distributor of the keys.

Altogether, Sullivan estimated, eight murders in Illinois could be traced directly to the slot machine evil.

"Racketeers fight more fiercely over controling slots than they fought over beer and alcohol in prohibition days," he said. "The revenue is tremendous. It pays the rent for small taverns and roadside filling stations.

Leads to Other Crime.

"Newly elected sherifs and state's attorneys at first see little wrong in tolerating the machines. But once public officials take gangsters' money for permitting them to go it's not long before they are forced to condone other crime. They don't dare prosecute the men who have given them bribes."

Cassidy and Acting Gov. John Stelle coöperated in having the state highway police assist sherifs in the war for slot machine eradication.

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

1. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Aged 55, of Michigan

SENATOR VANDENBERG—

—Believes the destiny of America must be settled at home and not upon some alien battlefield.

—Declares that President Roosevelt's phrase, "short of war," is a dangerous delusion. Does not believe we can be half in and half out of one of these modern wars.

—Points out that America fought one war in Europe to make the world safe for democracy. The only results, he adds, were 12 billion dollars in debts now owed by Europe to the United States and a dislocated domestic economy in this country.

—Says spending and debt are the two reasons why America is not enjoying economic recovery.

—Quotes Roosevelt's campaign speech in 1932: "Any government, like any family, can for a year spend a little more than it earns, but you and I know that continuation of that habit leads to the poorhouse."

(Senator Vandenberg's battle against the Florida canal defeated canal bill, 45 to 36, and saved nation over $200,000,000.)

—Recommends putting the social security system on a pay-as-you-go basis.

—Advocates social security taxes be frozen at 1 per cent each on employer and employe pay rolls.

—Says the next Republican national convention must first set down clean-cut, constructive, courageous principles which dependably promise to save the American system of free enterprise under the renewed spirit of constitutional democracy, and to recapture prosperity for our whole people under a government restored to solvency. Then it should fit its nominations to its principles.

Share the Mate Policy Brings a Wife to Court

Mrs. Mary Petersen consented to share her husband, Nelson Petersen, with a sweetheart of his school days named Caroline. They were to have his company on alternate nights, with a special schedule governing holidays and his birthday, Jan. 28. Trouble came, it developed in court yesterday, when Petersen stopped alternating. He saw too much of Caroline.

Petersen, the object of their affections, was a railroad engineer. Details of the extramarital time table were explained to the somewhat startled Judge Rudolph F. Desort. The arrangement, he was informed, began in 1933, when the schooldays sweetheart became a widow. She was named as Mrs. Caroline Bertram, 51 years old, 658 West 59th street. Mrs. Petersen, who is 46, lives at 6536 Maryland avenue.

Blames Her for Accident.

Mrs. Petersen has a suit for separate maintenance pending. She had her husband in court because he owes her $30 under a $6 a week temporary support order.

"I can't pay," said Petersen. "I had an accident in the yards and lost my job. The accident was my wife's fault. I was under mental strain and she was responsible."

"No, your honor," interrupted Mrs. Petersen, "he was thinking about that other woman."

Petersen's attorney, Hugh R. Porter, explained that after the death of Bertram old flames had burned anew and Petersen began to see Mrs. Bertram a good deal. The result, he said, was an understanding between the two women whereby they would share Petersen.

Difficulties Develop.

There was no animosity, Porter added. Mrs. Petersen and her attorney, Martin Gross, however, contended she consented to the arrangement only after Petersen ordered her to. At any rate, difficulties had developed by January, 1935, according to two letters introduced by Porter.

They were written by Mrs. Petersen to Mrs. Bertram. One of them said, in part:

"Mr. Petersen, my husband, is supposed to be home for his birthday and he is going to be home. If you want to come Monday night for coffee and cake it is all right for me, but remember you are not playing fair.

Complains Her Place Was Taken.

"He is going to be home the nights he is supposed to be. If not, he's not going to be at your house either.

"Last night was my night and I was supposed to go with him to cash his check and shop. Christmas was my day and New Year's day was yours, so figure it up and see whose day it is on his birthday. It is mine.

"Just because I don't fall all over him and love him to death, don't think I don't love him. I do."

Petersen now lives at Mrs. Bertram's boarding house. He has filed a cross bill alleging one of three marriage ceremonies he went through with Mary was illegal. By this time Judge Desort felt that it was a hot day and perhaps June 7 would be cooler, so he continued the case to that date.

A CURTAIN RAISER FOR PARK'S PET SHOW, IN 3 TERSE PARAGRAPHS

Animal lovers will get a bang out of two of these paragraphs and a squawk out of another:

Rachel Reese, 700 Oakwood boulevard, is having a big time these days with a groundhog she adopted two weeks ago when she found it in Palos park. Some scientist who was a little mixed in his sciences helped her name it Geo for geology.

Miss Elaine Auner, 113 East Van Buren avenue, Naperville, paraded on the street there yesterday with two foxes on her string. The pups were found in Morton arboretum at Lisle by Austin Saylor, 126 West Jefferson street. There are seven of the rascals.

Andrew H. Proro, 3446 Greenview avenue, is 81 years old, but it was chickens in his attic, not bats, that caused the neighbors to yell for surcease from the crowing of roosters and the cackling of hens. So Judge Victor A. Kula ordered him to disperse his flock of 185. Yesterday Proro reported that eight were left and, dang it, they soon would be gone.

Next Saturday, by the way, is the annual pet show at Lincoln park. About twenty youngsters will be entered.

MitchellRobin, Probate Clerk, Dies Suddenly

Mitchell C. Robin, for 13 years clerk of the Probate court, died suddenly early today a short time after he returned home from a political meeting. He lived at 5000 Marine drive and was 47 years old.

Mitchell C. Robin.

He returned home shortly after 10 o'clock in the evening after addressing a meeting of the regular Democratic organization of the 48th ward at 4206 Broadway. He suffered an attack and Dr. A. B. Rimmerman was called. He diagnosed the illness as coronary thrombosis, a heart ailment. A second attack shortly after midnight caused Robin's death.

Funeral to Be Tomorrow.

Besides his widow, Dorothy, Robin left two daughters, Lois Joy, a baby of 2, and Helen, 16 years old. Funeral services were set tentatively early this morning for 11 a. m. tomorrow at the chapel at 5206 Broadway.

Mr. Robin was elected in 1926 after being selected for the candidacy by Gov. Horner, who was then Probate judge. He was known as the "boy candidate." He had previously been a member of the board of local improvements under Mayor William E. Dever.

Court Shows Profit.

When Robin was reëlected in 1930 to the Probate court post it had been pointed out that he had paid, during his first term, more than $400,000 into the county treasury in addition to operating his office entirely out of fees collected. He was elected again in 1938.

It is believed his service in the Probate court constitutes a record in Cook county. His present term would have ended in 1942.

He was a director of the Marks Nathan Orphans' home and was a member of the Masons, the Elks, and the Knights of Pythias.

Ex-Governor Tells Oregon Terror Reign

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 31.—[Special.]—The national labor relations board was accused by former Gov. Charles H. Martin of Oregon today of aggravating labor disputes in Oregon and siding with John L. Lewis' C. I. O. The board, he said, played up to thugs and encouraged labor outlaws.

Martin, a retired major general, testified at a senate labor committee hearing on proposed amendments to the Wagner labor act. He bluntly laid the blame for most of his state's labor troubles on the labor board.

The general charged that the board meddled in the rivalry between the C. I. O. and the American Federation of Labor which was mainly responsible for the violence and rioting in the Oregon lumber industry.

"Rivalry between the two labor organizations was built up and aggravated by the way the board acted in taking sides with the C. I. O.," Martin testified.

Puts Blame on Board.

Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the senate committee, asked the former governor whether he blamed the labor board for the state's labor troubles.

"I lay it right at their door, most of it," was Martin's immediate response.

He discussed six cases of labor board intervention in disputes between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. The cases, he said, showed lack of evidence by the board to support its findings and proved the board's bias against employers.

After unpardonable delay, Martin related, the board listened to C. I. O. members who had taken part in "unlawful mass picketing, beatings, and intimidation" in connection with trouble at the M. & M. Woodworking company, and then found the employers guilty of unfair labor practices.

Tells of Violence.

Martin told of numerous instances of violence as a result of the rivalry between the two big labor unions, terming them wanton disorders that threw whole communities into turmoil. Seventy-six persons were sent to prison for conspiracy or violence, he asserted.

The convictions were obtained under Oregon's stringent labor law, initiated and passed last November to halt the strife that had paralyzed a large part of the state's industrial life. The law empowers the courts to imprison and fine those who violate provisions regulating picketing and forbidding jurisdictional strikes.

At the opening of the senate hearing Martin read a telegram from Mayor Joseph K. Carson of Portland, Ore., which said:

"Suggest you ask why, under the Wagner act, trial by jury is not provided. Are they afraid of what a jury of citizens would say about these controversies? Trial by jury is the American way."

Urges Speedy Action.

Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the A. F. of L., also urged amendments of the Wagner act. He criticized the labor board and charged it had failed to coöperate in seeking remedies for defects in the law.

Padway expressed the fear that the Wagner act would be emasculated unless the labor board speedily consents to fair changes in the law.

"By 1940 we may get a congress that will rip this law to pieces and give us something we don't want," he said.

Padway made this comment after Chairman Thomas had asserted that employés and employers alike should adjust disputes "with a spirit of restraint" to avoid a public reaction that would result in bad law and bad government.

Fluoroscope Finds Opium Hidden in Oil Shipment

Norfolk, Va., May 31.—(AP)—Customs officials today seized opium valued at $100,000 concealed in peanut oil and arrested Wong Ping, 65 years old, president of the Chinese Merchants' association of Norfolk, on a charge of violating the federal export and import act. A fluoroscope was used to discover the opium, hidden in three cases of a forty case shipment—the first time this process has been used to detect contraband in transit. The opium was in 216 cans packed in the shipment, listed as peanut oil.

Cowboys Lassos Eagle as He Rides Horseback

Tucson, Ariz., May 31.—(AP)—A Tucson cowhand roped an eagle from horseback today as the bird fed on a week old calf it had killed. José Romero, cowboy on the nearby Rincon ranch, said the eagle was so heavy from eating it could not fly fast enough to escape the rope.

INDUSTRY PEACE BILL IS KILLED BY ILLINOIS SENATE

Chicago Democrats Join Opposition.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—[Special.]—The Illinois senate today killed the Lantz employment peace bill, which sought to protect the public interests in labor disputes by means of a law similar to those recently enacted in Wisconsin, Oregon, Washington, and Pennsylvania.

Richard J. Daley.

Before galleries packed with union officials, the senate upset tradition by striking the enacting clause from the measure at the amending stage. The motion thus to kill the bill was made by a first termer, Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago], who apologized to the sponsor for the precipitate action.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago sat on the rostrum during the roll call, a fact which was later pointed out in a statement of Senator Simon E. Lantz, veteran leader of the agricultural bloc, who introduced the bill.

Some Senators Change Votes.

The final vote was 28 to 16, with all of the Chicago Democrats against the bill. When it became apparent that the movement to kill the bill—a move urged by professional labor leaders—would be successful, some senators hastily changed their votes to be on the winning side.

"While this was a personal humiliation to me," Lantz said in a statement, "I cannot fail to sympathize with the plight of my fellow members who had to sit before the mayor of Chicago, under the watchful eyes of the gallery filled with labor organizers, and redeem a pledge which gained prominent members of the Democratic party their election.

"My bill was offered on behalf of the common people, who proved that their voice cannot motivate politicians in the manner which labor has successfully used for years. Again the farmers of Illinois can feel the rebuke of labor and the Democratic party who have posed as their friends for the last time.

Predicts Labor Will Learn.

"Counterparts of this bill have been passed in other states and the day will come when labor will recognize its error in not supporting a favorable bill instead of a stringent one."

Lantz said he called his bill with the understanding that amendments would be offered to improve it.

"It is evident that I was not to be given a fair hearing on the senate floor," he said. "It is evident, also, that labor is not prepared to accept any regulation, no matter in what friendly spirit it is offered."

In some quarters it is felt that defeat of the Lantz bill was basically due to the peacefulness of the Illinois labor scene in comparison with some other states. With the exception of a few strikes, including those at the Republic Steel company plants in South Chicago and the Fansteel Metallurgical plant near Waukegan, this state has been singularly free from labor violence.

Agitators Are Assailed.

The most dramatic part of the proceedings occurred when Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield], addressed the labor leaders in the galleries.

"Some years ago I sponsored the peaceful picketing law," Searcy said. "While most honorable labor agents have abided by it, I must say frankly that there is a handful of unscrupulous agitators who have violated that and nearly every other statute.

"There is a vast public revulsion against some of their tactics. There are innocent bystanders demanding that cognizance be taken of those violations."

He looked directly at the men in the galleries as he spoke.

"Those who have violated this law haven't kept faith with us, the friends of labor," he said. "If the state's attorneys and sherifs haven't got courage enough to do their duty, I warn that the general assembly powers, on the one hand, and of the policy of nonintervention on the part of the democratic countries on the other hand. Representatives of aggressive countries are not averse to boasting about the results of their policy of aggression already achieved. Whatever one may say there is no want of boasting observed here.

Stresses Difference of Opinion.

"The representatives of the democratic countries, which have turned away from the policy of collective security and have conducted a policy of nonresistance to aggression, are endeavoring to belittle the significance of the worsening that has taken place in the international situation. They still continue to occupy themselves in the main with soothing public opinion, and pretending that nothing substantial has taken place in the recent period.

"The position of the soviet union in appraising current events of international life differs from that of both the one and the other party. As everybody understands, it can under no circumstances be suspected of any sympathy whatsoever for aggressors. It is also alien to all glossing over of the really worsened international situation. To us it is clear that attempts to hide from public opinion the real changes that have taken place in the international situation must be countered by the facts.

"It will then become obvious that soothing speeches and articles are only needed by those who have no desire to hinder the further development of aggression, in the hope of turning aggression, so to speak, in a more or less acceptable direction.

Points to Munich Accord.

"Just recently authoritative representatives of Britain and France endeavored to soothe the public opinion of their countries by glorifying the successes of the ill starred Munich agreement. They said that the September agreement in Munich averted European war by means of concessions on the part of Czecho-Slovakia which comparatively were not so big after all. It seemed to many people already at that time that the representatives of Britain and France went further in Munich in their concessions at the expense of Czecho-Slovakia than they had a right to do. The Munich agreement was, so to speak, a culminating point of the policy of nonintervention, the culminating point of compromise with the aggressive countries.

"And what were the results of this policy? Did the Munich agreement put a stop to aggression? Not at all. On the contrary, Germany did not rest content with the concessions she received in Munich, that is with obtaining the Sudeten areas populated by Germans. Germany went further and just simply put an end to one of the large Slav states—Czecho-Slovakia. Not much time passed after September, 1938, when the Munich conference took place, before Germany put an end to the existence of Czecho-Slovakia in March, 1939.

Cites German Gains.

"Germany succeeded in carrying this through without resistance from any side whatsoever, and so smoothly that the question arises what in reality was the true aim of the conference in Muncih?

"In any case the elimination of Czecho-Slovakia, despite the Munich agreement, showed the whole world where the policy of nonintervention had led, a policy which in Munich, it can be said, reached its acme. The collapse of this policy was obvious. Yet the aggressor countries continued to adhere to their policy. Germany deprived the Lithuanian republic of Memel and the Memel region. As we know, Italy was not behind hand. In April Italy put an end to the independent state of Albania.

"After this there is nothing surprising in the fact that at the end of April the head of the German state in one speech abolished two important international treaties—namely, the naval agreement between Germany and Great Britain, and the nonaggression pact between Germany and Poland.

"There was a time when great international significance was attached to these treaties. Germany, however, made away with these treaties very simply, disregarding all formalities. Such was Germany's reply to President Roosevelt's proposal, a proposal permeated with a peace loving spirit.

"Matters did not end with the tearing up of two international treaties. Germany and Italy went farther. The other day a military and political treaty concluded between them was published. This treaty is basically of an offensive character. According to this treaty, Germany and Italy are to support one another in any hostilities begun by one of these countries, including any aggression, any offensive war. . . .

"It seems clear that the facts mentioned testify to a grave change for the worse in the international situation. In this connection certain changes in the direction of resisting aggression are also to be observed in the policy of the nonaggressive countries of Europe. How serious these changes are is still to be seen. As yet it cannot even be said whether these countries are seriously desirous of abandoning the policy of nonintervention, the policy of nonresistance to the further development of aggression.

"Will it not happen that the existing endeavor of these countries to restrict aggression in some regions will not serve as an obstacle to the unloosing of aggression in other regions?

Says Russia Wants Peace.

"Such questions are being raised in certain bourgeois periodicals abroad, too. We must, therefore be vigilant.

"We stand for peace and for preventing the further development of aggression. But we must remember Comrade Stalin's precept: 'To be cautious and not to allow our country to be drawn into conflicts by war mongers who are accustomed to have others pull the chestnuts out of the fire for them.'

"Only thus will we succeed in defending to the end the interests of our country and the interests of universal peace.

Declares British Want Change.

"There are, however, a number of signs showing that the democratic countries of Europe are increasingly coming to realize that the nonintervention policy has collapsed, to realize the need for a more serious search for ways and means to establish a united front of peaceable powers against aggression.

"In a country like Great Britain the people are beginning to talk loudly of the need for a sharp change of foreign policy.

"We, of course, understand the difference between verbal declarations and real policy. Nevertheless, one cannot but note that this talk is not accidental. Here are a few facts. There was no mutual assistance pact between Great Britain and Poland. Now a decision has been reached about such a pact. The significance of this pact is only enhanced by the fact that Germany has torn up her nonaggression pact with Poland. It must be admitted that the mutual assistance pact between Britain and Poland alters the European situation.

"Further, there was no mutual assistance pact between Great Britain and Turkey, but recently a certain agreement regarding mutual assistance between Great Britain and Turkey was arrived at. And this fact, too, alters the international situation.

Tells of Negotiations.

"In connection with these new facts it must be regarded as one of the characteristics of the recent period that nonaggressive European powers have been endeavoring to get the U. S. S. R. to collaborate in resisting aggression. Naturally this endeavor deserves attention.

"Accordingly the soviet government accepted the proposal of Great Britain and France to enter negotiations with the purpose of strengthening political relations between the U. S. S. R., Great Britain, and France and establishing a peace front against the further development of aggression.

"How do we define our tasks in the present international situation? We consider they are in line with the interests of other nonaggressive countries. They consist in checking the further development of aggression, and to this end of establishing a reliable and effective defensive front of nonaggressive powers.

"In connection with the proposals made by the British and French governments, the soviet government entered into negotiations with them regarding the measures necessary for combating aggression. This was as far back as the middle of last April. Negotiations then begun are not yet ended. But even at that time it was apparent that if there was a real wish to create an effective front of peaceable countries against the advance of aggression the following minimum conditions were necessary:

"Conclusion of an effective pact of mutual assistance against aggression, a pact of exclusively defensive character between Great Britain, France, and the U. S. S. R.;

"A guarantee against attack by aggressors on the part of Great Britain, France and the U. S. S. R., to the states of central and eastern Europe, including all European countries bordering on the U. S. S. R. without exception;

"Conclusion to a concrete agreement by Great Britain, France, and the U. S. S. R. regarding the form and extent of immediate and effective assistance to be given to each other and to the guaranteed states in event of attack by aggressors.

"Such is our opinion, an opinion we force upon nobody, but to which we adhere. We do not demand acceptance of our point of view and do not ask anybody to do so. We consider, however, that this point of view really answers the interests of the security of peaceable states. It would be an agreement of exclusively defensive character operating against attack on the part of aggressors, and fundamentally differing from the military and offensive alliance recently concluded between Germany and Italy. Naturally the basis of such an agreement is the principle of reciprocity and equality of obligations.

"It should be noted that in some of the British and French proposals this elementary principle did not meet with favor. While guaranteeing themselves from direct attack by aggressors by pacts of mutual assistance between themselves and with Poland, and while trying to secure for themselves the assistance of the U. S. S. R., in event of attack by aggressors on Poland and Rumania, the British and French left open the question whether the U. S. S. R. in its turn might count on their assistance in event of its being directly attacked by aggressors, as they likewise left open another question, namely, whether they could participate in guaranteeing small states bordering on the U. S. S. R. and covering the northwestern frontiers of the U. S. S. R., should they prove unable to defend their neutrality from the attack of aggressors. Thus the position was one of inequality for the U. S. S. R.

Attacks Tieup with League.

"The other day new British and French proposals were received. In these proposals the principle of mutual assistance between Great Britain, France, and the U. S. S. R. on the basis of reciprocity in event of direct attack by aggressors is now recognized.

"This of course is a step forward although it should be noted that it is hedged around by such reservations—even to the extent of a reservation regarding certain [sanction] clauses in the league of nations covenant—that it may prove to be a fictitious step forward.

"As regards the question of guaranteeing countries of central and eastern Europe, on this subject the proposals mentioned make no progress whatever, if regarded from the standpoint of reciprocity. They provide for assistance being given by the U. S. S. R. to five countries to which the British and French have already promised guarantees, but they say nothing about assistance being given by them to three countries on the northwestern frontier of the U. S. S. R. [Latvia, Estonia, and Finland], which may prove unable to defend their neutrality in the event of an attack by aggressors.

"But the soviet union cannot assume obligations in regard to the five countries mentioned unless it receives a guarantee in regard to the three countries situated on its northwestern frontier. . . .

Plan Wedding Today

[Acme Photo.]

Prince Mahmud of Trengganu, a Malay state, and Joyce Blencowe, a chiropodist, whom he plans to marry today.

OXFORD, England, May 31.—(AP)—A Malay prince whose romance here with the daughter of an Oxford tailor blossomed despite his sultan brother's disapproval has now come of age and plans to marry her tomorrow.

Friends said that the young man, Prince Mahmud, also had finally overcome family opposition during his period of waiting and that a civil ceremony uniting him and 21 year old Joyce Blencowe, a chiropodist, would be held in the registry office in St. Giles, Oxford.

They have reserved a suite aboard the liner Corfu, sailing on Friday for Malaya. The question of a second ceremony in the prince's country, Trengganu, is to be decided there. Trengganu is in Malaya and is an unfederated state a little smaller than New Jersey.

The prince was persuaded to continue private studies at Oxford until he reached his majority after a series of spectacular incidents last August. Then, the young prince returning after finishing his studies, deserted his homeward bound ship at Marseilles and took an airplane back to England, determined to marry Miss Blencowe.

BRITAIN GLOOMY; HOPE OF LINING UP RUSSIA IN WAR ALLIANCE FADES

LONDON, May 31.—(AP)—Hopes that soviet Russia can be brought into the British-French bloc suffered a severe jolt tonight as a result of Moscow's rejection of Great Britain's latest proposals.

Some saw a ray of hope in the fact that the soviet premier and foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, who announced the rejection in Moscow, did not rule out further negotiations. However, the stinging implications of his speech before the soviet parliament left little room for optimism.

Whether Britain was prepared to continue negotiations and offer still further concessions had not been decided. No decision was expected to be made before Prime Minister Chamberlain returns from a fishing trip and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax comes back from a holiday in the country.

Allies May Try Again.

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov's criticism of the French-British proposals for a mutual assistance pact dealt a rude shock to France today. However, diplomatic sources said fresh efforts would be made to bring soviet Russia into the London-Paris camp. Official quarters declined to make any direct comment.

GERMANY HAILS HEROES OF WAR BACK FROM SPAIN

Signs Nonaggression Pact with Denmark.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, May 31. — Guns roared their welcome in Hamburg today for the German legion returning after almost three years of war in Spain, where they helped to establish the dictatorial rule of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, a friend.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering welcomed the fighters in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's name and gave homage to the dead of the legion.

"It had to bear heavy losses. It is now the holiest duty of the German nation to remember these dead forever. Their names will live on—may that be a consolation to their grief."

How many died and who they were still is being kept secret from the German people. Seven of the dead were honored with golden crosses presented to relatives this evening.

5,000 Get Goering's Praise.

Early in the morning fog settled over the Elbe river, delaying the arrival of the transport ships. In the afternoon 5,000 veterans of the legion, the Condor, left the ships and assembled in the Hamburg park to receive the praises of Field Marshal Goering.

The field was decorated with German and Spanish banners, Falangist [Spanish Fascist] arrows and four imposing anti-aircraft guns. The first rows of the platforms were filled with Spanish and Italian officers escorted by German officers, with a few Hungarians and Jugo-Slavs present.

Goering walked down the front of the troops, his marshal's baton in hand and preceded by the marshal's banner. He praised the bravery of the German soldiers, making it clear that the Germans were the first to go to the aid of the Spanish rebels and almost ignoring Italian coöperation.

Four Medals Issued.

Four medals were issued by Hitler to reward his soldiers in Spain — a bronze medal for all of the soldiers, a silver one for the front fighters, a gold medal for special deeds before the enemy, and a cross made of gold and diamonds for extraordinary valor.

The anti-aircraft regiment Fuerth and the air force regiment Munich will carry on the tradition of the legion, wearing a special blue arm band with Condor legion embroidered on it in silver.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Goering presented golden crosses to twenty-four men in khaki and to fourteen in the air force uniform.

World War Risked.

That Germany's leaders realized the dangers they risked in the Spanish war was revealed today in Goering's newspaper, the Essener National Zeitung. It said:

"For Spain's sake, the reich government repeatedly risked a world war, that is to say, the future of the German nation. In addition, Germany has made financial sacrifices which must not be underestimated. As a result, a befriended nation was rescued from destruction and the Moscow international was defeated at a point which seemed most promising for bolshevism. The success justified your labor and sacrifices."

Only a part of the Germans back from Spain were in Hamburg. It is understood that on June 6, when the legion parades in Berlin, all the veterans will be present.

Sign Pact With Denmark.

The German press seized upon today's signing of a nonaggression pact with Denmark for renewed attacks upon what was termed "imperialistic democracies."

The text of the agreement will be published tomorrow. The Germans say it includes a stipulation that the Danish government will act to prevent press campaigns against Germany. Official Danish circles deny this.

New Tension Over Danzig.

Tension increased in Germany's relations with Poland. Nazi spokesmen in Danzig declared that peace overtures made by Warsaw to improve the relations between Danzig and Poland are inadequate and designed to obscure issues. Official Nazi sources state that 5,000 Germans fled from Poland and the corridor to Danzig to escape Polish persecution.

Nazis believe that the Polish issue will not reach a crisis this week.

MRS. HELEN VARNER VANDERBILT.

New York, May 31.—(AP)—Apparently too grief-shaken to talk over the telephone, Mrs. Helen Varner Vanderbilt, estranged wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., had a friend call New York from Los Angeles to ask about the fate of Thomas H. Smith, believed lost on a trans-Atlantic solo flight.

Smith's representative, Howard Huntington, disclosed today that Mrs. Vanderbilt, through her spokeswoman, begged for hope concerning Smith.

"I told here there was no news. Then she asked if Smith had left any letter or message for her. He hadn't," Huntington said.

"I don't know if they were engaged, but they were childhood sweethearts in Clarksburg, W. Va., where they both came from—and they had been going around a lot lately."

Huntington said Smith had been Mrs. Vanderbilt's business representative.

22,000 SOLDIERS, BULK OF ITALY'S UNITS, QUIT SPAIN

3,000 of Franco's Troops Sail with Them.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CADIZ, Spain, June 1 [Sunday].—Twenty-two thousand Italian legionnaires in Spain sailed for home today aboard eight transports sent for them by Premier Mussolini. The transports, escorted by the heavy cruiser Duke of Aosta, left here just before dawn.

With the legionnaires went the Spanish minister of interior, Ramon Serrano Suner, and 3,000 Spanish officers and men. It was explained that they were sent as a gesture of friendship and as proof of how closely the Berlin-Rome-Tokio lineup of powers is sticking together.

Suner, Spain's No. 2 public official, goes as the representative of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spain's ruler. The troops will see Italy's mighty military machine and take part in the italian legionnaires' victory parade in Italy, thus expressing thanks for the aid Italy gave the Nationalists in the civil war.

Spain Gives Warning.

Suner, said in a farewell speech that Spain and Italy were equally determined no longer to be poor relations and gave warning to any who might seek to bar their path. He said:

"We have a right to a place in the world and neither of us is willing to continue playing the rôle of poor relation. When our greatness is higher and more ample, woe to him who bars the road that is rightfully ours to travel in the world."

With the departure of the 22,000 legionnaires, the bulk of the Italian military forces in Spain had been withdrawn, leaving behind a wealth of ultra-modern fighting equipment. It will be stiffening for the Spaniards who take it over with a view to demonstrating that Spain can stand on its own feet with only a slight steadying hand.

Big Sendoff by Cadiz.

Cadiz, with official encouragement, gave an enthusiastic sendoff to the legionaries, who for two days had taken possession of the city in good humor at the prospect of returning home.

The waterfront was decorated with flowers, triumphal arches and long banners saying "Franco-Duce, Franco-Duce," in six foot letters. Every building visible from the dock had banners, flowers or other decorations.

Local newspapers were given up to the celebration with lyrical front page poems of farewell by both Italians and Spaniards. It was in striking contrast to the sober farewell to the Germans who sailed from Vigo last week. The Nazis left to the sound of their own band only, and did not participate in the open air mass and the ceremony of decorating Gen. Miguel Aranda, which were held while they were embarking nearby.

City Looses a Bedlam.

Cadiz was a bedlam at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon as the embarkation ended. Suner flew from Medina del Campo, where he attended a convention of the women's section of the Falange, a Fascist organization, and landed at Seville. He then drove here and went immediately to the pier. There he embraced the Italian leader, Gen. Gastone Gambara, in the Spanish fashion, throwing his arms around Gambara's neck and slapping him on the back.

That was a prearranged signal for every ship in the harbor to cut loose with its steam sirens, while the bells of all the city's many churches clanged a furious farewell.

Ciano Explains Rout.

MILAN, Italy, May 31.—(AP)—Italy intervened in the Spanish civil war a week after its outbreak, but it was the second power to take such action, according to Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign minister.

In an article in Gararchia, a political magazine published here, Ciano fixes the date of intervention as July 25, 1936. He states that the other power, which he does not name, earlier on the same day sent 25 planes from Marseilles, France, to assist the Spanish Republican [Loyalist] forces.

Dealing with the rout of Italian troops from Brihuega, Spain, in March, 1937, Ciano declared they were operating under extremely bad conditions.

Beset by glacial cold, fog, rain, and mud, and with their own aviation unable to intervene, Ciano said, the Italians were outnumbered by the best troops the Spanish Republicans had at their disposal, with planes and tanks to support them.

NAZIS ALLOW OUSTED PRELATE TEMPORARY LODGING IN PALACE

SALZBURG, Germany, May 31.—(AP)—Nazi authorities today permitted Archbishop Sigismund Waitz, the Catholic primate of Germany, to move temporarily into three rooms of the palace from which he found himself dispossessed yesterday upon returning from a trip.

Archbishop Waitz.

Reliable sources here said he would be allowed to stay until he was able to make other arrangements.

In the rest of the palace, meanwhile, the black uniformed schutzstaffel, or élite guard, in whose name the palace was occupied, have taken charge. Remodeling of the building to make offices for the SS already is under way.

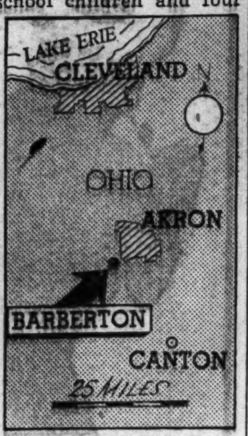
Akron, O., May 31.—[Special.]—Fifty-three school children and four adults were injured this afternoon in a gas explosion that wrecked a two story frame school house in suburban Barberton. The gas was believed to have leaked into the basement from a defective main.



Map locates scene of school blast.

Three children were injured so critically physicians fear they may die. Several others were in a serious condition.

More than 100 first to fifth grade pupils, between 6 and 11 years old, were in the building when the explosion occurred at 1:40 p. m. The blast blew out large sections of wall and ripped out the floors.

Buried Under Débris.

Screams of injured and frightened children could be heard as they were hurled from their desks. Some were buried in the débris.

Many children were saved by a freak of the explosion. The second floor buckled so that the flooring, sloping toward the ground, formed a perfect slide for pupils in the upper story. Observers said boys and girls came sliding out of the shattered building as though on a toboggan slide.

But others didn't come out until they were extricated and carried away. Some were protected by overturned seats but many were injured by falling timbers and the force of the blast hurling them against objects.

Given No Warning.

"There was no warning," related Miss Lena Moore, a first grade teacher and one of three teachers hurt. "One minute all was quiet and then there was a deafening roar.

"The walls of our room swayed and started to fold in. The children screamed and began running. Some ran one way and some another. Many of them didn't get away. It was awful."

One mother, Mrs. Aldena Johnson, ran screaming from her home across the street and pulled her daughter, Arletta, 6 years old, from under a desk. The girl was not injured seriously.

The three children not expected to live are Dorothy Young, 6 years old, and Frances Fisher, 7, who apparently suffered brain injuries, and Lucinda Williams, 7, Negro, fractured skull.

Paul S. White, janitor of the school and one of four adults injured, said he was burning papers in the furnace when the explosion occurred.

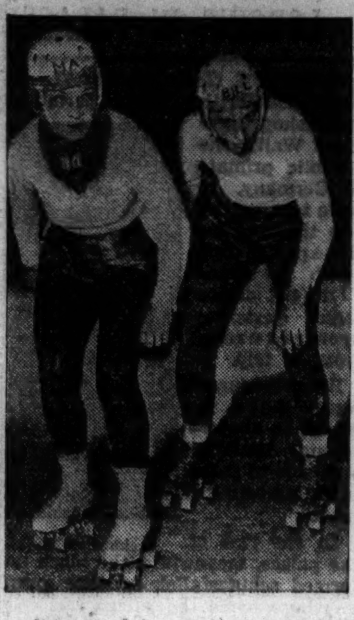
Teammates

(Story in Adjoining Column.)



Josephine (Ma) Bogash and her son Willie, a popular roller Derby team which is causing husband and father such anguish he has sued for $200,000.

MA HAS HER UPS AND DOWNS; PA WANTS DAMAGES

Says Her Roller Skating Embarrasses Him.

Josephine [Ma] Bogash, a plump, red haired woman of 40, zips around the roller skating tracks with speed that dazzles rivals half her age. She's a great favorite with the crowds at the Coliseum and other arenas around the country where roller Derbies are held.

But even Ma has her ups and downs. Occasionally, in the middle of a sprint, she skids and falls. The crowds whoop. Ma whoops, too, and calls for arnica and a pillow. But most embarrassed of all is her husband, Richard, 45, of 5135 South Trumbull avenue.

Wants $200,000 Damages.

Bogash charged yesterday in a suit filed in Circuit court that Ma's roller antics had damaged his good name and reputation $200,000 worth. He demanded that sum from the Transcontinental Roller Derby association and Leo A. Seiltzer, promoter and manager of the races.

Bogash, in his petition filed by Attorney Charles E. Davis, complained that his wife has taught their son, Willie, 22, to be a roller skater, too, and that right now they're skating as a team in a Pacific coast Derby.

"In the course of the races," the petition said, "there are numerous falls in which the limbs of the plaintif's wife and other parts of her body are exposed to the gaze of a crowd of spectators."

Bogash referred to himself as a modest railroad engineer to whom such bodily display was offensive. He also suffers great mental anguish "because of the publicity attached to being the husband and father of roller skating champions and addicts."

Objects to Thrills, Spills.

Bogash objects to all the features of roller Derbies that Promoter Seltzer likes. At the drop of a ball bearing Seltzer will point out that the sport has the blocking element of football, the jams and spills of six day bike racing, and the speed of hockey.

Worst of all, Bogash said, is the fact that he has to stay home and do the housework while Ma and Willie roll merrily along. And then there are the cats. They're Ma's. She raises 'em in quantities, and they spit, claw, and howl at Mr. Bogash when she goes away.

FAST DELIVERY OF CLIPPER MAIL SHOWN BY TEST

The speed with which the clipper planes now flying the Atlantic ocean can carry mail to Europe is demonstrated by the swiftness with which letters from the Tribune office reached correspondents of this paper in Europe. The letters were mailed from Chicago on May 19, specially stamped and marked for consignment to the Yankee Clipper which, from its New York base, was to inaugurate transoceanic mail service the next day.

On receipt of its letter, the Berlin bureau of the Tribune cabled:

"Airmail letter of May 19, stamped in New York on May 20 at 9 a. m., and at Marseilles, France, on May 22 at 8 p. m., arrived in Berlin on May 24 at noon."

The Baltic bureau, with its offices in Riga, Latvia, cabled:

"Airmail letter arrived in Marseilles on May 22 and it was delivered in Riga on the morning of May 25. It would have been delivered yesterday [May 24] if it had been stamped special delivery. Anyway, this is record time."

The planes will begin transporting passengers late in June.

Woman Sets New Altitude Record for Small Planes

Glendale, Cal., May 31.—(AP)—A new altitude mark of slightly more than 20,000 feet for a plane of less than 500 cubic inch engine displacement was set here today by Grace Huntington, young Hollywood screen writer.

CITY WILL REVIEW ITS OWN CADET ARMY TOMORROW

8,362 Will March at Noon on Michigan Avenue.

Col. W. F. Morrison, who will deliver radio address on Cadet day parade.

Chicago's own cadet army—8,362 strong—will march up Michigan avenue tomorrow in America's largest R. O. T. C. demonstration. The review, sponsored annually by the board of education and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will climax a year's training in citizenship, leadership, and efficiency for boys in twenty-seven public high schools and St. Mel's Catholic High school.

Thousands of persons are expected to line the avenue between Balbo avenue and Randolph street during the noon hour as the twenty-eight uniformed regiments and battalions file past to military tunes from their four drum and bugle corps and their nineteen R. O. T. C. bands.

Colors to Be Presented.

A prolog to the parade will begin at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow in the Grant park bandshell. There sets of the colors will be presented to the Tilden Technical High school and Crane Technical High school units. Last Monday they were chosen first and second best trained units in the city, respectively. The selection was made after a three weeks' federal inspection. The presentation will be made by Col. Virgil L. Peterson, chief of staff of the 6th corps area, before the massed cadets. THE TRIBUNE donates the flags to the two outstanding units each year.

After the Schurz High School R. O. T. C. band plays the national anthem, concluding the presentation ceremony, the Tilden and Crane regiments will lead the parade north on Columbus drive to Balbo avenue, west to Michigan avenue, and north to Randolph street, where the boys will turn east and disband. The St. Mel High school unit of 750 cadets will march third. Lane Tech's 950 cadets will form the largest unit.

Students to Get Day Off.

Col. William F. Morrison, professor of military science and tactics for the 27 public high school units, will deliver an address on the Cadet day parade at noon today over station W-G-N.

Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson has announced that all high school students and seventh and eighth grade elementary school pupils who present written petitions from their parents will be dismissed from school for the day to witness the spectacle.

Marching in the van of the parade will be Cadet Colonel Daniel Workman of Roosevelt High school and his ten staff officers, all chosen by competitive examination to lead the Chicago R. O. T. C. Capt. Ward Jenssen Steinmetz High school's national champion baton twirler, will appear in his white exhibition uniform.

Mayor to Be in Reviewing Stand.

(Story in Adjoining Column.)

AL SMITH PUT ON STAND FOR MANTON DEFENSE

New York, May 31.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was the first witness called this afternoon for the defense at the conspiracy trial of former Judge Martin T. Manton, who is accused of selling judicial decisions. Prior to his resignation under fire in February, Manton was tenth ranking jurist in the United States as senior federal circuit judge here.

"What was his reputation for honesty?" Smith was asked.

"Of the very best!" he replied.

The trial before Judge W. Calvin Chesnut and a jury did not open today until 3 p. m., because of the illness of James M. Noonan, a defense attorney.

Smith was followed by James W. Davis, also a former Democratic candidate for President.

TODAY LAST DAY TO AVOID COUNTY TAX PENALTIES

County Treasurer John Toman yesterday warned taxpayers that tonight is the deadline for paying 1938 county taxes. After tonight bills will be subject to a penalty of 1 per cent for each month or fraction of a month that elapses before payment.

Doors of the county building will be open until 10 o'clock tonight to take care of the usual last minute rush, Toman said. Payments by mail must be postmarked before midnight to escape penalties. The deadline applies to personal property taxes for the full year of 1938 and the first of two instalments of the real estate levies. The second real estate instalment will be due Sept. 1.

Receipts at the county treasurer's office through last Monday night totaled $51,439,990, a gain of nearly 70 per cent over collections of $30,056,401 through June 26 of last year.

10 Kinds of Face Creams Called Enough for Nazis

BERLIN, May 31.—(AP)—Das Schwarze Korps, publication of the black uniformed élite guards, today urged that workers be shifted from the cosmetic industry to ease the national labor shortage, contending that cosmetics manufacture was "humbug anyway." The paper suggested also that the number of beauty parlor employés be reduced, declaring, "There is no need for 200 various kinds of face creams. Ten are sufficient."

JUST SCRATCHED TOP, TWO SAY OF ST. CHARLES QUIZ

Minority Report Demands Further Study.

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—[Special.]—A governor's commission to make a further study of conditions at the St. Charles School for Boys was recommended today in a minority report signed by two members of the legislative committee which investigated the unwalled institution.

Although they agreed with many points in the majority report of the other eight members, Senators A. L. Marovitz and Peter P. Kielminski, Chicago Democrats, declared that the recent inquiry merely scratched the surface of the subject.

The main concern of the proposed commission, said the minority report, should be to determine why an institution dedicated to reform rehabilitates so small a percentage of the boys placed there.

Only 15 Per Cent Rehabilitated.

It is estimated that only 15 per cent of the inmates are permanently reclaimed for society.

Both reports agree as to the need for an intermediate institution which would take the oldest inmates from St. Charles and the youngest from Pontiac reformatory. They also agree on the desirability of a program of military training at the school.

No one convicted of a felony should be placed in the school, regardless of age, according to both groups. That all felons should be tried in the Criminal court rather than in the Juvenile court also is agreed.

"The Juvenile court act requires complete revision," wrote Marovitz, formerly an assistant state's attorney in the Cook county Criminal court. "It is recommended that the Juvenile court be given no jurisdiction over 'criminal delinquents'—those from 10 to 17 who commit any crime more serious than a misdemeanor."

Rap Dual Parole Systems.

At present there are two parole systems in operation at the school. Inmates committed by Criminal courts are under the state parole board, while those from Juvenile courts may be paroled by the St. Charles staff. The minority report urges that all be placed under the St. Charles parole officers.

Minority members agree that the superintendent of the institution, from which thirty-nine inmates escaped since Jan. 1, should be given full authority to dismiss incompetent employés, including those under civil service.

Women employés, with the exception of nurses, should be eliminated, the minority report declares.

Heroine in Tragedy

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Marie Watson, 16, in hospital after she tried to save lives of four brothers.

Clinton, Okla., May 31.—(AP)—A heroic girl who sensed danger in the "quinine capsules" her destitute mother gave her and four other children saved all except one from death by poison. Marie Watson, 16 years old, ran seven blocks to a hospital yesterday with her 6 year old brother Jerry in her arms. But he died from deadly effects of capsules his mother had given him.

Behind her, screaming, ran Bobbie, 14; David, 12, and Joe, 9. All four collapsed as Marie gasped out her story, but staff physicians quickly revived them with emergency treatment.

Sherif Everett Stambaugh said the mother, Mrs. Ida Watson, 34, was found in her tourist cabin home with a six inch gash in her throat, self-inflicted with a butcher knife.

INDUSTRY PEACE BILL IS KILLED BY ILLINOIS SENATE

will have to enact laws to make them do it!"

Bill Outlaws Sitdowns.

The Lantz bill would have outlawed sitdown strikes, secondary boycotts [of premises not directly involved in disputes], and so called stranger [non employé] picketing. A state board would have been created to hear evidence of unfair practices by either employers or employés, concerning membership and strikes.

Union officials would have to make annual financial accountings of dues to members. Deductions of union dues from wages by employers without the written consent of workers would have been banned. Ten days' notice of strikes was required by the bill.

"This is purely an anti-labor measure," said Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman and majority floor leader. "We should act quickly. It aims to destroy all those things that labor has fought and bled for through the years. Kill it and kill it now!"

Stelle Rules for Vote.

Earlier Daley's motion to kill the bill was not recognized by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, presiding officer. He suggested that it be re-referred to the senate committee on public welfare. A motion to this effect was about to be lost when roll call was halted and Stelle permitted the vote.

"I reserve the right to change my mind," Stelle said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—[Special.]—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago told a state conference on social legislation today that their primary reflections should be on relief—both urban and rural. Some 250 delegates representing labor and other organizations heard the mayor.

"It is not enough that our people should not starve," the mayor said. "There should be some guarantee of the minimum essentials of health and decency that are a part of our American standard of living.

"Humanity is foremost in any of your calculations and every safeguard must be set up to care for the jobless, salvage the underprivileged, and reclaim those unfortunates who have been victims of an economic system thrown out of gear and in need of overhauling."

The mayor made a plea for closer coöperation between industry and agriculture.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SEEK TO INDICT CLERK TODAY IN SLAYING OF GIRL

Quiz Started on Killer's Gun Permits.

Indictment of Athon Papas on a charge of murder will be asked today by Richard Devine, assistant state's attorney.

Papas is the quick-trigger clerk and special policeman who shot and killed Miss Muriel Campbell, 18 years old, as she fled early Tuesday from a fruit market at 5624 North avenue. Papas shot her after she and another girl had broken a watermelon.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict that the killing was murder and ordered Papas held for the grand jury.

Launch Quiz on Gun Permit.

An investigation meanwhile was begun to determine why Papas' special policeman's permit was not taken from him after he had shot two other persons while acting as armed clerk in other fruit markets. Authorities insisted on learning why police certified him as a man of excellent character and continued to issue him gun permits after the first shooting, which was in 1934.

Law requires the investigation by police of applicants for appointment as special policemen to make certain they have no criminal record. The police commissioner then issues the permit.

First Victim Tells of Shooting.

Papas' first victim was Edward H. Hilmes of 5017 North Wolcott avenue, a salesman. He was standing in front of a fruit market at Addison street and Central avenue, where Papas was employed, on July 11, 1934.

"I was just standing there talking with another man," said Hilmes, "when Papas came out and told us to move on. We didn't move, and he started to rave at us, calling me a dirty name. At that I took off my glasses and spun around. Then he shot. The bullet hit me in the hip."

Hilmes said Judge Justin F. McCarthy fined Papas $25 and placed him on probation. Papas said the charge was dismissed. The record of the case has vanished from the police bureau of identification.

Named Church Policeman."

At any rate, police investigators decided that Papas was a fit person to be trusted with a gun and a special policeman's star last June when he was appointed special policeman for the Assumption church at Harrison street and Central avenue.

With the church pistol permit as his authority, Papas shot Herbert Winkelhake last Oct. 13 in a market at 3235 Irving Park road. Winkelhake, who is 32 years old, lives at 3333 Warren boulevard. He had gone to the market with his wife and their daughter. They made some selections, according to the story Mrs. Winkelhake told last night in her husband's absence, and Papas began to add the bill.

"He charged 15 cents for a melon that had been marked 10 cents," Mrs. Winkelhake said. Papas said that the 10 cent price applied to some other melons. Herbert told him the price should have been on the right melons.

In Hospital 26 Days.

"Papas said: 'You mind your business and I'll take care of mine.'

"Herbert told him he wouldn't take the groceries. The little girl and I walked out and then Herbert came out, shot.

"He was taken to the Bridewell hospital. He was there twenty-six days."

Police records showed that Papas was freed by Judge Matthew Hartigan of a charge of assault with intent to kill in this case, although Papas said he was placed on probation.

Papas' gun was returned to him. His permit was not taken from him, although it gave him authority to carry a gun only at the church. Mrs. Winkelhake said that a policeman protested against returning Papas' gun, but that the judge waved him away, saying: "I don't care to hear anything about that."

Companions Tell of Shooting.

The companions who were with Miss Campbell when she was shot told Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein and the jury the same story at the inquest that they told police. One of the principal witnesses was Miss Helen Freilich, 16 years old, of 5522 Jackson boulevard. She and Miss Campbell had been playing catch with the watermelon that caused the shooting. Papas quarreled with Harry Feigenbaum, 18, of 5547 Congress street, another of the group, and then opened fire.

Muriel's brother Robert, 16, testified that Muriel drove him home to 1228 Maple avenue, Berwyn, before the shooting. As he left the stand he lunged at Papas, a husky man of 55, and beat him.

Every one within striking distance joined in the fight that followed in the undertaking rooms at 3021 Fullerton avenue, where the inquest was held. Police interceded. Boys from Austin High school began swinging their fists. So did Papas' son, Louis, and Miss Campbell's father, William J. Campbell. Even one of the jurors, with an American Legion button in his lapel, got into the fight. When order was restored Papas had a black eye.

Blaze Started by Blasts Destroys Texas Refinery

Talco, Tex., May 31.—(AP)—A spectacular fire set off by a series of terrific explosions tonight destroyed the refinery of the Paluxy Asphalt company. The fire enveloped the entire plant and roared out of control. Firefighters from nearby towns devoted their efforts to preventing its spread to other buildings. C. W. Moore, a refinery workman, was taken to a hospital, where his condition from burns was reported critical.

SUGAR IMPORTER HELD IN THEFT OF MILLION DOLLARS

Confesses Use of Fake Warehouse Receipts.

New York, May 31.—(AP)—Carlos G. Garcia, a sugar importer whose firm was placed in receivership last Wednesday, was arrested today on a charge of stealing $1,070,427.

Assistant District Attorney Frank A. F. Severance, in whose office Garcia was taken into custody, said the importer had admitted obtaining the money by use of fictitious sugar warehouse receipts.

Garcia, who is 45 years old, is president of the Garcia Sugars corporation of Wall street. He also has interests in Standard Sugars corporation, the International Trading company, and the Insular Terminal company of Long Island City.

Books Reveal Operations.

Garcia Sugars went into receivership last week on application of the National Sugar Refining company, American Sugar Refining company, and Lee & Simmons, a lighterage concern, which charged in federal court the Garcia firm owed them more than $400,000 and that liabilities were more than $1,000,000 in excess of assets.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office subpenaed Garcia's books, which Assistant District Attorney Severance said showed that, beginning in 1937, Garcia received large loans from the Chase National bank and the Clinton Trust company, obtaining them with sugar warehouse receipts.

Severance quoted Garcia as saying about 90 per cent of these receipts were faked. The money was used, he said, to meet losses suffered through trading in sugar futures and through repudiation of contracts by purchasers in the face of a falling market.

Loans Called by Banks.

When the banks called their loans, Severance said, they were paid off in the worthless receipts or with money raised by sale of such receipts. The transactions continued until this month, Severance said.

Severance said that among firms suffering losses were Paine, Webber & Co., Nortz & Co., Neichelag & Co., Curacao Trading company, Little & Christian, and F. I. du Pont & Co., in addition to the refiners who brought about the receivership.

EXPECT PARENTS TO DEMAND MORE FOREST PATROLS

Increased patrols in the forest preserve district may be demanded by parents of Berwyn children attending the J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero. The demands are expected to result from scandals involving three school girls and fifty boys.

The problem was discussed yesterday when five members of the Berwyn Parent-Teachers' association executive council, representing four elementary schools in Berwyn, met to renew their efforts to obtain a high school for Berwyn. They agreed that overcrowding in Morton High school, lack of recreational facilities in Berwyn, and sale of liquor to minors in west suburbs were partly responsible for the delinquencies.

"All we can do in our capacity as the Parent-Teachers' association is to ask our members to seek enforcement of the laws," said Mrs. Samuel Kaar, chairman of the executive council. "We do not blame the administration of Morton for laxity—the trouble is that the school is overcrowded."

IN THE WORLD OF WORDS (2)

By CALEB

THE forebears of the English language are scattered all over the world. That fact alone accounts for only part, however, of the fascinations of word-study mentioned in an earlier statement in this space. A delight still more intriguing is that of uncovering the hidden traits and characteristics of words, hidden beneath exteriors so familiar to us that we have forgotten whence they sprang. Discovering its ancestry, for example, gives new depth and meaning to the most ordinary term . . . yet how few of us ever form this habit of closer acquaintance, or acquire these extra values buried under the surface of language!

In practically any university curriculum, one major subject is that of Philology, or the study of speech. The word itself illustrates our point; for on analysis, we find it to be the modern offspring of two Greek parents: philos, meaning "loving," and logos, meaning "speech." It is to Greek, in fact, that our native tongue is indebted for hundreds of similar words which give it classic flavor, cultural grace, and an essential scientific exactitude.

Even more is our language indebted, however, to the ancient Romans for such qualities as flexibility, melody, euphony and beauty: the sonority of its oratory, and the stylistic variety of its literature.

When the schoolboy opens to his first sentence in Cæsar's "Commentaries," Omnia Gallia in tres partes divisa est, he little realizes how a sound knowledge of Latin, if faithfully acquired and applied, can aid his effective and comprehensive use of English throughout later life. Nearly two-thirds of any fine vocabulary, in fact, traces its lineage directly to the medium of Cicero, Vergil, Tacitus, Horace, Plautus and Pliny. . . .

As for the stout and homely terms that interpret everyday life and its interests—these were embedded in English by the early Angles, Saxons, Danes and Teutons. From them we derive mother, father, sister, brother, hearth, good, bad, health, toil, wealth, life, death—hundreds of words that add a rugged substance and strength to the texture of modern talk and print.

On home-environment, and the speech-habits of parents and family, depends the success of every growing child's first adventure into the domain of diction. But to an importantly greater degree, the coming generation's feeling for, and skill in using, expressive English also depends on the educator. He it is who has most to do with unveiling to curious minds the magic and mystery of words, and the lifetime wealth of their meanings.

FAILURE TO NIP REDS IS BLAMED ON WHITE HOUSE

Gen. Moseley Airs Views at Dies Inquiry.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 31.—[Special.]—Five minutes of action in the White House could save the United States from the threat of communism, Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, retired, today told the house committee investigating un-American activities.

The army is being prevented from taking steps to protect the nation from enemies within its gates, Gen. Moseley asserted. It has been told not to investigate communism within the ranks and without, he charged.

Asked by a committee member who was responsible for this order, Gen. Moseley replied:

Denies Anti-Semitic Drive.

Gen. Moseley had been summoned before the committee after previous witnesses had testified he had been suggested as the head of an organization composed mainly of anti-Semitic societies. He admitted that such proposals had been made to him but he had refused. Sympathizing with the patriotic aims of some of the organizations, he does not agree to their methods, he declared.

The sixty-four year old veteran, who retired last fall after 39 years of service, was a vehement witness who emphasized his points by pounding the table before him and raising his voice. The climax of his testimony came when he was being interrogated by Representative Jerry Voorhis, radical Democrat, who was placed on the committee to protect the administration.

"You are sympathetic with the Nazi and Fascist movements in this country?" asked Voorhis. "You feel they are right?"

Call Communism Disease.

"I have often said," responded Gen. Moseley, "that those organizations on the right are going to continue in some form or the other just so long as the disease of communism exists. You have the disease on the one hand, the anti-toxin on the other. The organizations you refer to are at least trying to sustain our democracy. The communists are trying to destroy it."

"Then you believe we should put ourselves in the hands of the organizations of the right?" asked Voorhis.

"Not at all," replied Gen. Moseley emphatically. "It ought to be handled in five minutes from the White House!"

Over the protests of several Democratic members, the witness was allowed to explain what he believes the President could do.

Would Fire Communists.

"If I were in the White House," the general said, "I'd issue an order immediately to discharge every communist in the government and every one giving aid and comfort to communism.

"Then I'd release the army from its present position. It can make plans to attack Germany, Japan, or Italy, but it can't do a damn thing to defend itself from the enemy within. They have been told not to investigate anything or any one."

After Gen. Moseley had said that this order presumably came from the President, he was reproached by Representative John J. Dempsey [D., N. M.] for criticizing the President.

"I said I guessed the order came from the President," Gen. Moseley remarked. "I am not criticizing the President. I am criticizing the policy now governing the army with reference to enemies within our gates."

Gives Craig Information.

Gen. Moseley's testimony regarding restrictions placed upon the army had added significance because he has been in touch recently, he told the committee, with Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff of the army.

He said he saw Gen. Craig during May and two months previously. He gave Gen. Craig information about communistic activities and was thanked for it, he said.

Representative Voorhis asked Gen. Moseley if he regards the German-American bund led by Fritz Kuhn as a patriotic organization.

"I do believe that the bund—the German as I know him—is trying to see to it that the communists do not take over the country," replied the general.

"They have no further aim—to take over the country themselves?" inquired Voorhis.

Questioned by Counsel.

Committee Counsel Rhea Whitly questioned Gen. Moseley at length regarding a meeting held in the Jamaica, N. Y., home of Mrs. Rudyard Uzzell on May 5.

Kuhn, the bund leader, was one of the forty guests at the meeting, Gen. Moseley said. The others were representatives of various patriotic organizations, he said.

"I was invited to Mrs. Uzzell's home," he told the committee. "Unknown to me, she had invited these others."

"Was the house guarded by Kuhn's men?" Whitly asked.

"I saw no evidence of it," replied Gen. Moseley. "I saw no one in uniform. There may have been attempts at secrecy on Mrs. Uzzell's part, but not on mine."

"Did you know Mrs. Uzzell was active in spreading anti-Jewish propaganda?" asked Whitly.

"I know she is interested in the very critical situation in New York City," was the reply.

Assumed Name Suggested.

The committee counsel then brought out that Gen. Moseley had planned to register under an assumed name at a hotel when he went to New York in answer to Mrs. Uzzell's invitation. He said he had intended to do this at Mrs. Uzzell's suggestion, but had not done so.

"What was the purpose of this gathering?" Moseley was asked.

"A patriotic purpose," he replied.

"Wasn't the purpose to discuss plans for setting up a national organization with you as the head?"

"Not at all! Not at all!" was the emphatic answer.

Gen. Moseley said he received volumes of literature from patriotic organizations. After he had denied sending this literature to any other person, he was confronted with a letter he had written to James N. Wilkerson of Kansas City, Mo., in which he enclosed four pamphlets. He wrote Wilkerson that the pamphlets were "authentic."

Unfortunate Choice of Word.

"The writers of those pamphlets are engaged in disseminating anti-Semitic propaganda," the witness was told. "Do you approve of that?"

"I don't say I approve of it," said Gen. Moseley. "Perhaps there was an unfortunate use of the word 'authentic.'"

The witness referred frequently to the "emergency" which exists in the United States. Asked to state the nature of this emergency, he declared:

"It strikes me there is a very serious emergency in the United States. I think it is due to our economic situation, to the subversive activities throughout the United States, and to the effort from coast to coast to get us involved in war."

Gen. Moseley attempted frequently to read from a statement he had prepared. Prevented from doing so, he finally exclaimed angrily:

"You don't want to know about the emergency! You don't want to know about subversive activities!"

Quizzed About Speeches.

Whitly produced copies of a number of speeches made by Gen. Moseley since his retirement from the army last fall. The general was questioned concerning anti-Semitic utterances he had made in these talks.

"I believe the Jews largely control the radio, movies, the press and the banks of this country," he testified. "And it is also true that 90 per cent of the communists are usually Jews. I was told that recently by an authority on the coast."

Asked for the name of this authority, Gen. Moseley was reluctant, but finally identified him as Gen. Van Deman, retired, who was active in the intelligence department of the army before retirement.

"He has kept up his investigating since he retired," Gen. Moseley told the committee.

Says Rabbi Slurred Flag.

In a speech at Indianapolis the general had quoted a Jewish rabbi of Atlanta, Ga., as describing the American flag as "a worthless piece of bunting."

The committee pressed Gen. Moseley for the name of the rabbi. He continued to protest, but finally said he referred to Rabbi Marx of Atlanta and the statement regarding the flag was made at the annual dinner of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. The committee decided to subpena Rabbi Marx.

"I am just as much for the patriotic Jew as the patriot of any other nationality," he continued. "But I believe the Jews are uniting to force the administration to compel Hitler to reinstate the Jewish refugees in Germany even at the cost of war."

The general was quizzed at length regarding anti-Semitic statements in a speech delivered at Springfield, Ill., on April 26. Sponsors of the speech were barred from a public hall, he said.

"The communistic opposition to that speech came from Chicago, from Peoria, from as far away as Ohio," he told the committee.

The hearing adjourned until tomorrow with Gen. Moseley still attempting to read his prepared statement.

"Who are you trying to protect?" he challenged the committee.

The members finally agreed to permit the statement to be read tomorrow.

Mrs. Betty Steele, 23 years old, a photographer's model, was given an uncontested divorce on the ground of cruelty yesterday from William Steele, 27 years old, a bond broker. At a hearing before Judge Rudolph Desort, Mrs. Steele testified her husband struck her twice, on Feb. 13 and on March 2, the day they separated. They were married, she said, on May 2, 1937, at Crown Point, Ind., and had no children. Mrs. Steele, who lives at 949 Foster avenue, waived alimony.

William R. Skidmore.

Annenberg is a multimillionaire who controls a large part of the race information services in the United States. Skidmore has been placed under investigation on the claim that he withheld payment on large amounts of income derived from gambling syndicates.

It is Campbell's plan to keep the identity of the witnesses against both men secret. He said yesterday that so far as Skidmore is concerned, the government is interested only in tax collection, but that if evidence leads to the gambling situation in Chicago it will be thoroughly investigated.

Skidmore always has denied any connection with the gambling industry. His financial records for the last two years, however, have been examined by E. Riley Campbell, special agent of the internal revenue department. Skidmore owns seven farms near McHenry, Ill.

PROSPERITY PUTS TENANTS OUT OF LOW COST HOMES

Between 75 and 100 residents of three huge apartment buildings operated by the Chicago Housing authority have been or soon will be given sixty day eviction notices because they are too prosperous.

The buildings are the Jane Addams at Gilpin place and Sibley street, the Julia Lathrop at Diversey parkway and the river, and the Trumbull Park at 38th street and Cottage Grove avenue. They were built at a cost of $13,847,000 by the government and turned over to the city on lease. They have accommodations for 2,400 families.

Miss Elizabeth Wood, secretary of the housing authority, explained that federal regulations forbid renting to families whose income is more than five times the rent.

Rents range from $20 to $33.50 a month, including electricity and gas. Real estate brokers have estimated that private rentals in such buildings would range from $50 to $75.

Miss Wood said there were many applicants for the apartments that must be vacated.

Gets 3 Month Term 7 Hours After Breaking Into Car

At 3 a. m. yesterday Frank Gross threw a brick through the window of an automobile parked in front of the Standard club and began rifling the interior. He was arrested. In the Automobile court seven hours later Judge Jay A. Schiller sentenced him to three months in the Bridewell for tampering with the car. Gross, who is 33 years old, gave his address as 1706 Michigan avenue.

PRESIDENT ASKS EARLY CHANGE IN NEUTRALITY LAW

Chances for Revision Not So Good, He's Told.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt told congressional leaders at a White House conference today that he wanted action at this session on the administration's proposal to nullify the neutrality act to permit taking sides in advance of Europe's next war.

Because of this demand, the leaders were unable to tell the President when congress might be expected to adjourn.

Mr. Roosevelt had planned to leave on a political trip to the west coast about June 15 if it appeared that congress would not adjourn until late in the summer. If congress could adjourn by July 15, he had intended to postpone his trip until that date. At today's conference, it was agreed to consider the issue again Monday before reaching a final decision.

House May Defeat Scheme.

Mr. Roosevelt was informed that the administration's program to revise the neutrality act, as expressed last Saturday by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, might even meet defeat in the house of representatives. In the senate, a powerful bi-partisan group of neutrality advocates have constituted themselves a "battalion of death" for the purpose of filibustering, if necessary, to defeat the Hull proposal.

Heretofore it has been assumed in administration quarters that the legislation to revise the neutrality act could be shoved through the house, under a gag rule, without difficulty. Mr. Roosevelt was told today that there is doubt about getting the bill reported favorably by the house foreign affairs committee, about getting a suitable rule from the rules committee, and, finally, about rounding up a house majority for the legislation.

The purpose in postponing final decision on the adjournment date until Monday was to give house leaders an opportunity for a canvass of the situation.

Senate Awaits House Action.

Present at the conference were Vice President John N. Garner, Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the senate; William B. Bankhead, speaker of the house, and Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], the house majority leader.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and the administration's spokesman on neutrality legislation, manifested little enthusiasm for a showdown on the issue at today's regular meeting of his committee. Action was postponed until June 14, presumably to ascertain first what the house will do about the legislation.

Pittman agreed to ask Senator Hull whether he would like to submit, for the committee's consideration, a draft bill incorporating the proposals he made Saturday in letters to the chairman of the senate and house committees.

Would Allow Arms Sale.

Hull's program calls for repeal of the existing mandatory embargo on the shipment of arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerent nations. In effect, it would permit the sale of arms and war supplies to all belligerents provided they were paid for in cash and not transported in American ships.

The President would have authority to delineate combat zones, which American ships could not enter. American vessels could, however transport war supplies to the outlying possessions of belligerent nations.

The Hull scheme is designed to benefit Great Britain and France, which presumably would control the seas in a war with Germany and Italy. Senate neutrality advocates contend that it is unneutral and would lead the United States inevitably into Europe's next war.

MRS. ESTELLE GRIDZENKO.

Miss Esther Himelstein, 28 years old, came to the assistance of Charles Gridzenko, 30, a printer, when the need for $35 embarrassed him yesterday before Judge Rudolph Desort.

Gridzenko was in court on a complaint of his former wife, Estelle, of 3714 Roosevelt road. She divorced him in 1937 and charged that he was $35 behind on payments of $12 a week for support of their daughter Phyllis, 8.

When Gridzenko said he didn't have the money Miss Himelstein stepped up and offered to pay.

"What's your interest in this?" asked Judge Desort.

"I'm going to marry Charley next Sunday and I want to be sure he's there," said Miss Himelstein, who lives at 2640 Evergreen avenue. She paid and the two walked out together.

SENATE GROUP BEATS BARKLEY ON MOVIE BILL

Urge Adoption of Curb on Booking Abuses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 31.—[Special.]—A speech last Friday by Senator Matthew M. Neely [D., W. Va.] accusing President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley [D., Ky.], the majority leader, of blocking a bill to outlaw block booking and blind selling of motion picture films, produced results today. The senate interstate commerce committee reported the bill favorably by a vote of 15 to 3.

Senator Barkley, who was a member of the interstate commerce subcommittee which had the bill under consideration, was neither present nor accounted for this morning when that group voted 4 to 0 to report the bill without recommendation. Barkley also dodged the vote in the full committee this afternoon.

Exposes Link to Movies.

In his speech last week Neely held the floor leader of the New Dealers up before his colleagues as the representative of "the multi-billion dollar motion picture trust." He reviewed what he called "naked, unblushing, and uncomplimentary acts" of Barkley's efforts to chloroform the bill and referred significantly to a trip Barkley took to the Kentucky Derby last year.

It transpired that "Dear Alben" was the guest of Charles Pettijohn, a lobbyist for the movie interests. Also, it was reported on good authority that Barkley received a campaign contribution from the movie interests when he was up for nomination last year.

The motion picture producers and distributors have one of the most effective lobbies Washington ever has known, and there are reports that Barkley is not the only New Dealer who will be on the spot when the bill comes to a vote in the senate.

Hits James Roosevelt's Firm.

New Dealers inveigh against trusts and monopolistic practices, and Neely's bill is aimed at what he calls "the multi-billion dollar trust consisting of eight monster picture companies." One of the companies is Sam Goldwyn, Inc, of which James Roosevelt, son of the President, is vice president at a reputed salary of $50,000 a year.

Although only three senators—Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], Chan Gurney [R., S. D.], and Wallace White Jr. [R., Me.]—voted against reporting the bill, several others voted to report it only after reserving the right to oppose it in the senate.

Policeman Shot in Tavern Holdup Leaves Hospital

Policeman Edwin P. McIntyre of the Damen avenue station, who was wounded May 3 in a tavern holdup in which an undertaker was slain and a fellow policeman fatally wounded, was released yesterday from the Ravenswood hospital. He will recuperate in his home at 4421 North Rockwell street. Orville Watson and Edward Riley, former Michigan convicts, are awaiting trial on murder charges in connection with the shooting.

TRY TO REOPEN AUTO FACTORIES, THEN NEGOTIATE

Detroit, Mich., May 31.—[Special.]—Officials of the Briggs Manufacturing company and the United Automobile Workers were in conference all day today with James F. Dewey, federal conciliator, to determine whether the company's seven strike-bound plants would be reopened pending negotiations for a new contract. The meeting adjourned without a decision.

The strike was called a week ago today, a few hours before a contract extension would have expired. Both sides have agreed to abide by Dewey's decision on twenty-eight grievances, mostly covering union charges of unfair discharges and docking of workers. The grievances were the immediate cause of the strike. Dewey will rule on the grievances tomorrow.

R. J. Thomas, international president of the C. I. O. United Auto Workers' union, said the union would continue the strike until the chief points in the union's demands had been settled. This included the union shop clause, which the company opposes.

It was reported today that Homer Martin, head of the independent U. A. W. union, had threatened to call a strike in Briggs plants if the company gave exclusive bargaining rights to the C. I. O. division.

Dixie Weaves are cool

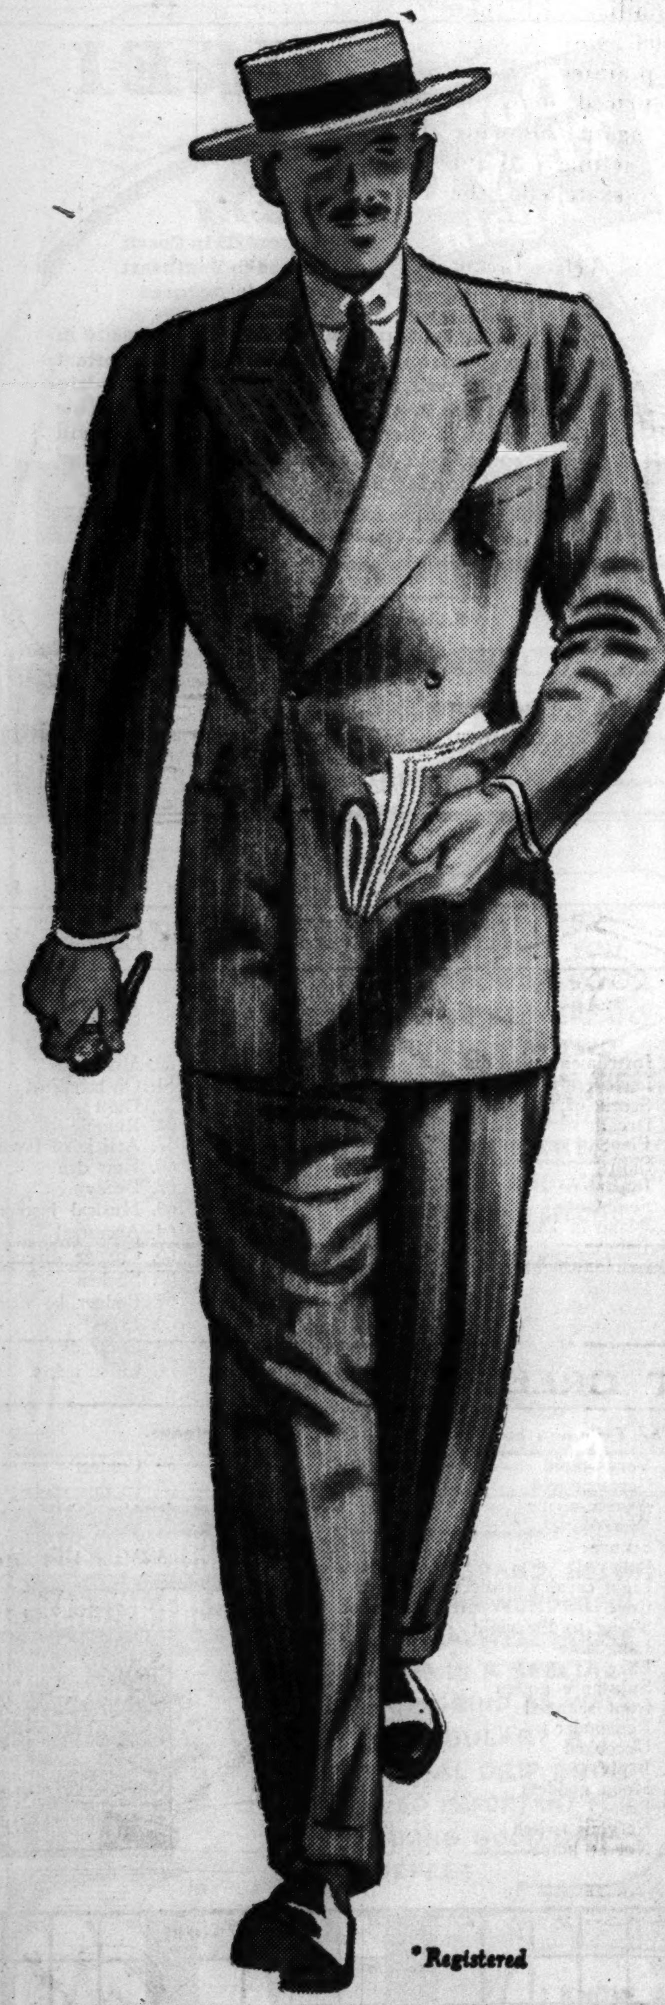
UNFAIR

TO MODERN MEN . . .

We've switched to Dixie Weave suits, the "Clothing of Tomorrow"*



NO MATTER whether you're covering miles on a sightseeing trip or simply the distance back and forth between your home and the office, a Dixie Weave Suit takes the misery out of the hottest sun—retains its well-groomed appearance even when the heat wilts other so-called summer suits to a bundle of wrinkles.

TO BE IN PRESS or not to be in press on days when the pavements sizzle—that is the question. Ordinary "summer suits" simply can't take it—but Dixie Weave keeps its crisp coolness because it's made of all-wool : : : and wool, in a summer suit, is cool and porous—holds its press remarkably well.

DANCING, working, driving your car, you can keep going all day and all evening long—and end up fresh, with a suit that's fresh, if you switch from soggy, unscientific clothing to a lightweight, refreshing, cool Dixie Weave by Hart Schaffner & Marx.

If the opinion of Baskin customers is any indication, once you wear this Hart Schaffner & Marx suit, you'll be its friend for life! A well-known research organization polled representative groups of Baskin customers with this startling result: Practically every one who had bought a Dixie Weave said his next summer suit would be a Dixie, too!

This overwhelming preference isn't only because Dixie Weaves are porous, cool and shape-retaining—it's also because Dixies are tailored with all the care and attention to detail that goes into the making of a regular weight Hart Schaffner & Marx suit.

That's why you'll be happy with Dixie's metropolitan smartness . . . whether you choose a single- or double-breasted drape, a sport back drape or a more conservative model. You'll be happy with its fit, too.

Our huge Dixie collection (the Midwest's largest) includes every size, every style-starred pastel shade, as well as darker colors suitable for business wear. Here are two featured fabrics:

DIXIE WORSTEDS are woven of very fine worsted yarns in 1939's pattern headliners—British Tick, Pencil Stripes and Window Panes. Colors: Teal and Willow Green, Navy Blue, Champagne and Malacca.

DIXIE CRASHES stole the spotlight last summer . . . and from the way they're starting out, they'll be an even bigger favorite this year. The beautiful, sparkling nubs and nub splashes lend rare individuality to these smart Dixie Crash Suits.

CANDIDACIES OF 4 IN JUDICIAL RACE TOLD IN REVIEW

Nominees Seek Posts on Superior Bench.

[This is the twenty-third and last of a series of stories on candidates in the judicial election Monday. Today's sketch discusses candidates for short terms on the Superior court bench.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Harry C. Moran, who is seeking a one year term on the Superior bench resulting from the death of Judge Ross C. Hall, was judge of the city court in Canton, Ill., from 1909 to 1921. In that period he frequently was called to sit in the Cook county Circuit and Superior courts and in the Municipal court.

He is one of the six Republicans indorsed in the bar association election, receiving 1,206 votes on 2,083 ballots. The bar committee on candidates reported that his previous service in Chicago courts was very satisfactory, and added: "He is vigorous, able, courteous, and a man of integrity and is well qualified for office."

Mr. Moran is 69 years old. He was born in Canton and was graduated with a law degree from the University of Illinois in 1908. After his service in the Canton court he moved to Chicago, returning to private practice. He was a candidate for Municipal court judge in 1930.

Mr. Moran is a widower and has a daughter. He lives at 5742 North Artesian avenue.

CHARLES C. KIRK IN RACE

Charles C. Kirk, candidate for a one year term in the Superior court to replace the late Judge Walter P Steffen, is an advocate of the city manager form of government. He has spoken in behalf of the plan at numerous meetings.

Mr. Kirk, who is 55 years old, was born in English Center, Pa., and received law degrees from the Chicago-Kent College of Law and De Paul university. He entered practice in 1912 and has specialized in cases relating to industrial diseases.

He is a director of the West Pullman Civic association and was attorney for the West Pullman park board for eight years prior to the consolidation of the park system. He is married and lives at 12255 Harvard avenue.

The bar committee commented on his extensive experience in state and federal courts. "In this type of professional service," the report said, "he is conscientious, prepares his cases well, and is fair in the presentation of evidence. He possesses legal ability and is qualified for office." In the bar election he received 821 votes on 2,083 ballots.

J. P. IMMEL SEEKS POST

Joseph P. Immel, candidate for the two and a half years of the unexpired term of the late Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court, has been an attorney in Chicago for twenty-nine years. He is a native Chicagoan and is 50 years old.

He was educated in public and parochial schools and received his degree from the John Marshall Law school in 1909, entering practice the next year. Most of his cases have been concerned with probate, chancery, and real estate matters. He is active in church organizations and holds memberships in several German clubs.

Mr. Immel is married and the father of four boys and three girls. His home is at 6201 McClellan avenue. The bar committee report on him said: "He is even tempered, patient, courteous, and fair minded. He possesses good legal ability and bears a good reputation for integrity, intelligent, sound judgment, and fair dealings. He is qualified." The lawyers gave him 452 votes on the 2,083 ballots.

O. A. KNITTEL IS CANDIDATE

Oscar A. Knittel is seeking a two and a half year term in the Superior court, the vacancy resulting from the death of Judge Harry B. Miller. Mr. Knittel is 46 years old and has practiced law in Chicago since 1915.

He was born in Wheeling, Ill., and received his degree from the Chicago Law school in 1912. From 1933 to 1937 he was attorney for the Berwyn public health district and the town board. He now is counsel for the Stickney township board and the Bedford park district. He is married, has two daughters, and lives at 3100 Maple avenue, Berwyn.

Of him the bar committee reported: "Although he is a lawyer of considerable experience, he appears to lack the temperament and capacity for judicial office. In our opinion he does not possess the requisite qualifications for a judge of the Superior court." He received 136 votes on 2,083 ballots in the bar election.

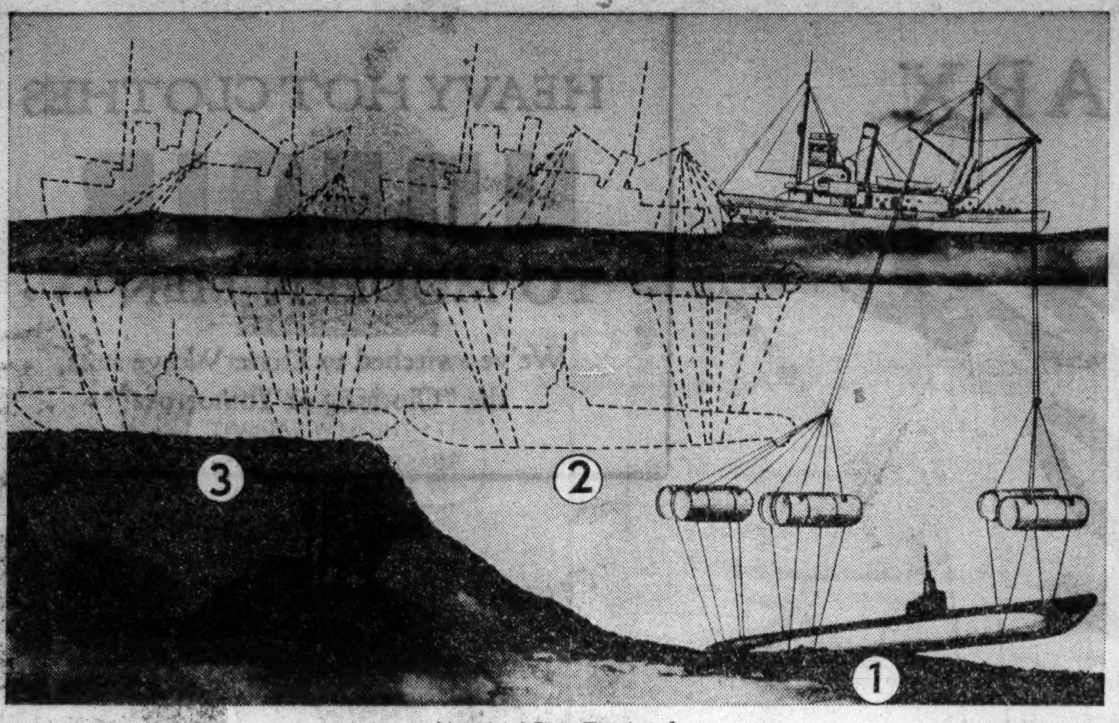
How Navy Hopes to Salvage Sunken Submarine



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Drawing of the preliminary steps in the navy's new plan to raise the Squalus from the ocean bottom. 1. Pontoons will be attached to the craft, then they will be pumped out. 2. The pontoons will rise to the surface, raising the craft off the bottom, and it will be turned around and towed toward shallower water. 3. The submarine will be grounded in less than 100 feet of water, where divers can work more easily to prepare for raising it.

G. O. P. CONFIDENT IN 17TH DISTRICT BENCH CONTEST

Republican leaders in the 17th judicial district said yesterday they were confident their three nominees for judge would be elected easily if voters turn out in force at the polls Monday. The counties in the district are Lake, McHenry, Boone, and Winnebago.

B. Jay Knight is the lone Democratic nominee. Democratic officeholders in the four counties and the C. I. O. labor organization, who are working hard for him, have leveled their attack on Judge Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan rather than his Republican running mates, Judge William L. Pierce of Belvidere and Thomas E. Gill of Rockford.

The C. I. O. opposition to Judge Dady grew out of his firm stand against violent disorders in strikes at two Lake county plants, the Fansteel company and the Chicago Hardware Foundry company. Under his judicial orders sitdowners were ousted from the Fansteel plant. Later thirty-seven men, charged with contempt of court, were sentenced to jail by another judge. These sentences were upheld by the United States Supreme court. Judge Dady sent ten men to jail for contempt in the hardware company case.

LAWMAKERS ASK REPORT ON MILK RULE IN 6 STATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—[Special.]—Amendments to a milk price control bill were submitted here today provoking heated debate in the house of representatives as to whether the proposed law would increase the price of milk to city housewives about 2 cents a quart. The discussion ended with Speaker Hugh Cross inviting Dr. H. A. Ruehe of the University of Illinois to appear before the legislature tomorrow afternoon with a report on his investigation of milk regulation in six other states.

Representative William G. Thon [R., Chicago] submitted one amendment providing that the board consist of two consumer representatives, two dealers, and two farmers. As the bill now stands it would consist of three dealers and three farm organization representatives.

Representatives Frank Ryan [D., Chicago], Raymond T. O'Keefe [D., Chicago], and Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago] objected to any advancement of the bill before the legislature hears from Dr. Ruehe's commission. The commission, named by Lieut. John Stelle, includes representatives of milk producers, union labor, consumers, and dealers. They were unanimous in finding milk price control in other states was detrimental to all these interests.

20 CITY JUDGES AGREE TO WAIVE TWO WEEKS PAY

Twenty of the thirty-seven judges of the Municipal court met yesterday in the office of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby and agreed unanimously that each would take a two weeks' vacation without pay. The chief justice said he expected the other seventeen to sign salary waivers for the same period.

The no-pay vacations were suggested by Mayor Kelly as a means of economizing on city expenses. City Controler Robert B. Upham said last night that about 90 per cent of the city employés who draw pay from the corporate fund—this includes firemen and policemen—had already come in voluntarily to support the plan.

Because many of the others are on vacations or absent from the city, Upham ruled that the deadline for Signing will be extended to June 15.

Survivors Aid Work

Portsmouth, N. H., May 31.—(AP)—Thirteen survivors of the sunken submarine Squalus worked aboard the salvage ship Falcon with their rescuers tonight to aid in raising the craft that holds entombed the bodies of twenty-six of their shipmates. Navy officials said their tasks would not take them into the 240 foot depths from which they were saved.

Divers put the control room and forward torpedo room of the submarine where there had been a very slight water leakage under 100 pounds air pressure to insure against further leakage and to add to the buoyancy of the forward compartments. The next of the exacting under-water tasks is to free the flooded after compartments and ballast tanks of water and get heavy chains beneath the mud imbedded stern to hold the huge pontoons which will be used in moving the vessel into shallower water.

A northeasterly course in the general direction of Portsmouth, which would move the Squalus just southwest of the inside of the tip of the Isles of Shoals seemed the best.

PAPER BOTTLES BEST FOR MILK, HEARING IS TOLD

Hundreds of scientific tests during the last two years have indicated clearly the superiority of paper milk containers over glass bottles from the standpoint of health and purity, Dr. Joseph Raymond Sanborn, Cornell university bacteriologist, testified yesterday before Federal Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman.

Dr. Sanborn was a witness for the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., which is seeking an injunction to restrain the Chicago board of health from interfering with the sale of milk in the recently devised paper bottles. The city has asserted that the paper containers do not measure up to the requirements set by Chicago's milk ordinance.

BIG RALLY TODAY FOR REPUBLICAN JUDGE NOMINEES

Expect 3,000 to Hear Capehart's Address.

The one big public demonstration of the Cook county judiciary campaign will be this noon in the ballroom of the Sherman hotel. It will be a luncheon of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league, with Homer E. Capehart as the principal speaker.

The twenty-six Republican nominees for the Circuit and Superior courts will be guests of honor, but Capehart, the man who organized the corn field conference on his farm near Washington, Ind., last year, is expected to deliver an ardent partisan appeal going far beyond the judicial election next Monday into the big national battle of 1940.

Edward F. McGinnis, chairman of the committee on arrangements, predicted attendance at the luncheon will reach 3,000. Among those at the speakers' table will be C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee; Col. Frank Knox, nominee for vice president in 1936; Taylor E. Wilhelm, state's attorney of La Salle county and president of the Service Men's league, and Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman.

Ridicule Sitting Judges' Plea.

The twenty-six Republican nominees last night joined in a statement ridiculing the plea that sitting judges are entitled to reëlection.

"There is no magic or charm connected with the term 'sitting judges.' Some who have been sitting judges have completely demonstrated their lack of fitness.

"Why should all twenty candidates for reëlection to the Circuit court adopt so empty a slogan as 'Vote for the sitting judges'? when, as most of them must know, it can only be an attempt to cover up a tremendous amount of deficiency as to some of the judges whose records they impliedly guarantee.

Call Thousands Capable.

"Sitting judges should be glad to submit their candidacies to a free vote of the people every six years. Sitting judges should not be reluctant about answering any fair inquiries concerning their attitudes and dispositions toward matters affecting their administrations.

"There are thousands of lawyers in Cook county fully capable of properly filling judicial office. No one has any lease on a place on the bench.

At a meeting of the Democratic county central committee, P. A. Nash, county chairman, predicted victory for the entire Democratic ticket. Other spakers included Ald. J. M. Arvey, Congressman A. J. Sabath and James J. Sullivan.

RELIEFERS TOLD HOW TO OBTAIN FREE DIVORCES

Instructions Sent to CRA Social Workers.

Instructions on how to obtain free divorces for reliefers were sent yesterday to the professional social worker staff of the Chicago Relief administration by Leo M. Lyons, CRA head. His instructions specified that both "urgent social necessity" and legal grounds for the divorce exist before social workers take action to obtain the decrees.

Lyons said the CRA has been assisting reliefers in obtaining divorces for the last two years when they were considered necessary by the social workers. He said the bulletin concerning divorces was sent to clarify the manner in which the CRA staff is to work with and for the Legal Aid bureau in preparing for the divorces.

The Legal Aid bureau is composed of attorneys, working under the United Charities, who give free legal service to destitute persons.

Bureau Requires Approval.

Joel Hunter, United Charities head, explained that prospective divorce cases sent to the Legal Aid bureau must be approved by the United Charities' committee on divorces before being taken into court.

Lyons' bulletin listed nine steps that his staff should take in preparing a prospective divorce case for submission to the Legal Aid bureau. One was obtaining proof of grounds for divorce. He was asked what special qualifications his staff had for obtaining this.

"We rely on the case workers' [social workers] experience and general knowledge of the grounds for divorce," he replied.

Social Workers Rule Division.

A notation on Lyons' bulletin showed that it was originated by the Family Service division of the CRA. This division is said to be controled by a clique of professional social workers and to be the directing office for the so-called professional staff of the CRA.

Lyons said that the bulletin did not mean that the CRA staff was being urged to obtain divorces for reliefers.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday granted the Chicago Relief administration $3,164,829 in state funds for use during June. The CRA estimated its needs for the month at $3,650,525.

ALFRED R. BONE CHOSEN TO HEAD COMMITTEE OF 15

Alfred R. Bone.

Alfred R. Bone, former secretary treasurer of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, was elected president of the Committee of Fifteen yesterday. He succeeds Clifford W. Barnes, who founded the committee in 1911 and has been its head for twenty years. Barnes has taken the newly created position, chairman of the board of directors.

Throughout its existence the Committee of Fifteen has campaigned against organized prostitution. Barnes said that Police Commissioner Allman had done good work in enforcing the laws against vice.

"Investigations show there has been a marked reduction in the number and size of disorderly houses in the last five years," he continued. "So far as such houses are concerned Chicago is probably cleaner than any other large city in America."

ASK CITY TO STOP VICE, GAMBLING IN NEGRO DISTRICT

Complaints that liquor is sold to minors and that gambling and vice resorts flourish in the Negro section on the south side were made yesterday by civic leaders meeting with city officials in the city hall.

A. L. Foster, colored, executive secretary of the Chicago Urban league, was empowered to appoint a committee to draft a set of recommendations.

Among the officials present were Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, Alds. Paul H. Douglas [5th], and Abraham H. Cohen [4th], and Police Captains William A. Byrne of the Wabash avenue district and John Carton of Pekin Inn.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

2 STATES POINT WAY TO ACHIEVE PAROLE REFORM

New Laws in New Jersey and Massachusetts.

The powers of parole boards have been curtailed in various states, notably New Jersey and Massachusetts, as a result of scandals over premature release of criminals. This became known yesterday as the house of the Illinois legislature prepared to vote on the Ward-Schnackenberg bill, designed to do the same thing in this state. The bill has passed the senate by an overwhelming majority.

The Ward-Schnackenberg bill is fashioned after the Massachusetts law. It allows the trial judge, who heard all the testimony and knows the background of the defendant, to fix a minimum and maximum sentence. The parole board still operates within these limits, but its exclusive power to fix the sentence under the present indeterminate sentence act is abolished.

System Held Up as Model.

The Massachusetts parole system, drastically overhauled during the last decade, is seld up as a model. It is operated by a three man board, a chairman and two associates. A special commission now is delving into charges that a political pardon racket ring last winter liberated two felons, one a murderer, without the knowledge or approval of the parole board.

One of the most recent changes in the parole arrangements in Massachusetts developed during the administration of foremr Gov. Charles F. Hurley. The five member parole commission or board, including two women members, was legislated out of office and replaced with the three man board so that responsibility could be more closely placed. This board has full authority except in cases of executive clemency.

Duties of Parole Board.

It is the duty of the board to determine how much of the sentence imposed by the judge shall be served by the prisoner. It has the power to release any inmate upon the expiration of two-thirds of the minimum term. Under a three to five year sentence a prisoner is eligible for parole at the end of two years, providing he has a good prison record. However, the board is empowered, despite an exemplary prison record, to deny parole at its discretion. This is to prevent a confirmed criminal, who knows how to behave in prison, from being released prematurely.

The parole board supervises the prisoners after their release until the expiration of the maximum sentence. No parolee may leave the state without written consent of the parole board or his parole is automatically terminated.

In New Jersey both the indeterminate and definite sentences are imposed. The board of managers of the state prison control the indeterminate sentence paroles while the board of pardons acts on cases of convicts serving definite or long term sentences.

Secret Releases Banned.

A few years ago New Jersey was shaken by parole scandals. It was discovered that Herman Mulock, serving a life term for murder, was pardoned after serving seven years. This stirred up a hornet's nest and the legislature promptly adopted a new law, compelling the boards to make public in newspapers all names of applicants for parole or pardon. Prior to this the board kept their actions secret.

Mulock recently was arrested for passing worthless checks. He was sent back to prison. His pardon was said to have been due to politics and resulted in the legislature taking action to stop further abuses. The board of pardons in New Jersey is composed of the governor, six lay judges of the court of errors and appeals and the chief justice and chancellor of the state.

New York, May 31.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F. and head of the American Battle Monuments commission, sailed today for France. The general, who is 78 years old and suffered a serious illness some months ago, said he was feeling very well.

STANTON DELAYS DECISION ON TWO YOUNG BURGLARS

Over the protests of Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash, Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court yesterday continued until June 7 a decision in the case of James Callaghan, 15 years old, and Donald Lanktree, 18, confessed house burglars. Nash had demanded an immediate decision.

On April 28 Judge Stanton heard the evidence against the two young toughs on one burglary charge. When he indicated he might grant them probation, despite Callaghan's confession of twenty-five burglaries, the state demanded a jury trial on a second burglary charge and the first case was left pending.

At the trial Judge Stanton instructed the jurors that a verdict of guilty would make mandatory a sentence of one year to life, and the two were acquitted. The state then prosecuted another burglary charge against them and they were acquitted again by a jury. They are scheduled to go on trial June 7 before another jury on two other burglary charges.

JULIAN KAUFMAN OF GANG ERA DIES WITH BOOTS OFF

O'Banion Lieutenant Has Heart Attack in N. Y.

Julian [Potatoes] Kaufman, who was among the last of Chicago's notorious gangsters, died last night in New York—and not with his boots on. A heart attack finished him while he was in retirement, much to the surprise of many policemen. He was 40 years old.

Potatoes got his gangland appellation because his father once was a millionaire commission merchant. Back in the uproarious twenties Kaufman was a lieutenant of Dion O'Banion, the flower merchant who won the distinction of having the costliest gang funeral—and one of the earliest.

Most of the rest of Potatoes' pals likewise died by the gun. Among them were Hymie Weiss, Jack Zuta, Vincent [Schemer] Drucci, and Louie Alterie. Some of those still living are Johnny Torrio, in a federal prison; Al Capone, in a federal asylum, and Joe Saltis, who is currently being sued for divorce.

Kaufman's body was taken to a New York mortuary last night. Services will be held there at 2 p. m. today. It is planned to bury Kaufman in Chicago.

FIND STREET CAR VICTIM DEAD.

The body of a man was found yesterday on Roosevelt road just east of Michigan avenue. Apparently he had been hit by a street car. He was about 35 years old.

LOVE FINDS A VOICE TO AID ELOPERS IN DEAF MUTE TRIANGLE

Mrs. Marie Chambers.

Disorderly conduct charges against Mrs. Marie Chambers, 24 years old, and Benjamin Hall, 57, both deaf mutes, were continued until Tuesday by Judge Oscar S. Caplan yesterday. Graham Chambers, 34, estranged husband of Mrs. Chambers, also a deaf mute, was the complainant.

Mrs. Chambers and Hall, who have been living at 1205 North La Salle street, wrote for the court's information that they love each other. Mrs. Chambers added that she did not wish to live with her husband. Judge Caplan then continued the case until an interpreter could be obtained.

Chambers came to Chicago recently from Lena, Miss., to search for his wife and Hall. When he found them he had them arrested. Mrs. Chambers denied that she and Hall had been living together.

CO-ED HOTHEADS DUEL TO FINISH; ONE'S UNERRING

Shreveport, La., May 31.—[Special.]—Two co-eds met on the field of honor today in a duel to the finish over an insult. The affair was overshadowed by all the traditions of the old south, where a man's pistol was ever ready to avenge slights and speak his dislike.

The girls stood back to back, in regular dueling custom. Each was armed with a previously agreed weapon. Each burned with a hope that her aim would be as true as her convictions.

Seconds and judges held their breath as the girls moved apart the prescribed five paces. There was no doctor on the scene. Suddenly the girls turned and let fly with the weapons they carried. One missed, but the other, who claimed she had been insulted, didn't. She hurled a dripping chocolate pie squarely into the face of her opponent.

Challenger Is Winner.

The winner was Miss Anna Holstead of Shreveport. Her opponent, who got plastered, was Miss Varnelle Plastow of Bay Shore, N. Y. Both are co-eds at Louisiana Tech at Ruston, La., east of here in northeastern Louisiana, where the duel took place.

Miss Holstead had objected to Miss Plastow's blunt description of her literary style. Her comment was: "Confidentially, it smells." That was enough, the duel was on.

Accompanied by a few students and seconds bearing towels, the duelists met this morning behind the school stadium.

Weapons Pretty Gooey.

Prof. H. F. Hewins, one of the witnesses, said the girls got most of the drippy pies over themselves in taking them out of the tins and getting ready for the duel.

As Miss Holstead's pie flew straight to its mark, she cried, "touché," and a judge, another co-ed, declared her the winner. The affair marked Miss Holstead's farewell to the Tech campus for she was graduated last night. Miss Plastow is a sophomore. They left the field of honor friends.

ART COLLECTOR JAILED; BUTLER BAILS HIM OUT

Washington Porter II., art collector and former secretary of the American legation in Copenhagen, was locked up at the Central police station last night. Park police said they found him driving an automobile in Columbus drive at 11th street without a driver's license or inspection sticker, and that only one headlight was burning.

The bond was $40. He had but $17. And so he had to wait in a cell until his butler arrived from the Porter residence at 4043 Lake Park avenue with the rest of the money.

AN EXAMPLE TO BE FOLLOWED.

In a letter dated April 8, 1932, to the employés, stockholders, and friends of his company, Lammot du Pont, president of the du Pont company, set forth what he believed to be the causes of the depression. He stated that between the relatively prosperous years of 1927 and the depression year of 1932 the government had increased its outgo by 66 per cent, exclusive of interest and payments on the debt. Congress was then planning additional taxes to pay for the increased expenditures. Mr. du Pont made the point that a government which spent in excess of its income made times harder by jeopardizing confidence in the financial security of the government itself. And, he said, when to feed the swollen stream of outflow a government increased taxes, it reduced activity by increasing the costs of production, leading inevitably to lessened sales, the slowing down of industry, and increased unemployment and want.

Mr. du Pont declared that the way out of the depression lay not in increased government expenditures and more taxes, but in "the balancing of the budget by reduction of expenditures, through efficient operation and curtailment of nonessential services and functions."

Seven years have passed and Mr. du Pont has again written to the stockholders, employés, and friends of his company. In the intervening years Mr. du Pont's plan for recovery was not followed, but instead the government increased its expenditures by another 116 per cent. Government costs were 66 per cent above 1927 when in 1932 Mr. du Pont urged that they had to be cut for recovery. They are now 259 per cent higher than in 1927. Since 1932 the government has spent 53 billion dollars, twice as much as the national government spent from the time of its creation in 1789 to the end of the fiscal year 1916.

Taxes have been raised far beyond the level at which Mr. du Pont said private business would be paralyzed. But the higher taxes have failed by 25 billion dollars to equal the expanded outgo. All this was done in the name of recovery—"to provide relief and to induce recovery." "But," Mr. du Pont points out, "by the commonly accepted estimates as many people are now unemployed as in 1933. Our spending program has not produced recovery, but fear and a perpetuation of our difficulties." The soundness of the views stated by Mr. du Pont has been demonstrated by what has happened.

Mr. du Pont repeats his suggestion made seven years ago that those "who feel as I do make your feelings known immediately to your political representatives in congress." He feels that senators and congressmen will welcome expressions of opinion on this important question.

The du Pont company is to be congratulated for the courage displayed in communicating the facts and the analysis of them to individuals who are a part of their enterprise. If other companies would do likewise the effect would inevitably be to stiffen the backbone of the members of congress, who are under tremendous pressure from those at Washington who falsely urge that profligacy is our only salvation.

HELIUM TO POLAND.

The National Munitions Control board has consented to the export of helium limited to 500,000 cubic feet to any one country in a year, upon application approved by the secretary of state. It is reported that Poland will get the first shipment to be used, it is said, in a stratosphere flight this summer.

The request of Germany for helium for commercial purposes was denied last year. It was more than intimated that the commercial pledge was worthless and that the Germans would use the gas for war airships if there was a war. Now that Polish-German relations contain the greatest tension in Europe the American government makes its rebuff of Germany significant by permitting the export to Poland.

The refusal to Germany could stand on its own feet but a government seeking to remain neutral and not make enemies would not show its ill will so pointedly both in time and manner. The Roosevelt administration is not neutral in thought or act. It has picked its side and wants to be free to back up its choice. The ambassador to France, Mr. Bullitt, extols the dead of one war with his gaze on the dead of the next.

MR. WALLACE'S CANDOR.

In an address to cotton farmers at Little Rock, Secretary Wallace said American cotton exports for the crop year would be only three and a half million bales, the lowest total in sixty years. We ought to export about six million bales, he said. That was about the amount of cotton we used to sell abroad each year before Mr. Wallace started his meddling.

For five or six years now it has been the habit of certain commentators to remark after such a speech by Mr. Wallace that he must be a good man and a sincere man because he is so frank in publicly confessing his mistakes. The truth is he hasn't any alternative. He did not dare tell his audience in Little Rock that the condition of their industry is sound or soon will be because they know that isn't so.

The best that can be said of Mr. Wallace is that he is shameless. A thousand voices warned against pricing American cotton out of the world markets and told him exactly what the consequences to our farmers would be. His own bureau of agricultural economics told him years ago that the acreage restriction was a failure, but instead of accepting the advice he suppressed the report. He has persisted in his policy in face of the fact that it was throwing hundreds of thousands of families off the land. And now that the predictions have all come true he can offer nothing better than the hope of some kind of international agreement among cotton exporting nations and a subsidy for exports, as if these desperate remedies had ever done anything but make matters worse.

THE LONG AND SHORT HAUL.

Section 4 of the interstate commerce act has become a political issue. In certain states it has provided the principal campaign battle cry in senatorial elections. Some interstate commerce commissioners have owed their appointment to their sectional interpretation of the manner in which the so-called "long and short haul" provisions of the fourth section should be administered.

Theoretically the section as it stands today seems to furnish an ideal solution of the problem of competition between different sections of the country. Under it the rail lines can make rates from Chicago to the Pacific coast low enough to compete with intercoastal steamers operating from the Atlantic seaboard through the Panama canal to the same destination. They can, theoretically, at the same time charge higher rates at intermediate points in the so-called "intermountain" territory. To do this they must demonstrate to the commission that the competitive rate is reasonably compensatory for the service performed.

But, in practice, the fight over the administration of this section of the law has resulted in a bitter commercial rivalry and the development of sectional consciousness between the intermountain states, extending from Montana southward to New Mexico, and the middle west. Under political pressure the commission has failed in recent years to give the middle west any relief from the provisions of the "long and short haul" clause. The rail carriers themselves have given up all hope, under present conditions, of being able to meet the water competition via the artificially created Panama canal route. Several years ago Senator Gooding of Idaho presented a bill which would have made it illegal for any common carrier to violate the "long and short haul" principle. The combined population of the eight intermountain states was at that time not much greater than that of Cook county, but their senatorial representation was equal to that of a like number of densely populated states in this section of the country. The victory of the middle west in defeating Senator Gooding's proposal was won only after a hard fought battle on the floor of the senate.

Last year the middle west retaliated with a bill presented by Representative Pettengill of Indiana, which, in effect, would have repealed the "long and short haul" provisions and allowed the rail carriers virtually a free hand in meeting competitive rates such as mentioned above. The bill passed the house and was approved by the senate committee on interstate commerce by a vote of eleven to three. The three senators opposing the bill were Wheeler of Montana, Shipstead of Minnesota, and Truman of Missouri. Wheeler represented the clear cut opposition of his intermountain constituents. Shipstead and Truman, from states whose commercial interests would have been best served by the passage of the bill, followed the misguided recommendations of the waterway fanatics controlling the trafic committee of the Mississippi Valley association.

The bill would have passed the senate by a substantial majority if it could have been brought to a vote, and the middle west would thereby have been liberated from an artificial commercial handicap, which for years has resulted in the gradual removal of industry and prosperity from the heart of the country to its deep water rim. When the bill was reported favorably to the senate the three senators opposing it served notice that they would talk it to death and keep the senate in session until snowfall if necessary. They made good their bluff and those senators who were elected to represent the interests of the middle west, like sheep cringing before the roar of the intermountain lions, tamely gave up the fight.

The raising of sectional issues, generally speaking, is to be deplored. The old adage that one man's meat is another man's poison usually represents the basic causes of such issues. Since the construction of the Panama canal, the middle west has had too much poison and not enough meat so far as marketing its products is concerned. Both houses of congress are now struggling with general transportation bills. Congressman Martin of Colorado has introduced H. R. 97, which is identical with the Pettengill bill. It will be to the everlasting shame of the congressional delegations representing the middle west if they do not stand as a unit in demanding, to the bitter end, the repeal of the present "long and short haul" restrictions in any proposed transportation legislation.

SAND HAS GREAT VALUE.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

One might say that sand is one of the commonest materials to be found, other than common soil. Sand appears in a thousand places in the Illinois scene, along streams, in pits where water has eroded the surface, or on the sides of hills or other slopes.

The average person might consider that sand is almost worthless, other than the small portion of it seen in the making of concrete for building operations.

But sand in the large sense is a major resource of the state of Illinois. Of the famous glass sands, this state produces 23 per cent of the entire national output. This deposit is found mainly in the northern section of the state. In the far south are deposits of silica, which is the state's second nonmetallic mineral, ranking second only to coal in point of value.

Other sections produce other grades of sand, all possessing real money worth. Man is constantly learning new ways to profitably use the so-called "waste" resources of nature.

SUIT FOR PLAGIARISM.

John Barrymore's presence in Chicago reminds us of a suit for plagiarism which should be almost as famous as Samuel Eberly Gross' suit against Edmond Rostand regarding "Cyrano de Bergerac," but which has been generally forgotten. In brief, Maurice Barrymore, father of John, sued for plagiarism regarding "La Tosca," the drama by Victorien Sardou which survives in the opera repertory.

The elder Barrymore [his real name was Herbert Blythe] wrote a play, back in the 1880s, called "Nadjeska." He submitted it to Sarah Bernhardt, who read and rejected it. A few months later [1887], Sardou, then Bernhardt's favorite dramatist, came out with "La Tosca." Maurice Barrymore believed that it was deliberately based upon situations established in the first act of his "Nadjeska"; the parallel of plot was close. He sued Sardou for plagiarism, and Oscar Wilde and Arthur Wing Pinero testified on his behalf; but he lost the case. He had the last word, however, for he wrote to Sardou, "When a man steals a cane to put an umbrella on it, he is nevertheless a thief."

"Nadjeska" was acted in England with Maurice Barrymore as the young lover and Herbert Beerbohm Tree as the baron.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

  Is a hard, white glare to dazzle the eye.
There are rolling drums and marching feet—
  But the Boys in Blue go riding by.

One or two, and sometimes none,
  In the long, sleek, slowly moving car.
Cheers from the crowds as they ride along—
  The old, old men of the G. A. R.

And my mind steps back, a seven league step,
  To the long-gone Mays of childhood when Decora-shun Day was Ole Sojers' Day
  And the Boys in Blue went marching then.

Here in the present, indeed, I know,
Where the drums and cheering children go
  Down the long grassed, dusty countryside.

And soon, down the wide, hot city street,
  Nor cheers nor drums shall their old ears thrill;
But out of my childhood with steady feet,

Dorothy Herself.

The Car That Lured Ten Thousand Loons.

Perhaps the hundreds of thousands of gawkers who have stared at Evanston's mystery car would like a technical description of the wreck before it is demolished. Here is a post-mortem report, from close inspection:

Touring car of standard brand, made in 1920. High and thin tires showing little wear. Speedometer indicated 2,943 miles. Little spotlight mounted on left side of windshield. Top full of holes. Paint job may have been tan at birth. Rust holes everywhere, even through fenders. C. O. R.

A Plea for the Nameless Month.

Have we, perhaps, maligned the unhappy month of April, 1939—that chill, dark, rainy stretch of days, lately christened the Nameless Month? [April 20.] Could she not really be responsible for this most lavish and prodigal of springs with its luxuriant foliage, its lilac bushes crowded with great nodding plumes of mauve and purple, its cascades of snowy bridal wreath, the breath taking beauty of its pink blossoming fruit trees? Was it, perhaps, the restraining hand of cold and gloomy April, holding back too eager buds till all danger of frost was past, that brought this veritable explosion of growth, this bursting of every bud into finer flower and leaf than were ever seen before? If so, the Nameless One has redeemed herself indeed. Ardee.

THE DOOR OF DARKNESS.

I know that you understand, Pal,
Wherever you are tonight;
And you would tell me, if you could,
That the job I did was right.
But the rightness doesn't help a bit;
Grateful thanks are mixed with rue;
For when I slammed the compartment door,
I slammed it, Pal, on you!

The years will never bring release,
Nor ease an aching heart.
Memory pictures through sleepless nights
The door that kept us apart.
I know I gave these other lives
The chance that was their due;
But why, when I slammed that fateful door
Did it have to be on you?

Sidelights on the Submarine Service.

Regarding names for modern submarines [May 27]: The policy of the navy is to select names of fishes beginning with S or T, such as Squalus, Sculpin, Squid, Salmon, Tuna, Tarpon, etc.

These vessels are known as submersible cruisers, and while intended for surface travel they can dive and stay under three days, if required. They bear only a slight resemblance to the older type R or S submarines.

The hull structure is remarkably similar to the vanishing Great Lakes cargo carriers called whalebacks. They also differ from the older boats in their motive power. They have light, high speed two cycle Diesel engines, exactly like those used in the Zephyr and other high speed trains.

The crews of submarines are picked for their fatalistic tendencies. A man with nerves or an active imagination wouldn't last a month. The reaction of the crew of the Squalus was typical of submarine discipline. Stale air, oil, close quarters and death are all on the bill of fare. When served they are swallowed without comment.

THE "TELLTALE" SKIN.

When we realize that the skin is not only an organ of excretion but of expression as well, we can understand many of the blemishes which are associated with our emotions. Equipped as it is with nerves and blood vessels it serves as a means of communication between our inner selves and the outer world. We react to the message, for example, that the room is too cold or too hot. In response we don clothing, remove it, open a window, or stir up the fire.

In periods of mental stress the epidermis behaves in a manner that defies our control. A blush may suffuse the face because of embarrassment or pallor may appear because of anger or fear. Goose flesh may indicate chilling, apprehension, or fright. All of which demonstrates the close connection between the sympathetic nerves and the cuticle. Itching, too, may manifest itself without detectable injury or poisoning.

The conclusion seems obvious, therefore, that psychic disturbances may influence the network of nerves and capillaries to such an extent that the nutrition of the body surface is interfered with, just as the colon may be upset in what is termed nervous colitis or diarrhea.

Gastineau reports the case of a woman 35 years old whose only child was in an accident. A number of surgical procedures were required and the mother's intense anxiety resulted in the development of small bald spots on the scalp and grooving of the finger nails. With the youngster's recovery the lesions disappeared entirely.

Another of his patients, a high school senior, 17 years old, complained of extensive itching with irritation on the face, neck, chest, and arms. Busy with her studies and social activities she averaged but seven hours of sleep. In consequence fatigue became a dominant symptom preceding the skin difficulty. Careful tests for sensitivity proved negative. A month's rest, however, restored her vitality and banished her troubles. She resumed her daily tasks on a slightly reduced schedule, but observed that whenever she overdid the dermal inflammation returned.

We know how easily hives may rear up their puffy wheals should an allergic individual eat a bit of tomato, a single strawberry, or any other edible to which he is susceptible. These swellings may rise up within a short time—a few minutes, in certain instances—following the consumption of an offending article. While it may seem to be a far cry from food sensitivity to an emotional outburst there must be an intimate association. Hives have been known to vanish coincident with a vacation away from home and to reassert themselves as soon as the victim is again established in his normal environment. While this may be ascribed to some substance in the immediate vicinity, nevertheless the presence of mental conflicts may be the inciting factor. On the other hand peace of mind, comfort, and equanimity will relieve the symptom.

There are many examples of cold sores [herpes about the mouth] breaking out as the result of fatigue, dietary indiscretions, or a drop in reserve which permits the causative virus to grow. These same outbreaks may be inaugurated by worry, apprehension, and an accompanying loss of sleep.

We may perhaps account for the whole matter on the ground that harrowing experiences lower resistance. Many a person—after an occurrence calculated to shred his nervous poise—will complain of a bad taste in the mouth, headache, or constipation. It may be necessary frequently to look behind the scenes and study the sufferer as a whole rather than to fix our gaze too steadily upon the outward signs of distress.

Skin capillaries contract or dilate as the nervous system commands. We can no more prevent these playful antics than we can lift ourselves away from the earth by an act of will. Training, however, can modify the episodes. We may say, therefore, that the well-being of the body covering depends upon the smooth working of the mind.

CHIROPODIST CAN HELP.

C. P. writes: I have been told that a sore spot on the ball of my foot is a skin tumor. How are these conditions treated?

REPLY.

You probably refer to plantar warts. Whirlpool baths are the most effective way of treating these lesions. A skilled chiropodist can help you.

HAS CONVULSIONS WHILE ASLEEP.

J. M. S. writes: What is the difference between convulsions and fits? For the last twenty years I have had what my mother calls convulsions in my sleep—never when awake. I'm completely unconscious, roll my eyeballs, bite my tongue, work my jaws, and foam at the mouth. Though these last only about ten minutes I am completely exhausted thereafter.

REPLY.

We use the expression, "a fit of anger," which does not imply convulsions. Violent involuntary contractions of the muscles characterize the latter condition. Symptoms such as you describe should be investigated by a neurologist.

PROBABLY IT'S ARTHRITIS.

I. K. writes: For six weeks I have had a pain in the right arm on arising. During the day it wears off. Sometimes there is a crackling sound. What could be the cause of my trouble?

REPLY.

This is probably due to some form of arthritis, although neuritis or bursitis should be considered. Is there evidence of bony changes elsewhere in the body? An X-ray film will aid in arriving at a diagnosis.

ONLY SURGERY WILL HELP.

E. B. writes: My daughter, who is 19 years old, has a red spot about the size of a dime at the end of her spine. It discharges at times. What is this?

REPLY.

Probably a pilonidal cyst which contains hair. Only surgery is effective in relieving the condition. An expert should be in charge.

MASSAGE FOR LEG CRAMPS.

E. K. writes: What is the cause of foot and leg cramps? The remedy?

REPLY.

Cramps in the legs usually are the result of some disturbance of the circulation. The condition is worse when the limb is cold and quiet. Wearing bed socks, immersing the parts in water [up to the knees] before retiring, and massage are of value. Your doctor can prescribe some medicine designed to relax the muscles, thus allowing more nutriment to reach these areas.

WANTS MORE OF THE SAME.

Chicago, May 27.—Please give us more editorials like "The Heat Is On." There isn't any question but what we need an organization of American-Americans. Can't you start the ball a rolling? That, it seems to me, is the only possible cathartic for isms.

W. HOWARD SCHENDORF.

South Bend, Ind., May 27.—"The Heat Is On." You said something! "Organization of American-Americans!" Now proceed to forget all about it and let a real thought die quickly. But put me down as one who would gladly line up with the millions of American-Americans. WILLIAM BROOKE.

Chicago, May 27.—I congratulate you for your patriotic editorial, "The Heat is On," in which you say we are in need of an organization of American-Americans to protect our country from influence of British, Irish, Scandinavian, and other foreign propaganda and pressure groups. The fact that British newspapers in England are writing that "most Americans would rather have a king than a president" is a good illustration of the purpose of the visit of the British king and queen—to bring the United States back into the British empire. JAMES HINCKLEY.

LIQUOR TAX AND THE NEW DEAL.

Chicago, May 28.—With as many as three saloons and liquor stores in certain city blocks conditions for the ill fed, ill clad, ill housed cannot be said to have improved under the New Deal. Now we learn that the need for relief funds has greatly increased. Those who "planned it that way" propose to solve this difficulty by an added tax on liquor. To the unfortunate victims impoverished by drink this tax will be an added burden, and still more relief money will be spent for drink.

The fumbling attempt to solve the liquor problem is typical of all the efforts of the New Dealers from F. D. R. down to state and city Democrats.

PLUMP LADIES AND SLACKS.

Chicago, May 30.—When a slender or nicely shaped girl, wishing to relax, dons a pair of lounging pajamas or slacks, in public, I see nothing irregular—as a matter of fact, I think she's showing good sense.

But these plump ladies, with their surperfluous hips—if the poor dears only knew just how these trousers do exaggerate.

MICHAEL J. COOK.

FIGHTING OVERTAXING.

Maywood, Ill., May 28.—Why is it the Chicago Real Estate board has to come to the rescue of the small homeowner to prevent taxing bodies from overtaxing those who would otherwise be helpless? Corporations can afford to fight overcharges in their tax bill, because the amount involved will pay court costs and attorney's fee. We who pay the bulk of the taxes are compelled to stand in line for hours in order to be trimmed because we cannot afford to fight.

HARRY C. POOLE.

RECALLS MYRA BRADWELL.

Chicago, May 28.—THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE announces from Streator the death of Mrs. John Shay, 90 years old, as being the first woman admitted to practice law in Illinois.

Is it not a fact that the first woman admitted to practice law in Illinois was the late Mrs. Myra Bradwell of Chicago, editor of the Chicago Legal News in the early '80s? I was her office boy at that time. ROBERT A. HEIDEN.

AN APPEAL FROM THE GAS MAN.

Chicago, May 27.—In behalf of all gasoline station operators I beg your indulgence. In return for the many free services that we gas men furnish the public, I take this opportunity of calling to the attention of Mr. Motorist the following:

Please do not park your cars so close to driveways of gas stations that you make it inconvenient for others to drive in. These drives are the life blood of stations, and when blocked by drivers who do not stop to think business is naturally impaired. Let's call this to the attention of these motorists. I know no man will intentionally park on a railroad crossing for fear of getting hurt. Why not think of hurting the gas man?

ESTATE ACCOUNTING.

Chicago, May 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mrs. S died in March, 1937, intestate. Probate was started April 1, 1937. Estate consists of real estate bonds of questionable value, stocks listed at $7,000, and cash amounting to $840, plus a note for $2,000. Estate was closed April 5 of this year. The heirs are the widower and a daughter. Mrs. S. was bonded administrator.

1. At the closing of the estate the heirs were present, but were not called upon and had no knowledge of what took place until they went to the clerk's office after the hearing and looked over the files, whereupon they found an order for $1,000 attorney's fee.

2. Should there have been a discussion of fees, etc., so that heirs could object?

3. Who should notify the various corporations regarding transfer of stock?

4. Is the value of estate for fee purposes the present value or value at time inventory was filed two years ago?

5. Is the value of the estate for fee purposes the total value or value after deducting taxes, funeral expenses, etc.?

G. G.

1. Presumably a final account was presented and the heirs had an opportunity to examine it. If such account included the $1,000 fee the heirs would be regarded as acquiescing.

2. The heirs should have insisted on examining the final account at the time of the hearing and should have presented any objections at that time.

3. The personal representative should have handled these transfers before the closing of the estate.

4. We would consider it reasonable to take the largest value.

5. It is the gross value. Otherwise there would be no fee on an insolvent estate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGE RELEASE.

Mankato, Minn., May 19. — [Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Under what conditions or for what reasons could a mortgagee refuse a release of mortgage to the mortgagor of improved property in Illinois, if the new or present mortgagor, to whom the property was sold a few weeks ago, has complied with all conditions of the mortgage and has paid all debts in full thereon, including taxes and interest?

2. If the present mortgagor, a resident and citizen of Cook county, defaults in any way could the mortgagor immediately preceding him of record, from whom he bought the realty, be held responsible under the law to the extent that, if judgment is levied against her, other improved realty owned by her of record in that county, could be attached or levied against?

3. How long after such judgment is filed has the mortgagor immediately preceding [the woman] in which to pay the judgment?

4. If title to her "other" property is transferred to another would she still be held liable under the law? J. L. N.

1. Your hypotheses that the debtor has complied with all his obligations amount to saying that there is no basis for the creditor's refusal to release.

2. The Illinois cases hold that where mortgage property is sold the purchaser becomes in effect the principal debtor and the seller in effect a surety. It would follow that suretyship liability might be asserted against the seller.

3. It is not clear what you mean by "such judgment." The statute limitation period on a judgment is twenty years, if that is what you mean to ask.

4. The conveyance might be set aside as a fraud on existing creditors. The chances would depend on the proof.

A Book For Fussy Readers

It may be that most people want their summer reading to be frothy, but there are still those who want neither novels nor mystery tales at any time of year. If you want a fine story of a fascinating woman, you'll just naturally lean toward Townsend Scudder's "Jane Welsh Carlyle." The fair Jeannie (her portrait is devastating) reigned over one of the most amazing households in England. And Mr. Scudder, who has rebuilt the story from authentic letters, has done it well. In these pages, you encounter most of the great men of the time, and you not only become well acquainted with Mrs. Carlyle, but also with her astonishing husband. The book is $3.50, in Field's Book Section, Third Floor, North, Wabash.

It is one of those . . . well, tailored, short-sleeved, buttoned with good pearl buttons, preshrunk, and versatile as a chameleon. No matter how many blouses and shirts you may have in your closet, it's always the one like this you grab—to go with your tennis shorts, your sailing slacks, to wear with your summer suits and skirts. Don't Leave Your Furs In The Closet

As you cherish your peace of mind, do not leave for the weekend without sending your furs to be cleaned and stored! Once you shove your coat into the back of the closet (hoping it'll stay in the back of your mind, too), you've practically committed it to a fatal summer.

You'll feel fine after making sure that your coat is to have Field's care. Your order for Hollanderizing means that your coat will be cleaned in a completely professional manner.

We wish we could take each of you on a tour of inspection, to see furs Hollanderized. It really is impressive to watch each competent workman, handling each coat as if it were his favorite. All the operators have a long familiarity with furs, and know just what to do for each. Both fur and lining look lustrous and beautiful when the workmen finish.

Once your coat is cleaned, it is stored at Field's, in the building, where it is protected from heat, moths, theft and fire. Our vaults are kept at a freezing temperature the year 'round, and this helps preserve the fur's natural oils.

You've heard of our Guardite Chamber. It is the only one in the city of Chicago, and it deals death to moths—in any stage—in wholesale fashion.

The charges for Field's Storage and for Hollanderizing are the same as you'd pay for ordinary cleaning and storing. Call State 1000 and ask for Fur Storage.

Good Sun Goggles Are A Real Need

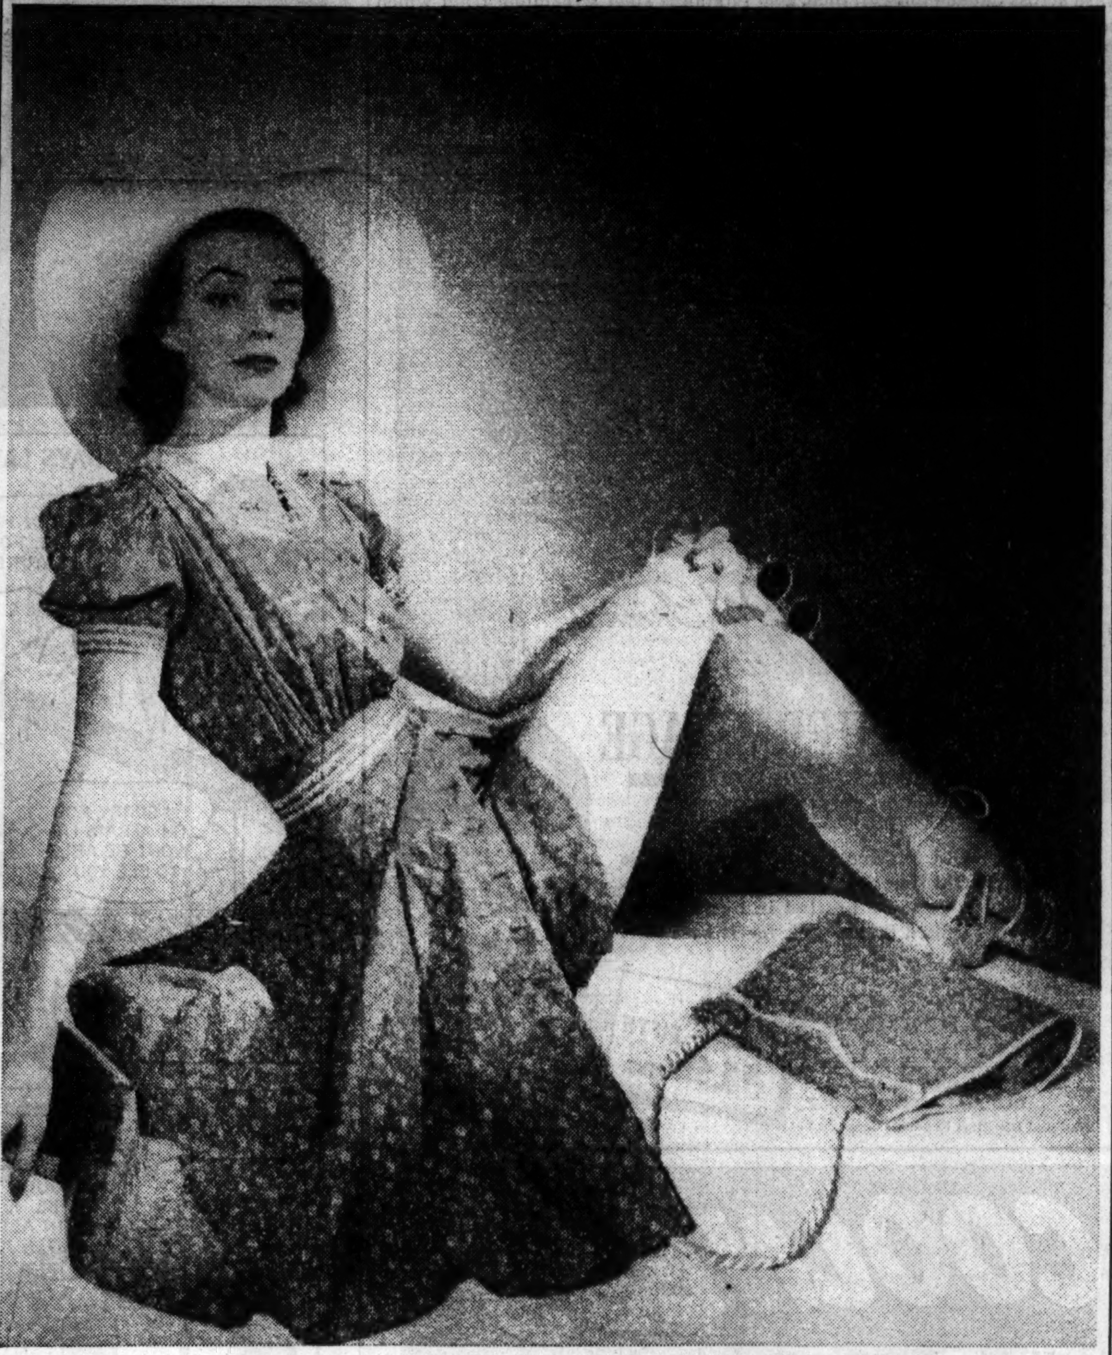
You wouldn't think of using somebody else's glasses if your own weren't around! And it's almost as foolish to use "just any old pair of dark sun glasses." A really good pair of sun glasses has ground and polished lenses.

We've a very special value in such goggles. They have Crookes lenses, and are set in a fine quality Zylonite frame. The frames may be had in flesh, blonde or white.

Sun glasses with Crookes lenses, $2

And when the sun isn't shining they're easy to tote around in the handsome little case, in black, red, blue or yellow. To complete the picture, there's even a lens cleaner enclosed, and the whole set—goggles, case and cleaner—costs only $2. Optical Section, First Floor, North, Wabash.

A Prize For The Cotton Pickers



Daintily flowered cotton—equally good for hard romping and for being picturesque. Rickrack braid, a ruffled square neckline and the tiny flower print give the dress a prim look . . . which is gaily countermanded by shorts and a flared skirt. The playsuit is $6.95, in cylamen, aqua, royal, red or maize. The big matching beachbag has a white cotton rope handle—it's $2. And the beach clopper shoe, with wooden sole, is $2.50. All in Field's Sports Room, Sixth Floor, Middle, Wabash.

Herbs For Your Summer Beauty

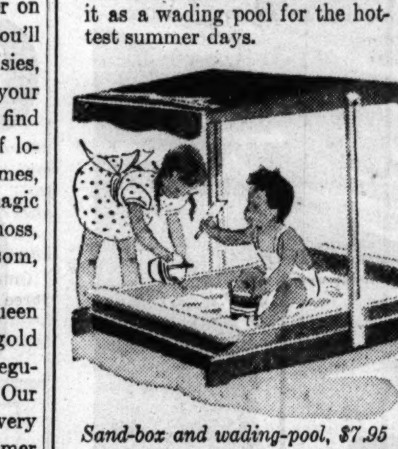
Come to the Herb Farm Corner on the Seventh Floor at Field's. You'll think you're in a shaded field of daisies, with a fragrant quiet settled on your contented head. And there you'll find sheer enchantment in the form of lotions, creams, toilet waters, perfumes, bath essences. Listen . . . the magic names . . . wild thyme, green moss, white phlox, sweet bean blossom, orange flower!

Her Royal Highness, Mary, Queen Mother of England, uses marigold cleansing cream which she orders regularly from the Herb Farm in Kent. Our Herb Farm products are those very same ones . . . we're sure your summer will have a happy spell over it after you've chosen your favorite fragrance and stocked it in creams and lotions for summer comfort and beauty. This is one way to make hot weather joyous instead of dismal.

Give The Children Their Own Seashore

Here's a perfectly grand idea for the children's summer. You can fill the bright red and blue box with sand now . . . then use it as a wading pool for the hottest summer days.



Sand-box and wading-pool, $7.95

Sun Time Is Fun Time—Get Out Of Town Now And Enjoy Yourself

Small Fry Bask In The Sunshine In Gabardines

Time was when nice little girls just didn't go out and have fun in the sun. They wore long sleeves and walked sedately under veils lest they tan and freckle.

Quaint—but hard to imagine! These days, girls—and little boys, too—have unrestrained fun in lovely cotton gabardines in simply heavenly shades. They're tailored with minute care, and they wash beautifully. Girls seem daintier than ever in our Fourth Floor gabardines, boys seem more boyish.

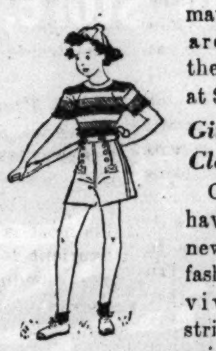
New Sun Styles

Even before your baby is able to sit up and take notice, you're popping her (or him) into a sunsuit, say in seersucker or a dainty sheer. Soon she's wearing a sundress with tiny straps, or looking like a sweet-pea in bonnet and sunsuit to match. In no time at all they're toddling in gabardine shorts or overalls with toppers and jackets to match. For sizes 1 to 3, shorts are $1.75, overalls $1.95, jackets $2.95, toppers $1.

There may be something cuter than a boy of two-to-six in a broadcloth sunsuit with a separate blazer-striped jacket, but we doubt it. Unless it's a little girl his own age with the briefest of boleros over her white pique. Separate jackets and coats over sunsuits are quite the thing this season. One especially attractive version is a terry beach robe combined with a bright print sundress, or a similar costume all in seersucker. As with the tinier tots, gabardines are basic in the wardrobes for ages 3 to 6. The colors are charming . . . aqua, yellow, blue, peach, red. Overalls or shorts are $2. Toppers are $1, gaily striped cotton sweaters to match or contrast are $1.25. And there are jackets at $3.



Girls' Fun Clothes

Growing-up girls have adapted the newest grown-up fashions. There are vivid Roman stripes, and playsuits with dirndl skirts in Polynesian prints and striped chambrays. There are jolly useful outfits in ginghams and chambrays that combine dresses with playsuits.

But whatever else she loves and wants, your daughter will wear her dink cap and shorts of gabardine practically all day long, with a striped cotton sweater. The shorts have lastex inserts that make for a comfortable, yielding fit about the waist. They come in sizes 8 to 16, at $1.95. The sweaters are $1.75, the dink caps, $1.

Photography Exhibit

All you who go about with one eye half closed, looking for interesting "shots" . . . attention! On the Seventh Floor, in the Crystal Corridor, we have an Exhibit of Photography from the Federal Art Project of the Works Progress Administration. There are 55 photographs, worthy individually and collectively of your enthusiastic attention.

Portables Travel With Perfect Ease

With all your summer dashing about hither and yon, you'll especially appreciate a portable radio or phonograph. You can take them with you, no matter where you're going or what you're going to do. Whether you're going to a mountain retreat in the Rockies or sailing on Lake Michigan. They make perfect companions for vacations and week-ends . . . in fact they really rate the term "life of the party."

Records Included In The Price

We've illustrated a portable phonograph that we think is one of the best vacation values in years. It is an RCA Victor model. With it are included Victor or Blue Bird records to the amount of $2.25. And the whole outfit—instrument, records, and all—costs only $9.95.

RCA Victrola with records, $9.95

The instrument plays either 10 or 12-inch records, and has a strong spring. It comes in a black or blue waterproofed case. You can count on it to be always "in good voice." Of course you make your own selections of records. Radio Section, Fourth Floor, South, Wabash.

Radios Look Like Luggage

The portable radios in their cases look like nothing so much as airplane-type luggage—they're that smart. The obliging instruments carry their own batteries, and have built-in aerials. You can tune in and get your favorite stations even if you're sitting under a kerosene lamp a hundred miles from nowhere and an electric socket. Field's has Emerson and RCA Victor portable radios at $19.95. The new Detrola is $24.95, the Zenith portable is $29.95. Additional batteries are $3.50.

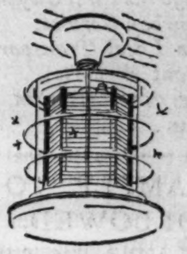
Little Things Are Important In The Country

Now's the time to get out of town! For city dwellers, Fridays and Saturdays have become an institution. Oil and gas in the car . . . a few fun clothes plunged into a suitcase . . . all the apartment windows closed against the (let's not think of it) possibility of rain . . . and you're off.

If you've already opened up the summer cottage, what do you need?

Death Comes To The Mosquito

One thing you certainly need is our Death Ray Lantern! It's an effective gadget for your porch or kitchen. It not only attracts flies and mosquitoes, but electrocutes same and drops them neatly in the pan below the bulb. Harmless to humans! $1.50, in Field's Garden Gadget Corner, Second Floor, Middle, Wabash.



Pans, Lamps, Dishes, Napkins

Pots and pans. All set? If not, come to Field's Ninth Floor. What about that lampshade that Junior shot an arrow through last summer, playing Indian? And the cups you dropped and broke the day three cars pulled up unexpectedly (and you with half a loaf of bread in the house!).

You'll want to replace any dishes that met with casualties. You'll want a few extra table cloths—gay ones that are colorful, and easily laundered. Remember paper napkins, which are so blissfully correct and useful in the country! Dishes, Linen, Lamps, Second Floor.

DEFIES ATTORNEY GENERAL; FREES INSANE CONVICT

Fisher Releases Cutler Without Explanation.

A writ of habeas corpus discharging Ben Cutler from the state hospital for the criminal insane at Menard was issued without explanation yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher. The release of Cutler, who, at 27, has a police record dating to 1926, was opposed by the office of Attorney General John E. Cassidy.

Cutler was transferred to Menard last Oct. 19 from the Bridewell where he was serving a one year sentence for receiving stolen property. At the time of his arrest on a charge of burglary which never came to trial he was a fugitive from the Dixon State Hospital for Feeble Minded, from which he twice escaped. Dixon officials obtained the transfer to Menard.

Rules Transfer Illegal.

Habeas corpus proceedings were begun before Judge Fisher last January. He held Cutler's transfer had been without court order and freed him in $1,000 bond pending the final hearing yesterday. Cutler himself did not appear at the hearing. He is in Louisville, Ky., with his wife and child. He has a job there.

Yesterday's hearing was brief and brought a protest from George S. Lavin, an assistant attorney general.

"Are you going to allow this man his freedom on the evidence that has been presented here?" Lavin asked.

"Yes," said Judge Fisher. He would make no further comment then or later. He had previously termed the agitation over Cutler's release on bond as "a tempest in a teapot."

Lavin said Attorney General Cassidy will be in Chicago tomorrow and that he will confer with him on the possibility of an appeal from Judge Fisher's ruling. A writ of mandamus to expunge Judge Fisher's original order freeing Cutler on bond, sought by the attorney general's office, is still pending before the Illinois Supreme court.

Record Goes Back to 1926.

Cutler's police record begins on Dec. 23, 1926, when he was arrested for thievery and committed to St. Charles Training School for Boys. Cutler was arrested July 16, 1937, on a charge of burglary after $400 disappeared over a Sunday from the safe of a filling station at Ogden and Sawyer avenues in which he was employed. Besides the owner he was said to be the only one who had the combination.

Upon his arrest it was found that he was driving an automobile which had been stolen a year previously from a nurse at the Illinois Research hospital. Because of the character of the burglary case prosecutors elected to try him on a charge of receiving stolen property and he was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell by Judge Joseph Sabath.

CONFESSED GARY RAPIST-SLAYER SENT TO ASYLUM

Henry W. Schurg of Gary, who confessed raping and slaying Frieda Borman, was ordered yesterday to the hospital for the criminally insane in Michigan City, Ind. The order was issued by Judge William J. Murray of the Criminal court in Crown Point. The judge said Schurg should stay in the hospital until he regains his sanity, if he ever does, and then should be tried on an indictment charging second degree rape of another girl. Miss Borman was killed last fall.

Robert Brickman, 17 years old, testified yesterday in the Criminal court that he did not know what he was doing when he attacked his mother, Mrs. Selma Brickman, 38, with a chisel in their home at 1924 South Albany avenue, on May 10. He also attacked his father, Christ.

Robert said he and his mother quarreled when she asked him for a drink of water while he was washing the dishes. He said she was intoxicated.

The Rev. Frederick Pudsell, the family's pastor, testified that Mrs. Brickman had asked him to intercede in court for her son. Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley deferred until June 9 a ruling on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Read repeated charges made in a preliminary report which said there have been numerous irregularities in connection with the board's work.

KING AND QUEEN START TRIP EAST ACROSS CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31.—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain were on their way eastward across Canada tonight, their goal being Niagara Falls on June 7 and Washington, D. C., a day later.

The royal couple came here this afternoon from Victoria, the capital of the province, where they had spent two nights and a day. Another large crowd lined the streets of Victoria as they rode to the docks. Then, when the crowds called "We want the king, we want the queen," they waved farewell from the upper deck of the Prince Robert which brought them to the mainland at Vancouver.

After visiting New Westminster, twelve miles east of here, the king and queen again boarded the blue and stainless steel streamline train which brought them westward. They are to arrive at Jasper National park at 9 a. m. tomorrow. They will have a day of rest among the towering mountains of Jasper before going to Edmonton on Friday.

STRAY PIGEONS CASH IN ON BIRD FANCIER'S LOSS

Report of Theft Brings Them Food, Shelter.

A number of extremely surprised pigeons were cashing in yesterday on the theft Tuesday of seventy-seven racing homers from Joseph Schwartz, 1426 South Drake avenue.

Although none of his birds has been found, various others are being cared for by persons who read of Schwartz's loss. Rudolph Stivalich, 1216 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, has one. It was found in the shade of a hydrangea bush in his back yard. A band on one leg read AU 36 CHICAGO 60873.

Mrs. Emil Rogalla, 1931 Berteau avenue, wasn't able to catch the banded pigeon she saw sitting wearily on her window sill yesterday. But she put water and canary seed out for it, both of which it devoured. It was blue, she said, and pretty.

Brave Kindergarten Pupils.

Another pretty blue pigeon flew into the Zion City police station last night. Sergt. Harold Handyside said it bore bands with the numbers AU 38 MID 980 and 607 G.

An injured bird was captured by brave pupils of the Harbor Kindergarten, 1217 Chase avenue, when it hopped under a nearby porch to get away from a kitten. It is being kept by a tender hearted neighbor and will be released when it gets stronger. Its band read AU 37 MILWAUKEE 2237.

Number AU 38 ACE 1317, which also had a band reading D 926, flew in a window at the Western Electric company, 2511 23d street. C. H. Gilmore, an employé, is caring for it until it feels like traveling.

NPA 38 E 115, from Heaven only knows where, has been recuperating for a couple of days with Joseph Lukso, 10653 Michigan avenue. He said it was dog-tired when it arrived, but feels better now.

One in Stockton, Ind.

Stockton, Ind., also reported. In a phone call to a friend at the Carnegie Illinois Steel company, the finder, whose name was not learned, said the bird had a band with 339 AU 35 MID on its right leg and a simple 852 on the left.

Harry Hollowich, 4816 North Kimball avenue, is keeping a stray bird in a bushel basket in his basement. Hollowich would like to know what the C 1658 and 370 stand for.

If any one else finds any pigeons and wonders if they're Schwartz's, just remember that except for AU 37 RACINE 488, all include the name CHICAGO on the band and all begin with AU. Most of the final numbers fall within these groups: 66350 to 66400; 10351 to 10400; 44751 to 44800. There also is an AU 34 CHICAGO 47936.

City to Permit Payment of Fines in Installments

Letters instructing the thirty-six Municipal court judges to permit payment of fines on the installment plan in minor cases have been sent out by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby. Such payment has been provided by law for fifty years, Judge Sonsteby said, and the letters are in the nature of a reminder. He said installment payments would result in a saving to the city and county in that there would be fewer prisoners sent to the bridewell in cases where probation is waranted.

Philip McGee of New York City was sentenced yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Safety court to five days in the county jail on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He also was fined $10 for assault and battery. Mrs. Inez Schaefer, 3409 North Paulina street, captured McGee when he fled Sunday after an automobile collision at Ashland and Belmont avenues. In the ensuing quarrel McGee struck Mrs. Schaefer. Mrs. Schaefer's daughter, Margaret, and Mrs. McGee pulled each other's hair. McGee is 26 years old.

BLAME TAVERNS FOR ROWDYISM OF CCC YOUTHS

Police blamed taverns, particularly those in Niles Center, for the rowdy behavior of young men from the CCC camp at Harms road, Glenview. Sergt. John Garrity of the Morton Grove county highway station, whose six squads broke up a near riot on Skokie highway late Tuesday night, said both colored and white youths have caused numerous complaints from motorists whose cars they stopped.

Acting Chief Charles F. Paasch of Evanston said there had been numerous disturbances in his fifth ward as a result of CCC drinking excursions.

Officers at the Skokie Valley CCC camp, however, insisted that there was little drinking among the enrollees. They declared that only one tavern is near the camp and that is not allowed to sell liquor to the enrollees. Citizens close to the camp said, however, that enrollees got their liquor through tavern back doors.

Camp officers said there was only one injury in a fight between colored and white enrollees Tuesday night in the forest preserve.

ACCIDENT DEATH TOTAL IS DOWN; STILL ABOVE '38

Toll for Month 12 Less Than in May Last Year.

Cook county improved its automobile fatality record last month in comparison with May of 1938, but failed to show a lower toll for the first five months of the year because of higher figures for March and April this year.

The records of the coroner's office up to 4 p. m. yesterday disclosed that 344 persons had been killed in Cook county since Jan. 1. This was five more than in the corresponding period last year. The toll for May was 45, or twelve less than in May, 1938.

Following are the comparisons for the first five months:

January	94	102
February	41	50
March	86	57
April	78	73
May	45	57

Charles Urquhart, 49 years old, 252 Niagara avenue, Elmhurst, died yesterday at Lima, O., of injuries received in an automobile collision Tuesday near there in which another man was killed and two other persons were injured.

Raymond McKay, 23, of Marseilles, in La Salle county, died yesterday at Ottawa of injuries incurred Monday when the motorcycle on which he and Miss Viola Daggett of Ottawa were riding and a truck collided in Marseilles. Miss Daggett was killed.

Of the 344 persons killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, 270 met death in Chicago, where 8,115 persons were injured in the same period.

WANT TO JOIN THE "REGULARS"?

Then don't treat constipation the old-fashioned way—by enduring it first and trying to "cure" it afterwards. The modern way is to avoid it if you can. And if it's the common kind that's due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, you can avoid it by regularly eating crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and see if your troubles don't disappear. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

THERE'S AN AMAZING DIFFERENCE IN BEERS!

The big, important difference is in the flavor. And you can't describe flavor—you have to taste the difference.

BOTTLED AT THE BREWERY
Schlitz
THE BEER THAT MADE MILWAUKEE FAMOUS

Why do certain brands of beer taste bitter, others sweet? Both contain hops and malt. The art of brewing The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous is to achieve the full tang and flavor of true beer without the bitterness of the hops or the sweetness of the malt.

That famous flavor of Schlitz comes to you intact in every bottle. Here's why: The air that sustains life can destroy the flavor of beer if sealed in the bottle. SO... WE TAKE THE AIR OUT OF THE BOTTLE AN INSTANT BEFORE WE PUT THE BEER IN. An amazing new method that assures you brewery-fresh goodness always. Schlitz pioneers again!

LOOP ASKS ICKES FOR HIGH LEVEL SUBWAYS TODAY

Delegates Leave to Seek His O. K. on Change.

A five man committee of loop merchants and property owners departed for Washington yesterday afternoon to carry their protest against low level subways directly to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. The committee will ask Ickes, who is also head of the Public Works administration, to approve the construction of high level [close to the surface] subway tunnels under State and Dearborn streets in the loop. Such a change in plans would require the approval of the PWA, which is paying $18,000,000 of the $40,000,000 subway cost.

Heading the group, which will meet with Ickes this morning, is Russell Tyson, senior partner in the real estate firm of Aldis & Co. Tyson is chairman of the Property Owners' Committee on Subways for Mutual Protection, an organization which many loop property holders have joined.

State Street Council Backs Move.

Other members of the protest committee are John T. Pirie, president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.; Arthur B. Hall of the real estate firm of Hall & Ellis; Darrel Fulton, who represents the Leiter estate and Leonard Childs of Battey and Childs, consulting engineers.

Pirie will represent the State Street council, whose board of directors yesterday unanimously approved high level subways in the loop.

David Mayer Jr., president of the State Street council, announced that the change is being asked because the "convenience of the public comes above everything else."

"The tearing up of the street for a high level subway would inconvenience State street shoppers for two or three weeks only," Mayer said. "Such a tunnel would mean greater convenience for years to come because of the greater accessibility of a subway close to the surface. Our plea to Secretary Ickes is based solely on convenience for the traveling public."

Franchise Groups Deadlocked.

City representatives and negotiators for the transit lines meanwhile locked horns over another transit problem, the drafting of a comprehensive traction ordinance

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, said the city would go directly to the federal court, if necessary, in order to obtain from the transit representatives a definite set of proposals in writing for incorporation into a city ordinance.

"We have been ready to negotiate an ordinance since January, 1937," Harrington said, "and we have never had anything from the companies except a willingness to sit down and talk. It seems to me that the representatives of the unified Chicago Transit company should present a proposed plan that will include valuations, extensions, and a suggested rate of fare."

Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface lines and one of the three transit negotiators appointed by the federal court, objected to Harrington's proposal. He said the transit lines were unwilling to submit a definite plan because city representatives are in no position to make binding commitments without a public referendum on the ordinance.

PARKS TO START LAYOFF OF 16,000 WPA FORCE TODAY

The Chicago park district today will begin lopping off 16,000 Works Progress administration enrollees employed on park projects, it was announced last night by Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board. The action preparing for the layoff was taken a week ago. Removal of the WPA men from park jobs is expected to be completed in about a month.

The action was necessary, the WPA was told, because the legislature has failed to provide additional funds for Chicago's parks. Measures are now pending to raise the parks' pegged levy. Most of those thrown out of work will be forced to apply for direct relief, it was said. Many park projects, particularly the Lincoln park improvement program, are likely to be abandoned.

MAXWELL MART LOOKS AT ITSELF; VOTES A CHANGE

Surveyor Finds What Makes Street Tick.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

They have been amassing statistics on Maxwell street's four-and-a-half block stretch of prismatic and odoriferous outdoor market, and now there are figures to show which way the wind of sentiment blows on the "million dollar" plan of transformation.

In the business survey conducted by Ira W. Wolfe, the industrial and business engineer brought here by the Maxwell Street Merchants association to direct its modernization plan, it is disclosed that 8,829 persons are in the average crowd on the street on week days. On Sunday the number increases to an average of 34,056.

Match Bargaining Prowess.

From 58,679 visitors questioned, it was learned that 63.7 per cent come to the mostley mart as regular customers, first because they can buy cheaply there and, second, because they like to match their bargaining prowess with the wily salesmanship of the street. Slumming parties "sometimes they buy, and sometimes they don't"—account for 21.2 per cent of pedestrian trafic. Those who come solely to look and not to buy make up the remaining 15.1 per cent.

The plan of modernization proved good news to the regular patrons. Knowing their Maxwell street, they affirmed that nothing could change its spirit, that it was to personalities that it owed its individuality rather than to the tangible layout.

Votes Are One-Sided.

Among the merchants, 176 "landlords," the property owners, favor the plan, against 14 opposed to change. Only 17 of 121 pushcart operators shake disapproving heads over the newfangled pushmobiles that are to replace their ancient vehicles. Those who operate sidewalk stands are for modernization, 249 to 32.

Other figures brought out by the survey include 14.73 years as the average period Maxwell street merchants have been in business; 2.3 employés to each proprietor; an average working week of 59.6 hours for employés and 78.3 hours for employers, and an average weekly pay roll of $27.65.

Plans and specifications for the street have been submitted and approved. The new order is to be advanced gradually over a six month period, operations beginning early in July.

A Spic and Span Vista.

Mr. Wolfe's architectural drawing of the Maxwell street of the future presents a uniform vista of spic and span stalls painted in blue and orange. With one modification, orange having been substituted for white, the color scheme is taken from the six point star of the Hebrews, the Mogen David [shield of David].

Under the stimulus of the move to modernity, Maxwell street is taking a tug at its shoestrings—a fervent pull intended to elevate business to a higher plane of commercial morality, in keeping with the general uplift in appearance. The spirit of the Three Musketeers, "all for one and one for all"—that is to unite the street in a new code of ethics. Anyway, the merchants' association hopes it is. "The customer king" has been adopted as another guiding slogan. That one carries a postscript which, in the as yet unexpurgated Maxwell street vocabulary, runs, "King, not sucker."

TWO AGED MEN DIE IN HOLLAND.

Holland, Mich., May 31.—[Special.]—Derk Overwey, 85 years old, died of a heart attack in his home here today. His [illegible] George W. De Witt, 80, a retired farmer, also died last night.

REST, DIET, OXYGEN, NURSES PRESCRIBED FOR JOHN BARRYMORE

John Barrymore, who suffered a slight heart attack on Tuesday, was forbidden to return to his rôle in "My Dear Children" at the Selwyn theater last night. His physician, Dr. William H. Highstone, ordered him to remain in bed. A special diet, oxygen treatments, and 24 hour a day nurse service were decreed by Dr. Highstone and consulting physicians. Barrymore, they said, required a complete rest. He is staying at the Ambassador East hotel.

An electro-cardiographic examination, Dr. Highstone said, indicated a weak heart muscle. The actor is 57 years old. His illness was attributed to the strain of numerous personal appearances in addition to his stage performances. It was announced yesterday at the theater that the play would be resumed Monday night.

In Hollywood yesterday Elaine Barrie Barrymore, the actor's estranged wife, was asked if she would go to Chicago.

MAY'S RAINFALL ABOVE NORMAL, RECORDS SHOW

May of 1939 was wetter and warmer than normal. Statistics for thirty days of the month, given last night by Forecaster C. A. Donnel showed that the total rainfall was 3.66 inches, an excess of .22 of an inch and that the mean temperature was 60.8 degrees, compared with a normal of 52.4.

Yesterday's maximum of 88 degrees at 3:30 p. m. was the highest recorded this year. The lowest reading was 39 on May 3. The percentage of sunshine was 77 per cent. The average is 64 per cent. Donnel said that showers which began last night would continue today and tomorrow and that somewhat lower temperatures may be expected.

It has been announced that J. R. Lloyd, Donnel's first assistant, will go to Kansas City, Mo., July 1 to head a new forecasting district if funds for the office are appropriated by congress. The district will keep records and make forecasts for Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

LAND CRIPPLED AIRLINER SAFELY WITH 12 ABOARD

A minor drama of the air transportation industry brought two special city fire trucks to Chicago airport last evening and caused ground preparations for an emergency landing of a crippled airliner. But the plane, a Douglas DC-2 airliner of Transcontinental and Western Air, landed safely and its ten passengers learned nothing of the fears for their craft.

The airliner, bound from New York to Chicago, developed trouble in one of its two motors over McCool, Ind., 40 miles south and east of Chicago airport.

The two pilots, Capt. W. M. Ambrose, and R. A. Dunahoo, coaxed up the failing engine and opened up the throttle of the remaining motor. Then they called Chicago airport on the radio to gain precedence over other air trafic. While the ship came on, special fire and "crash trucks" were called out by airport officials. They were not needed for the pilots made a perfect landing on schedule.

WOMAN KILLED BY STREAMLINER.

Morris, Ill., May 31.—[Special.]—Miss Anna Keating, 62 years old, a resident of Highland township all her life, was struck and killed last night by the "Chicago," a streamlined passenger train on the Santa Fe railroad, as it was speeding eastward through the village of Kinsman.

MASS SUICIDES OF JEWS FEARED ON REFUGEE SHIP

Captain Warns Mutiny Is Threatened.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 31.—(AP)—Capt. Gustav Schroeder of the German liner St. Louis informed authorities today that he feared a collective suicide pact among his 917 German Jewish refugee passengers, who are scheduled to sail back to Hamburg with him tomorrow after being denied entry to Cuba.

He reported that there was a state of mutiny aboard which he could not control and therefore he feared open mutiny when the ship left Havana harbor.

25 Police Sent Aboard.

Capt. Schroeder made his statement after Capt. Juan Estevez Maymir, chief aid of President Federico Laredo Bru, had spent several hours aboard the ship investigating reports that hundreds of the refugees were threatening to take their lives if the ship sailed back to Germany.

Twenty-five police were sent aboard the liner to guard others from any attempted self-destruction after Max Loewe, one of the refugees, slashed his wrists and jumped overboard yesterday. He was rescued and is recovering. The ship's doctor said another passenger who became ill probably had taken poison.

Capt. Estevez Maymir reported to President Laredo Bru, who earlier refused to receive Luis Classing, representative of the Hamburg-America line. Classing sought to obtain a reversal of a government decision not to permit the refugees to land.

Unable to Show Visas.

The refugees were refused permission to disembark on arrival last Saturday when they were unable to show Cuban consular visas, passports, or Cuban labor department permits, as required by a decree of May 5. They had only provisional permits of the immigration department to land as passengers en route to the United States, where they hoped to gain admission later. The refugees asserted they were unaware when they left Germany of the decree of May 5.

At a cabinet meeting today, it was reported, President Laredo Bru held firm to his decision not to receive the refugees. It was understood the cabinet discussed several compromises, including a plan announced about two months ago by Antonio A. Sanchez de Bustamante, Havana lawyer, to buy land on the Isle of Pines and establish Jewish colonies. The plan never was approved by the Cuban government, however.

KIN OF CHICAGOANS.

Chicagoans have paid the expenses of a number of the refugees aboard the liner St. Louis at Havana, it was disclosed last night. Many of them are said to have relatives in Chicago.

Julius N. Heldman, an attorney, said he has seven clients here who have paid the expenses of about a dozen of the refugees on the St. Louis. The expenses were $175 for passage and a $500 bond posted with the Cuban government to insure that the refugees would not become a public burden in Cuba. Heldman declined to name his clients.

The man is suffering from amnesia. Photographs are expected in a day or two to determine the man's identity.

MILLION DOLLAR POWER RATE CUT IN EFFECT TODAY

Rate reductions which go into effect today will cut nearly a million dollars a year from the electric power bills of residential customers in Chicago suburbs and nearby towns, the Illinois commerce commission announced yesterday. The reduced rates, approved by the commission three months ago, will benefit about 350,000 customers.

Reductions totaling $741,000 a year will be made by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The commission estimates that the average yearly saving per customer will be $3.05. Some 34,000 customers of the Western United Gas and Electric company will save about $62,000, or $1.80 apiece, annually.

Present residential rates of the Central Illinois Public Service company will be reduced about $115,000 a year. The cut will affect 60,000 users in fifty-five communities.

MOTHER TO SEE MANIAC GUNMAN WHO SHOT SON

Paul Gagne's mother came here yesterday from Quebec, Canada, to see her son, who was shot and critically wounded Saturday by a maniac criminal. After visiting her son in the Bridewell hospital she asked permission to see the man who shot him, Frank Haines. Capt. Julian Bernacchi of the Des Plaines police said she would be allowed to see Haines today. The wounded man's mother, Mrs. Anne Gagne, did not explain why she wishes to see the gunman. Haines escaped Jan. 1 from the Ohio hospital for the insane in Lima. He shot Gagne and George Roach, 25, of 1426 Madison street, in a tavern at 651 Madison street. He was arrested after the tavern patrons overpowered him. Gagne, who is 24 years old, came to Chicago recently from Stafford Springs, Conn.

GETS YEAR IN JAIL FOR SHOOTING OF UNION ORGANIZER

Store Employe Convicted at Bench Trial.

Herman Brandt.

Herman P. Brandt, 35 years old, was sentenced to serve one year in the county jail yesterday by Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court. He was found guilty at a bench trial of assault with a deadly weapon, a misdemeanor.

Brandt shot one union agent and tried to shoot a second during a mêlée in front of a produce store at 6520 South Cicero avenue on April 16. Brandt was an employé of the store owned by Herman Wadler, who was having difficulty with union agents trying to organize his employés. Brandt contended he shot in defense of his employer. The state's evidence showed he shot at the union agents while they were running away.

One Shot in Leg.

The complainants were Harry Thieme, 5361 South Artesian avenue, financial secretary of the Egg Inspectors union, and John J. Moran, 757 West 34th street, business agent for local 546 of the Meat Cutters union. Thieme was shot in the leg. Moran said Brandt pointed the gun at him and pulled the trigger, but the weapon failed to go off.

Wadler, testifying in behalf of his employé, told of his difficulties with the unionists. He declared that all of his employés are paid more than the union scale, and that none of them ever expressed a desire to join a union. Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers objected that this subject was not at issue and the judge sustained the objection.

The testimony disclosed that four unions—egg inspectors, meat cutters, teamsters, and grocery clerks—have been picketing the store in an attempt to organize Wadler's employés. On April 16, according to the testimony, Wadler fought and defeated a union organizer, William Levine. The organizer later returned with a dozen other men and a new fight started.

See Gang Beat Employer.

Brandt testified he saw the gang begin slugging Walder. He said he seized a revolver and ran to his employer's aid. Thieme and Moran, who were not taking part in the fight, saw the revolver and ran. Brandt pursued Thieme for 300 feet and then fired. Moran was bowled over by a truck. He testified Brandt tried to shoot him while he was helpless on the ground. Brandt testified he never intended to shoot either man, but only intended to stop them.

Prosecutor Meyers in asking for a conviction said Brandt overstepped his rights of self-defense when he shot after the fight was over and the men were running away.

Wadler has filed an injunction suit to stop the unions from picketing and committing violence. At hearings before a master in chancery other produce dealers told of being threatened by pickets when they visited Wadler's store.

Five Schoolboys Seized in Stolen Car

5 BOYS IN STOLEN CAR ARE HELD IN JUVENILE COURT

Lieut. John Kelly of the state's attorney's police yesterday questioned five grammar school boys who were arrested Saturday in a stolen automobile and then turned them over to the Juvenile court. They were seized after the car, which belonged to Harold Wagner, 8034 Evans avenue, crashed into a street car and overturned at 35th street and Normal avenue. Thomas Higgins, 13 years old, 2714 Princeton avenue, the driver, incurred a broken arm. The others are Cornelius McCarthy, 13, 2623 Union avenue; Morris Palmisano, 12, 2542 Normal avenue; Francis Neerose, 16, 2626 Wallace street, and James Buggie, 15, of 516 West 26th street. The car had been stolen from 3048 South Halsted street, where Wagner left it with the motor running. All but Palmisano had juvenile records.

Sparrows Attack Couple; Crazy with Heat, He Says

Camden, N. J., May 31.—(AP)—An excited man called police headquarters when the temperature was ninety today and said, "I am at Magnolia and Park boulevard. A flock of sparrows is attacking my wife and me. They must be crazy with the heat." Police found the couple soothing scratches on their arms. The sparrows had flown away.

Ask Tax Boost to Help Library Buy More Books

A seven point program for the improvement of the Chicago public library will be considered by the library board today. The program is the conclusion of a two year study of the library made at the board's request by members of the University of Chicago library school.

Carleton Bruns Joeckel and Leon Carnovsky of the library school made the study and recently presented a 600 page report. The report will be made public at today's meeting. The recommendations are:

1. Increased income. It recommends the library tax levy be increased from four-fifths of a mill to 1.2 mills. That would give the library $2,400,000 a year. It now operates under a $2,000,000 pegged levy. The report praises the board's honesty in the handling of library funds. The increased revenue would be used principally to buy books.

2. Administrative reorganization. It recommends the board confine itself to policy determination, planning and appraisal of results of administrative officers.

3. Better library personnel. The report condemns the civil service rule which confines library position examinations to residents of Chicago. It suggested that salaries be increased to meet higher educational and professional requirements for employés.

4. Adequate book resources. It recommends increased purchases of books to make up for the depression years when none were bought. The library last year bought 200,000 books and the same number will be bought this year.

5. Dynamic service. It recommends the library be publicized so that "even the least Chicagoan should be aware of its service."

6. Building program. More branch buildings are suggested. It also suggests the alteration or rebuilding of the present main library building.

7. Coöperation in a library capital. It suggests all libraries in the Chicago metropolitan area coöperate in supplying each other with books.

The survey was financed by a $10,000 grant from the Carnegie corporation.

Bluffing About Popularity Is Sure to Fail

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"We are a group of girls working together. There is one whom we cannot avoid when we get ready to go to luncheon or are planning any little affairs, but she bores us all to tears. We are writing to you, wondering, if you won't please write something about her type of behavior that irritates us so. It is this:

"We know, for instance, that she has no boy friend; that she is never invited to dances and to the movies as are other girls. But her whole conversation consists of stories we know she makes up about how her telephone keeps ringing every night and the excuses she gives because other suitors await her. It is such a silly fault in a girl who occupies a well-paying job. Is there any way we could hint her out of her dull stories [and tall ones]? We know that she would have a chance with the boys if she would only cut out this kind of talk, and the truth is that we feel sorry for her and realize that she is her own worst enemy. THE GIRLS."

It's an odd quirk, isn't it, but a fairly common one demonstrated in different ways? It's bluffing, that's what it is. You find it in girls who are inept and will brang of their accomplishments. Of, you will sometimes find it in girls talking in big money terms whereas they are on limited incomes.

We think you girls might bring up the subject of defeating one's real hopes by such posing. Don't make it too pointed, but talk about girls who tell of invitations that you know they do not get really. Take the girl in as if she would not be guilty ever of behaving so ludicrously.

It's a defense mechanism that grows with the passing years. Some adult women will pursue it childishly.

The Housewife

Have you ever thought about papering the walls of your bedroom clothes closet? Don't just repeat the bedroom walls but make use of a gay contrasting color or use the same colors in a different way. For instance, if you have peach wall paper with a powder blue pattern for the bedroom hang a powder blue paper with a peach polka dot design in the adjoining closet.

For a boy's room you can work out a stunning clothes closet with wall paper imitating pine, knots, and all. Or try a good looking walnut paper. You'll be amazed to see how closely wall paper can imitate the effect of wood. And at a price that won't break the budget. E. W.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dawson of Barrington announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sarah Ann, to Donald G. Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dickson of Redfield, S. D. The marriage will take place on June 17 at the Methodist church in Barrington.

The engagement of Miss Marie Louise Juhnke to James Vincent Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Daniels of 4829 North Paulina street, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Juhnke of 5403 Lakewood avenue.

Trick.

Neatest after-dinner trick of the week (as demonstrated by Sam Pace): Fill a liqueur glass with brandy and another with water, both brimming full. Ask spectators if they know how the brandy can be transferred to the water glass and the water to the brandy glass without the use of a third receptacle. Show them by placing a piece of paper over the water glass, inverting it quickly and placing it on top of the glass of brandy. Slide the paper so there is a tiny crack between the two glasses. Wait patiently a few moments. The brandy will slowly rise into the inverted water glass, the water move into the brandy glass.

Mr. Reiner is lecturing at the school tonight at 8 o'clock on From Pyramid to Skyscraper. The young Czech, who worked with Corbusier in Paris for two years and with Walter Gropius, now head of the Harvard school of architecture, is considered one of the most ingenious of modern young architects by fellow professionals.

* * *

If you're interested in architecture you might like to know that the current issue of Twice a Year, the semi-annual journal of literature, the arts, and civil liberties, has an architecture section, with pieces by William Lescaze, Lewis Mumford, Gropius, George Bernard Shaw, and a reprint of the talk made by the late Louis H. Sullivan in 1900 on the occasion of the establishment of the Architectural League of America, The Young Man in Architecture.

Heavyweight's Wish.

Gunnar Barlund, the 200 pound Finn who will meet Chicago's Tony Musto at the Chicago Stadium June 8, contenders both for Joe Louis' title, and who is being given a luncheon today at A Bit of Sweden, is a kind of Finnish Gene Tunney. He is correspondent for a Finnish newspaper and sends back pieces about what goes on in America. Madeleine Woods and some friends dropped in to see him at his training camp at Stone Lake, Wis., not far from Duluth, found him wearing a stocking cap, slacks and sweater, a three days' growth of beard on his face. He confided to Mrs. Woods what he wanted most to see when he got to Chicago—Gertrude Lawrence and the Pump room!

Osteopathy Class.

Twenty-four graduates of the Chicago College of Osteopathy, 5200 Ellis avenue, will be given degrees tonight in commencement exercises in the Hyde Park Baptist church, 56th street and Woodlawn avenue. Dr. R. N. MacBain, college president, will confer the degrees.

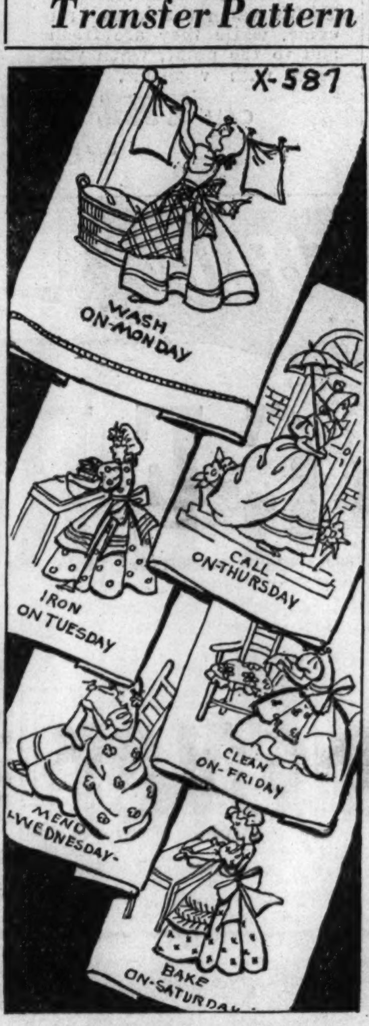
A Busy Colonial Lady Depicted in Transfer Pattern



BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a busy colonial lady whose every day is well filled with gainful occupation. These days-of-the-week designs are for use on hand towels or tea towels. Omitting the lettering, these 6 inch figures may be used for pillows or wall hangings, too. Cross-stitch, chain, feather stitch, outline stitch and French knots are the various embroidery mediums used, and all of them are easy to do.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the colonial lady's days-of-the-week, No. X-587, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Nervous Child Needs Going Over by Doctor

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In this second of the series on the nervous child, I want to start by repeating one thing that was said yesterday. It is that in curing nervousness we must work on the whole child because we human beings are not made up of sections: physical, mental, emotional. Rather, each aspect of us is tied up with the other. So, in treating our nervous child we build him up in every aspect of his being.

[a] Correct, or start correcting, any physical difficulty.

[c] Manage him wisely.

[d] Change any circumstances in his life that create tension, or unhappy emotion.

Since we know each point needs explanation we are going to take them in turn. Let us start with: "Correct, or start correcting, any physical difficulty."

Ordinarily this would mean calling in the services of a doctor. Nervousness may be entirely physiological—bad eyesight, malnutrition, or intestinal or stomach disorders may be responsible for nervous symptoms.

Whatever other measures we follow up with, the first factor—that of possible illness or defect must be looked into as a starting point.

Before considering the other three possible factors of nervousness I want to take time off to diverge, because there's a little information I'd like to pass on to you, in case you're not aware of it. It has to do with manual therapy—psychological healing through the use of the hands.

Neurologists who are treating cases of nervous exhaustion, breakdown, or whatever you choose to call it, have discovered that healing and often the release of talent come through their patients' hands. They provide opportunity for these ill people to choose from among various of the arts and crafts.

So, while we dig under to find fundamental causes we can at the same time help the nervous child enormously by providing him with physical activity, but especially with activity of the hands. At the moment I am not thinking of playthings, though the right ones are most necessary. I am thinking rather of the many other ways in which a child can use his or her hands. And many things that are thought of as pursuits exclusively for either boys or girls can be engaged in by both.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

Relations between master and man, as well as between opposite sexes, on the griddle today; try to see that interests of both sides are mutual and act accordingly. Don't let the pendulum swing too far in either direction; go slow.

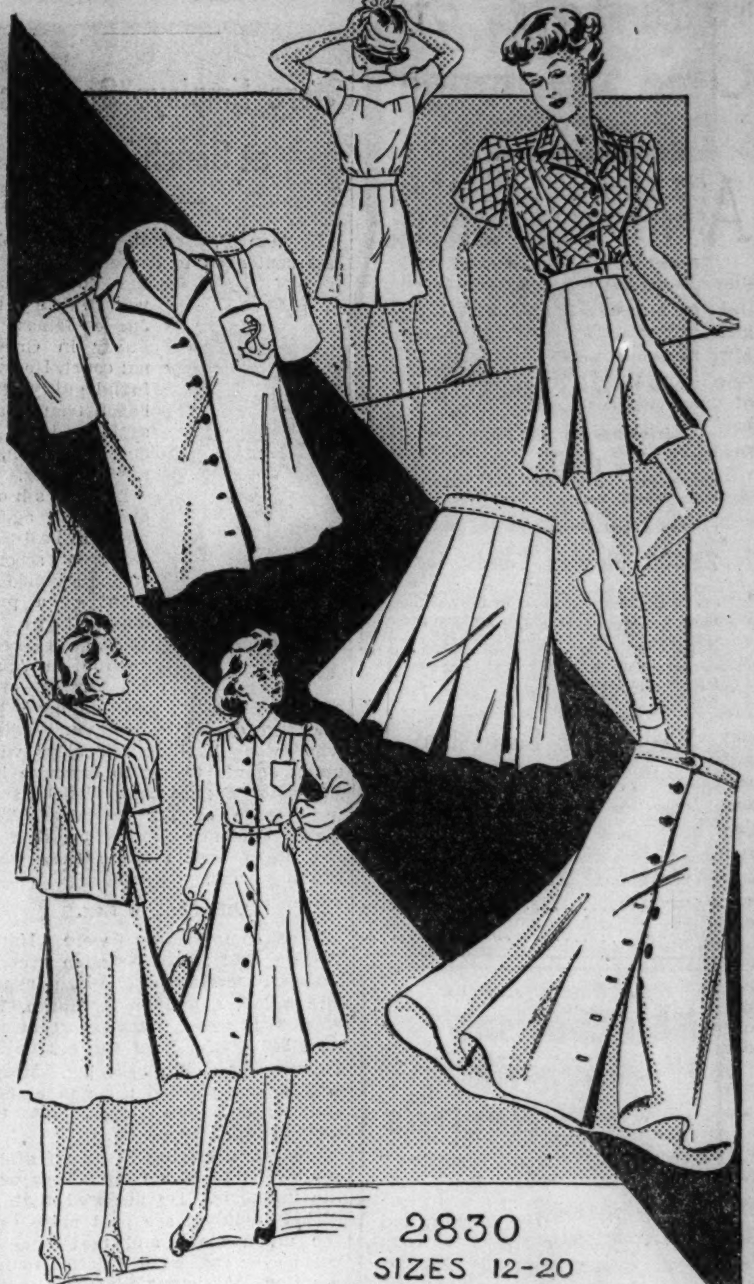
Play Clothes for Summer



MISS' PLAYTIME TOGS.

Now that vacation time has officially begun you're going to need plenty of playtime attire for the season. The pattern today fashions quite a wide variety. Included are plaited shorts, a flared buttoned-on skirt, and a shirt which may be worn over or under either skirt or slacks. The neckline of the blouse may be revers or with a buttoned up shirtwaist collar.

For the pocket on the blouse there is an embroidery pattern, No. E-705, which perpetuates the nautical theme in the form of an anchor. This pattern costs 10 cents extra.

Both plain and printed cottons, linens and wash silks make up well in these play clothes. You can combine colors and patterns to suit your fancy, and it's high fashion to use as "loud" colors as you like.

Style No. 2830 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for the shirt; 1⅛ yards of 39 inch for the shorts, and 2⅜ yards of 39 inch for the skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Select Best Coiffure Line for You and Stick to It

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Every day, it seems, we are approached with queries about the right hairdo. Not so much about whether the hair goes up high, for women ended that violent uptrend themselves neatly and with dispatch. But they ask about the long bob and about headlines that may be both new and still not startlingly new.

Our answer is that, as with dress, once you've found the line that is best for you, adhere as closely to it as the current mode allows. By that is meant, as you do with clothes, to adopt some of the new features to give the up to date look without sacrificing the features that are best for your own individual self.

There are a couple of definite points relevant to smart hairdo for the moment that we call "musts." One is that your hair goes up from your temples and your forehead, no matter how you treat it elsewhere on your head. Another is that the head outline must be small, clean cut, and no matter how curled, it must have a controlled look, if you know what is meant.

Some women go on wearing their hair in deep temple dips, which is just as out of date as if they appeared in the kilt length skirt of years back. And the "hair plastered brow" is another unflattering, unsmart hangover from a dark beauty age.

Time and time again we have seen years drop from faces with the removal of that temple dip of which we speak. It gives heaviness along with its own ugly line. We would plead with any woman still given to pulling that temple swirl out to meet the eyebrow, to play fair with herself and try the experiment of simply combing that hair back and up from the temples in an uncurved motion so that it is clear of the side of the forehead completely.

New York Girl to Be Bride of Otto Madlener

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANY engagement announcement is interesting social news, but when it concerns one of Chicago's most attractive and popular bachelors it is news of special interest, especially to the home town girls. For it is a young New Yorker, Miss Elaine Wetmore, who has captured the heart of Otto Madlener, one of the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener of 4 West Burton place.

The announcement is being made in New York today by Miss Wetmore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Wetmore, formerly of Rye.

It was at the Virginia Hot Springs about a year ago that the Madlener twins met Miss Wetmore. No others of the family have met the future Mrs. Otto Madlener, but they are to have that opportunity next week, for Miss Wetmore is arriving on Thursday to visit her fiancé and his parents. Part of her visit will be spent in Chicago, but Mr. and Mrs. Madlener will take her to Lake Geneva for the week-end. The Madlener home, the Lindens, is one of the most hospitable at the lake and is filled with family and guests every week-end during the season.

Otto's twin is William C. Madlener and they have an older brother, Albert Jr., who with his wife, the former Harriet Lowden, and their children spend the summers at the Lindens.

Miss Wetmore was educated at the Rye Country Day school and Mr. Madlener went to Yale after finishing at the Boys' Latin school. He was graduated from Yale in 1926. No date for the wedding is set.

Miss Jean Ericson to Be Bride July 14.

Thrilling months are in store for Miss Jean Armour Ericson, who is to be married on July 14 to Norman Goss. They will spend the remainder of the summer in Honolulu and then will go to Paris to live until he finishes his music studies.

Miss Ericson and her mother, Mrs. Chester F. Ericson, are leaving for Pasadena on June 24; Mr. Ericson and John Armour Ericson, a student at the Boys' Latin school, will arrive in the west a few days later by motor. The bridegroom, who still is in France, will join his fiancée on July 6.

The wedding is to take place in the evening in the Church of the Angels in Pasadena, with a reception following in the home of Mrs. Ericson's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Cochran Armour. Miss Jean Tennant of Highland Park is to be the maid of honor. One other Chicagoan will be among the bridesmaids, Miss Jean Pettibone. Miss Barbara Morris and Miss Suzanne Armour, cousins of the bride; Miss Vail Goss, a cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Polly Baer, all of Pasadena, and Miss Betty Bosworth of Denver will be bridesmaids.

Jack Binkley of Pasadena, an uncle of Mr. Goss, but who is only a year older than the bridegroom, will be the best man. Ushering will be John Ericson, Armour Morris, and Donald Armour, cousins of the bride; Ruddy Bingham, a cousin of the bridegroom; Charles Eaton and Bryce Wilson of Pasadena, George Martin of New York, and MacDonald Lynch of Houston, Tex.

Miss Ericson will receive her diploma with other student of the Grey Ladies next Thursday at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Ericson will return to Chicago in the late summer. Mr. Goss is the son of Mrs. Joseph Goss of Pasadena.

Shreve Badger Will Take Bride in East.

Shreve C. Badger has been telling friends that he was going east in June to attend the twentieth reunion of his class at Yale, but yesterday the news came out that he also is going to take a bride while he is away. On June 22 in Amagansett, N. Y., Mrs. Lucy Norton Throckmorton and Mr. Badger will be married.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Leonard of New

Helpful Hints Are Printed on Newest Squares

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Gayety and wit are provided in the newly unpacked large linen and silk squares. On or off the head, these vividly decorative squares are good costume accents and offer amusement to the observing spectators.

One of the most thoughtful finds is the very large printed square of linen with every word of the national anthem—well, anyway, the first three verses. Think what a help it will be for the forgetful patriots suddenly called up to stand and sing with the rest of the crowd!

Forget a line or two—take off the neck scarf and read from there on. Not half as goofy as its sounds—it's really the brilliant idea of the year. The colors of the printed square, of course, are red, white and blue.

Park your rabbit's foot for a spell and try out the good luck out-size handkerchiefs—bright green, red, blue and yellow bands around a snow white center. Printed in white against the colored bands are dozens, of sevens, fives, and threes—take your choice. Going right along with these out-size linen squares are exactly matching regulation hankies for the nose or chest pocket trim.

Serious souls should wear the "have more fun" prints—big soft silk squares in lovely colors. Scattered all over the colored backgrounds are small illustrations and slogans depicting various themes of this propaganda for fun—catch bigger fish, dance more often, live more dangerously, and so on.

Another silk scarf boasts the complete calendar, month by month. Others designed for the absent minded traveler, are printed with reminders such as "Don't forget" and then the most mis-laid or forgotten articles—gloves, handbags, key and even hats.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

You just don't know what you're missing if you've remained unacquainted with those streamlined little aids, the beauty kits. Not so very long ago the beauty kit was a cumbersome thing and expensive. It was the rich woman's luxury. That's all changed now. Some of the least expensive beauty bags have high style, compactness and a sheer practicality that shouldn't go unappreciated.

There is, for example, one little bag that costs less than five dollars. It's no longer, certainly no bulkier, than some of the pocketbooks we've been toting. It's oblong, about seven inches long, four inches deep, and no more than three and a half in thickness. It's got a handy strap handle and it comes in simulated leather in red, black or blue.

You can carry it if you like, tuck it in your suitcase or keep it in the pocket of your car. In any case, it's a portable dressing table. In it you have some of the most necessary of beauty aids and some that, individually, would be the most troublesome to carry.

They're all of fine quality, too. There is one cream that can do double duty as a cleaner and a lubricant, another that is an elegant foundation. There is a box of powder held snug at the side and on the other side, two generous bottles, one of toning lotion, the other of a lovely summer beauty aid called a "complexion milk," a cool, quick cleanser. There's also the indispensable mirror.

Whether you go places frequently or remain chained to a desk this is a beauty bag worth owning.

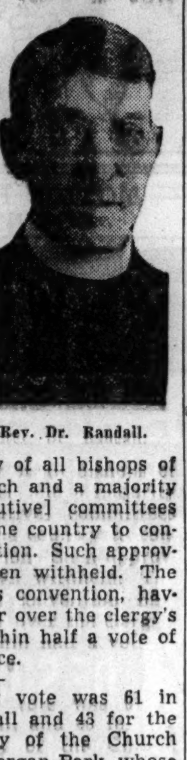
BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.



Rev. Dr. Randall.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Randall, for the last seventeen years executive secretary of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, yesterday was elected suffragan bishop to the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart. A suffragan does not have the right of succession in a diocese. The special convention was held in St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston. Seven ballots were required.

Under Episcopal laws it will next be necessary for a majority of all bishops of the Episcopal church and a majority of standing [executive] committees of all dioceses of the country to confirm yesterday's action. Such approvals have rarely been withheld. The laity in yesterday's convention, having only veto power over the clergy's selection, came within half a vote of refusing concurrence.

The final clergy vote was 61 in favor of Dr. Randall and 43 for the Rev. Carlton Story of the Church of the Mediator, Morgan Park, whose strength surprised many observers. Other nominees showing strength during the balloting were the Rev. Ray Everett Carr of St. Peter's church, 621 Belmont avenue, who was given 18 votes on the second and third ballots; Dean Gerald G. Moore of the procathedral, who had 12 votes on the first ballot, and the Rev. Dr. Dudley Scott Stark of St. Chrysostom's church, with 9 votes on the second.

Dr. Randall was given 45 votes on the first ballot and gained on each of the seven except the fourth when his vote was held to 48. The lay vote was 36 to 36½ for concurrence with the clergy vote. The half vote was accounted for by the delegations from missions which have but one-half a vote each. The parish delegations voted 29 to 26 against concurrence; the missions 10½ to 7 for concurrence.

Dr. Randall announced his acceptance of the election. A native of Sparta, Wis., Dr. Randall will be 70 years old in October, when his consecration probably will take place. He was graduated from Hobart college in 1893 and from Western Theological seminary [now Seabury-Western seminary, Evanston] in 1896 and was ordained the same year.

After serving St. Barnabas church, 4241 Washington boulevard, from 1896 to 1908, as a mission clergyman, the parish was raised to a parish status and Dr. Randall served as rector until 1921. Since 1922 he has been executive secretary of the diocese, and has been superintendent of Chicago city missions since 1932. For many years Dr. Randall has been a member of the standing committee of the diocese.

Dr. and Mrs. Randall live at 1049 Michigan avenue, Evanston.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Return of a Favorite.

Hollywood, Cal., May 31.—No better news in all the studio publicity envelopes than the promise of a new "Thin Man" picture with William Powell, because he has been away for too long a time.

In fact, for a time it appeared that illness had become a permanent stand-in for Powell and that he'd made his last flicker, but at the Lionel Barrymore dinner Bill was in attendance and looking fine, and now they are readying the script through which he and Myrna Loy will romp under Director Woody Van Dyke.

The movie colony is all in favor of it, because he's a nice person and he's had more than his share of tough breaks.

The Hollywood panorama has changed around quite a bit even in the relatively short time that Powell has been absent from films. . . . It was a result of the enormous popularity of the "Thin Man" pictures that Myrna Loy went on a strike for more dough-re-mi. . . . It was to counteract the Loy suit that M.-G.-M. introduced Luise Rainer and to drive the warning home Powell introduced Miss Rainer from the screen at the conclusion of the picture and recommended her to movie fans.

In the meantime Miss Loy got her raise and called off the strike, and Miss Rainer became an important star in her own right. . . . Playing the part of Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld," Luise stole the picture and won the Academy award in one brief telephone scene when she called Ziegfeld to congratulate him on his engagement to Billie Burke.

Personally, this reporter thought that the tear-jerker scene was too obvious theatricals, but the critics did nip-ups over it and the Academicians gave her the Academy award on the strength of it. . . . She followed that up by her performance in "The Good Earth," and won the award for the second time.

But Miss Rainer, unhappy over many things, is now out of pictures and Powell returns to find Myrna Loy still a prime favorite. . . . The fans established her as a prime favorite in "Thin Man" and they haven't relinquished that comradely feeling. . . . Her characterization as the perfect wife rang the bell.

Yet I doubt that she ever gave a better performance than she contributed to "The Prize Fighter and the Lady," which she made in concert with Max Baer. . . . The picture was the best fight picture ever made, but didn't do the business to which its cinema merit entitled it. . . . They say that women, who determine the fate of all pictures, will not turn out to see a fight picture, and perhaps this is true. . . . Probably a throwback to the days when it wasn't considered nice for a girl to attend a prize fight.

Of all the sporting champs and extramural celebs who have come to the Hollywood celluloid mills none ever has given such an excellent performance as Baer. . . . He moved through the reels of "Prize Fighter and the Lady" as capably as an experienced actor, and even in his love scenes his general likability made him completely believable.

The picture really served as a double forecast, a forecast of his knockout of Carnera and a forecast of his defeat at the hands of Louis, because Baer, in real life, was identical with the prize fighter he portrayed on the screen. . . . Perhaps that's what made him so believable.

So, although William Powell has been away only a little while as time is reckoned, quite a few things have occurred.

But if anything were needed to impress the time that has elapsed since Bill Powell made a picture, consider if you will that by the time he appears before the cameras "Gone with the Wind" actually will have been finished.

It will be good to have Powell in action again, because the screen found no substitute for him in his absence, and in fact M.-G.-M. was wise enough not even to try to locate a successor. . . . There are certain players who are so individual in performance that nobody else ever can replace them in the affections of the fans. . . . It is the highest tribute to William Powell, on his return, to tell him that we missed him, and to tell him we found no substitute.

Good Morning!

KIND: Racketeer melodrama, written by our own Ed Sullivan, who also as himself, a columnist, appears in the cast. . . .

ACTING: Sincere all the way through. Barton MacLane's a favorite of mine—as of yours. You'll like Eve Arden a lot and be surprised to see how dexterously Tom Brown handles a rôle widely different from any he's had before.

TECHNICALITIES: Satisfactory.

STORY: A suspenseful and earnest pictorial lesson, dealing with the facts that crime doesn't pay, that racketeers cover with pitch everything they touch, and that a master mind's stooge will, in all probability, sell out his boss, and, in turn, be head man till some one—his own stooge, possibly, hands him HIS passport to the place all bad boys go.

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home. He meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas, routed from Mexico, has joined Lane. Jeff offers to try to make peace with the better element, and with Jim Williams, starts for the ranch of Carl Nielsen. They are pursued and fired on by Banderas and his men, but manage to reach the Nielsen ranch. Banderas and his men appear. Jeff disarms them. Nielsen is shocked by the outlaws. The feud has prevented a romance between beautiful Olga Nielsen and Bill Raleigh. Next morning Nielsen leaves with Jeff for a conference with Phil Raleigh. Joan and Phil are missing—kidnaped in their own plane and made the prisoners of Banderas. Jeff, Jim Williams and Raeburn trail Lane Butler to the ranch of his ally, Rannigan. When Butler leaves Jeff forces Rannigan to lead them to the kidnaper's hideout. But Banderas has moved Joan and Phil into deeper hiding, after Phil had agreed to Butler's demands for fear of what might happen to Joan. Phil tries to buy their escape from Banderas. Jeff, Rae and Jim Williams kidnap Butler from his hotel and bring him to the ranch.

INSTALMENT XL.

RELEASE NEGOTIATIONS.

Lane threw up his hands in surrender. "All right. I'm in your hands. Make contact any way you can with Mallow. He'll get word to Banderas."

"How much money have you with you?" Jeff asked the prisoner.

"What's the idea?" jeered Lane. "You want to borrow five dollars?"

"No. Five thousand. And we don't want to borrow it, but to appropriate it."

"You think I carry five thousand with me?"

"At least five, maybe ten. We'll take all you have." Jeff explained, coolly insolent. "Like many clever scoundrels, you underestimate your opponents, Mr. Lane. Our reasoning is quite elementary. You came down here on a job that would need a lot of cash to pay your tools. Checks wouldn't do, since you didn't want to leave evidence in your wake. You keep the money on you because you're naturally afraid some of your gorillas might search the hotel room and find it. My guess is the bills are sewed into your coat or trousers. Do we search you . . . or do you dig up?"

"You're robbing me of this money," Lane snapped. "I knew you were a bunch of crooks."

"Not at all," Jeff answered blandly. "We're disbursing it for you. The laborer is worthy of his hire, you know. Your friends will feel more cheerful about giving up their prisoners if they get their pay just the same. Make up your mind. Do you dig . . . or do we?"

Lane dug. From the lining of his coat pocket, after ripping the seam with a pocket knife, he took a flat package of bills out of a concealed pocket. Jeff counted the bills. The amount was close to ten thousand dollars.

"If you don't mind we won't bother with the formality of a receipt now," Hunter said. "I'll make an accounting later."

"We'd better be on our way," Rae said, as usual fretting at even a necessary delay.

"Sure," Old Jim agreed. "But where do we go first?"

After Rae and Jeff had discussed the problem they decided to call up Mallow at once. If he could be roused from sleep he could talk with Lane and negotiations started with no delay.

Drowsily his voice came over the wire to Rae.

"For cripes' sake, what is the big idea in waking me in the middle of the night? Who is this anyway? What do you want?"

"Just a moment. Butler Lane wants to speak with you." Rae handed the phone to their prisoner. "Don't make any mistake, Lane," he warned significantly. "Go through this just the way we told you."

"I'm a prisoner at the River Bend," Lane explained to Mallow. "I was taken out of my room at the hotel an hour ago and brought here. The campaign is off, at least along the line I planned it. Our guests will have to be returned to their friends. Rae Raleigh will meet you at McIlheny's in an hour. Don't bring anybody with you. This is important. You won't run any danger at all if you do as I say."

"I don't quite get it," Mallow said. "What am I to do? If I talk with Raleigh it won't get us anywhere. I can't deliver his folks not without you along to fix things up with Pancho and the other boys. They'll want dough and plenty of it, I reckon."

"I'll arrange that. Your job is to be at the meeting place. See you are there. Alone."

"I'll be there. If you ask me, I'll be damned glad to see our guests delivered safely. I said from the first it was too dangerous a business."

He hung up. Lane turned to his captors.

"Where do we go from here?" he snapped.

"We go to town," Rae told him jubilantly. "At least I hope we do, and you'd better hope so too. Don't get any wrong notions. You are a prisoner first, last, and all the time till my cousins are turned over to us and reach safety. If there is any treachery, any fighting at all, you'll be the first to go down. It will be the personal affairs of each one of us to see to that."

"Do you take me for an idiot?" Lane asked. "I'm not going to start trouble until I'm in the clear." His thin lips set to a malevolent smile. "After that, we'll see."

"After we get Phil and Joan back you can do your damndest," Rae answered negligently. "I doubt if you can get the local riff-raff into your schemes again. You went a little too strong for them this time. Texas men don't war on women. Of course you wouldn't know that, Lane. You belong to the cat family and you scratch where you can."

Jeff arranged with Mary Lou that she was to call Bill up and ask him to meet them at the Rannigan ranch with four or five men as soon after breakfast as he could. "You'd better try to get him at the Fidler place and at the Robbins ranch. If you don't catch him at either you'll likely get him at Nielsen's around 5 or 6 o'clock. We'll need some sandwiches and a big thermos jug of coffee to take with us. Can you scare up some of the kitchen help to do a hurry up job for us?" he asked.

"I can do it myself quicker." Mary Lou hurried to the kitchen and began making coffee and sandwiches. She had the food ready by the time they were prepared to start. Jeff could see it comforted her to be helping.

They found Mallow waiting for them in a car at McIlheny's in the darkness outside. He had not awakened the family. Light was just beginning to break into the sky, but the sun would not be up for a long time yet.

As soon as Mallow saw the handcuff on his chief he deserted Lane.

"I always knew you were too smart," he said. "I told you so from the start. If I had known you meant to pull off this kidnaping I would never have had a thing to do with it. Now you see where you are."

His narrow eyes shifted from Jeff to Rae and back again. "But what about me? If I help you am I in the clear?"

"The rats are leaving," Lane said contemptuously.

They started for the front at once.

Phil Raleigh sat before a mesquite fire trying to keep warm in spite of the drizzling rain. He had slept, brokenly, for several hours. Joan was still asleep. She lay on a bed of branches covered by a saddle blanket. Above her was a poncho tossed her by one of the Mexicans.

Banderas straddled his bow-legged way from the fire where he had been sleeping.

"Ho, señor! Breakfast in fifteen minutes," he announced. "I shall do myself the honor of eating with you and the señorita."

Joan's eyes opened and rested on him. She did not move nor say anything. One could not have told that she was fighting down the fear this man stirred in her.

The huge Mexican grinned at her, sweeping from his head the sombrero with an exaggerated bow. "Buenos dios, señorita. I hope you slept well."

"Yes," she said, and the eyes that met his were unafraid.

"That is good. Perhaps you would like to wash your hands and your pretty face. There is a waterhole fifty yards down that path. I will stay with your brother, and if you are not back in . . . shall we say five minutes? . . . I shall be compelled regretfully to pump lead into him. Understand, my dear?"

"I understand," she said. "I will be back."

New York Girl to Be Bride of Otto Madlener

York, has been living in New York and in Bernardsville, N. J., since her divorce in 1933 from Edgerton Throckmorton of Chicago and Lake Forest.

Among the wedding guests will be Mrs. Throckmorton's 11 year old son, Peter, and Mr. Badger's daughters, Cecilia and Theodora, aged 13 and 11, respectively. Mr. Badger and the children's mother, the former Theodora Winterbotham, were divorced just about a week ago.

Mr. Badger and his bride will be at home in his Arlington place house after the middle of July, at which time the Badger children will go to Vergennes, Vt., to spend the rest of the summer with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham.

The Throckmortons and the junior William E. Casselberrys were neighbors in Lake Forest and the two women lived together during the months they spent in Reno. Their divorces were granted on the same day, and about three months later Mrs. Casselberry and Mr. Throckmorton were married. Mr. Casselberry is married again, too, and lives on a ranch near Asheville, N. C.

Arthur Krock to Wed Mrs. Granger Blair.

Society columnists in Washington are reporting parties for Mrs. Granger Blair and Arthur Krock, and one recently wrote about the "very beautiful pearl engagement ring" Mrs. Blair was wearing. From this it would appear that Mrs. Blair and Mr. Krock are planning to be married, although their denials that a date is set undoubtedly are true.

Until the uncertainty as to the adjournment of congress is ended, and until Mrs. Blair's father, Alfred H. Granger, is improved in health, there probably will be no definite date planned.

Some of Mrs. Blair's Chicago friends had heard that the ceremony was to take place on June 6 with a Honolulu honeymoon in prospect; others had heard on "reliable" authority that the wedding would be a bit later in Roxbury, Conn., where Mr. and Mrs. Granger live, and that Bermuda would be the destination of the wedding trip. Whenever or wherever the marriage, it will be of interest to the bride's many Chicago relatives and friends. As Martha Granger, then as Mrs. William Mitchell Blair, and finally as Mrs. Granger Blair, the bride-to-be has been popular with Chicago's fashionable folk. Mr. Krock is chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Times.

Armour Cousin to Arrive Today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III. are entertaining at the Onwentsia club's buffet supper tonight for her cousin, Countess Guy de Baillet-Latour of Brussels, who is arriving today. The former Marianna Dunn of Washington has come to Lake Forest for the marriage on Saturday of another cousin, Miss Betty Armour, to Gerald V. Hollins Jr. Countess de Baillet-Latour will stay with the Watson Armours.

Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. has arrived from Bermuda and is staying with Mrs. Russell Kelley at the Lake Forest home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field. Mrs. Drake, formerly Frances Lowden, will call Bermuda home henceforth. She has bought an old house on the island and is having it remodeled. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by December.

Mrs. John L. Kellogg is opening her home at 2952 Lake Shore drive tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for a liturgical concert and tea for the benefit of the Warrenville Convent of Our Lady of the Cenacle. Msgr. Primeau's Choir Boys will give the program.

Among the board members who will be present are Mrs. Henry Murphy, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Countess Bolognesi, Mrs. Roy Carney, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mrs. Charles Kerwin, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, and Mrs. Hempstead Washburne.

Five Thousand at Greater North Side Music Fete

For two hours last night, five thousand members of the community that centers around Ashland and Leland avenues sat outdoors at Chase park, and listened to music. It was the Greater North Side music festival, arranged by the Chicago park district, with the coöperation of neighboring high schools. Seven hundred singers, baton twirlers, drum and bugle corps and a drill team from the 134th regiment of the National Guard appeared.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Almost every player realizes the tremendous importance of opening leads, but few, I fear, appreciate how much imagination must go into their selection. West, in the following hand, proved that opening leads are a science unto themselves.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West, on opening lead, did not make his choice in a hurry. He went into a long huddle to consider his own holding in its relation to the bidding. It was, of course, obvious that the dummy would go down with four hearts, and since North also had bid diamonds, there was a strong presumption that he was short in the spade suit. Naturally, West wanted to preserve his spade tricks from extinction via the ruff method, and it did not require much imagination to hit upon a trump opening as the best defense. Most players would attack trumps with West's hand, but how many would select the proper trump, and the one which, in this case, could have resulted in the defeat of the contract?

West was tempted to lay down the ace and another trump, but he reasoned that he might not be able to regain the lead and, in that case [since East was marked with no more than two trump], the defenders would not be able to lead a third round of trumps. West neatly side stepped this difficulty by choosing a trump that would permit the maintenance of communication between himself and partner. In other words, he led a low trump. Note the splendid result of this selection. Declarer won and cashed the spade ace, then ruffed a spade, dropping West's jack. But now there was no quick way for declarer to reënter his hand for another spade ruff. He did his best by leading a club, but East hopped up with the ace and returned the trump that had been so thoughtfully preserved for him by his partner. West won with the heart ace and led a third round of the suit, effectively scotching any further spade ruffing in the dummy. Declarer could not help himself. He had to lose, in all, one spade, one heart, one diamond, and one club.

Now let us note what would have happened if West had led the ace and another heart at the start. Declarer would win, cash the spade ace, and then ruff away West's jack. As before, he then would lead a club. East could win or not, but would be powerless to take out dummy's last trump or to put West on lead for that purpose. If East won with the ace, he could do no better than return a club. Declarer would win and now ruff away West's spade king, then return to his own hand by ruffing a club, pick up West's remaining trump, and cash the spade queen before collecting dummy's ace and king of diamonds.

Canned meats often are lifesavers in meal planning. Usually they need a little dressing up so that they won't give themselves away. A spicy sauce, a biscuit crust, or browned pineapple can do much for corned beef hash and other canned meats.

There must be dozens of variations on the canned meat themes I'm presenting here. Other meats, other seasonings may be used in the same or similar ways to produce equally tempting results. These will, perhaps, be incentive for experimentation in the preparation of canned meats.

[Serves Four.]

1 pound can corned beef hash
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Chill the corned beef before opening the can, so that it will cut into neat slices. Melt butter in skillet, add onion, and let cook until yellowed. Place slices of corned beef in the pan and brown on each side. Serve hot with sauce made from remaining ingredients. Melt butter, add flour, and blend. Add salt and milk. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add mustard. Pour the sauce over the hot patties on the heated platter. Parsley may be used as a garnish.

Catsup or chili sauce may be used instead of mustard in the meat sauce.

CORNED BEEF HASH OR CANNED SAUSAGE ROLLS.

Make baking powder biscuit dough and roll out into a square. Spread with minced canned corned beef or sausage meat and roll up. Cut off biscuits about 1½ inches wide. Bake on a lightly greased baking sheet or in muffin pans in a hot oven, 425 degrees. Serve with mustard sauce described in the previous recipe, with chili sauce, or gravy made by adding two or three tablespoons of meat extract to 1½ cups medium white sauce. Minced sautéed onion and parsley may be added to the meat before it is spread on the biscuit dough.

CANNED MEAT TURNOVERS.

Cut pie pastry into rounds or squares. Spread half with minced canned corned beef, sausage meat, chopped frankfurters or Vienna sausage, and fold the other half of the pastry over it, pressing the edges together. Bake until brown and serve with mustard cream sauce, chili sauce, or tomato sauce.

Almost any canned meat may be used in these last two recipes—beef or veal loaf, spiced ham, canned roast beef and other similar products may be adapted. In some cases, if the meat itself isn't as spicy as you want it, one or two of these may be added: Minced onion, curry powder, chili powder, sage, pimiento, green pepper.

SPICED HAM WITH PINEAPPLE FINGERS.

Cut canned spiced ham into slices. Brown pineapple fingers in a little hot bacon fat on all sides. Then brown the spiced ham slices in the bacon fat. Sprinkle browned pineapple with grated cheese and serve on a hot platter with bacon strips and browned ham slices.

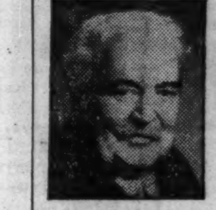
WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR



Salute to the June bride! I congratulate her on securing the man of her choice, and for having the good sense to be born in an era when feeding a husband no longer has the terrors it once had. Today's bride is an enterprising young woman who knows not only her onions but who buys Wilson's Certified Ham of course—and keeps her pantry stocked with the many other culinary short cuts that the Wilson label offers. And that's saying a good deal.

P. S.—I will be lecturing all summer in the Court of Flame, New York World's Fair. I'll be happy to have you visit me. G. R.

"IT'S AN INSULT, SUH!"

If you really want to know what started the Civil War, it was when a Northerner and Southerner got into a dispute about the respective merits of their ham. For all I know the argument is still raging, sub rosa, but for the time being we will let Wilson & Co. have the last word, because you simply cannot surpass this way of cooking a real ham steak, when it's cut from a Wilson's Tender, Extra Mild, Certified Smoked Ham:

SOUTHERN STYLE HAM STEAK

1 1½-inch Wilson's Certified Ham Steak
2 tablespoons Clear Brook Butter
2 cups milk
1 pinch sweet thyme
1 bayleaf
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Roll the ham well in flour, sprinkle with pepper and rub in the butter. Put in a casserole, add the milk and seasonings. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350°) until tender, about 1½ hours. Place on platter and surround with gravy. If preferred, thicken the gravy with a little flour.

THEY'RE OFF AGAIN!

If the family next door is excessively picnic-minded, you can be pretty sure of one thing . . . the queen of the kitchen keeps a good supply of picnic makin's on hand at all times.

Whenever the urge for the great outdoors swoops down she has only to gather up two or three kinds of Wilson's Certified Lasting Flavour meats—such as Spiced Ham, Luncheon Meat, Calf, Ox or Pork Tongue—and some Sulze for the menfolks—buns, fruit and beverage, and they're off.

All of Wilson's Certified Lasting Flavour meats are vacuum-cooked, to seal in the flavor, ready to serve and perfectly seasoned. Ideal for cold platters and icebox snatches, too.

"I'm Going Home"

Into each bride's life, some rain must fall, and when this precipitation takes the form of bitter tears plus the impulse for flight home to Mother, it is best to restrain the urge long enough to win over the brute with a batch of

Corn Bread Sticks

1 cup corn meal
½ cup flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons Wilson's New Certified Lard, melted
1 egg

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Combine with corn meal. Combine melted lard, beaten egg and milk. Pour into dry ingredients; give a few quick stirs and pour into corn stick molds which have been greased with Certified Lard, preheated and greased again. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) for about 25 minutes.

NOVA MEETS BAER TONIGHT FOR TITLE CHANCE

MAROONS TAKE THIRD STRAIGHT BIG 10 NET TITLE

Chet Murphy Whips Wachman in Singles.

Table of Points

Chicago	25	Minnesota	4
Northwestern	16	Ohio	3
Michigan	8½	Wisconsin	2
Illinois	5	Iowa	1½

Last year at this time, when the University of Chicago tennis team won all nine Big Ten titles in the annual conference meet—taking 27 matches in 27 played—a Midway mathematician figured out that this should happen, according to the law of averages, once every billion years.

Yesterday the Maroon net team emerged from the 1939 annual meet with a record of 25 victories in 25 matches played, with titles in eight of the nine divisions, and with its third consecutive conference team championship.

The Chicago squad lost its chance for a clean second clean sweep when Bill Murphy, one of the pair of identical twins who have starred for the Maroons for three years, had to default in the No. 2 singles division in the second round because of a wrenched back. The title in that division went to Jim Tobin, Michigan sophomore, who scored a surprise victory over Harrison O'Neil of Northwestern in the finals.

Wildcats Blanked in Finals.

The Wildcats, who entered the championship round with contenders in eight of the nine brackets, were blanked yesterday but went down fighting as four of the Purple players drove their matches into a third set.

Chester Murphy of Chicago won the conference singles title, and with brother Bill went on to win the doubles championship a second year.

Chet Murphy had to rally sharply to defeat Marvin Wachman of Northwestern in the crucial singles match. Driving hard and straight to the corners Wachman built up a 5 to 2 lead in the first set. Then, when he lost his feel for the baselines, Murphy began to come up to the net and won nine straight games.

In the No. 1 doubles the Murphy twins won the first set over Wachman and Frank Froehling of Northwestern, 6-2. In the second set Northwestern led 3-2 when the Murphys rallied with four games.

Tobin Rallies to Win.

Tobin dropped a set to O'Neil in the No. 2 singles before he began wearing his opponent down with a smart net game. Tobin won the next two sets at 9-7, 6-0.

In the No. 3 singles Charles Shostrom whose brother John was the Big Ten singles champion last year, dropped an 11-9 set to Froehling, then outsteadied the rangy Wildcat.

Norman Jorgenson and John Krietenstein of Chicago were also forced into third sets by their Northwestern opponents in the No. 4 and 5 singles.

Summaries:

No. 1 singles: Chester Murphy, Chicago, defeated Marvin Wachman, Northwestern, 7-5, 6-3.

No. 2 singles: James Tobin, Michigan, defeater Harrison O'Neil, Northwestern, 4-6, 9-7, 6-0.

No. 3 singles: Charles Shostrom, Chicago, defeated Frank Froehling, Northwestern, 9-11, 6-2, 6-3.

No. 4 singles: Norman Jorgenson, Chicago, defeated Jerry Clifford, Northwestern, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

No. 5 singles: John Krietenstein, Chicago, defeated Gene Richards, Northwestern, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

No. 6 singles: James Atkins, Chicago, defeated Samuel Durst, Michigan, 6-1, 6-4.

No. 1 doubles—Chester Murphy and William Murphy, Chicago defeated Marvin Wachman and Frank Froehling, Northwestern, 6-2, 6-3.

No. 2 doubles—Charles Shostrom and Norman Jorgenson, Chicago, defeated Harrison O'Neil and Jerry Clifford, Northwestern, 6-4, 7-5.

No. 3 doubles—John Krietenstein and James Atkins, Chicago, defeated Gene Richards and McDonald Mitre, Northwestern, 6-4, 6-4.

Smart Trick, Opera Star Score for Vehon.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Smart Trick and Opera Star carried the yellow and blue colors of Morris Vehon of Chicago to two consecutive victories yesterday at Lincoln Fields. Smart Trick outran Dixiana farm's Torchy and other speedy performers in the Sherman Hotel handicap, feature event of the day, a few minutes after Opera Star had scored in a dash for the more expensive grade of claiming horses.

This made three winning efforts this week for the Vehon horses, which are trained by Jake Lowenstein, Threadneedle having led her field to the wire on Monday.

Smart Trick Fools Bettors.

Many of the bettors regarded Torchy as a standout in the feature race, backing his odds down to even money. Meanwhile, they overlooked Smart Trick, a little brown filly which hadn't started since Keeneland's October meeting. As a result she paid off at $23.80, $5.60, and $3.60.

Gus Simone's Dora May took charge of setting the early pace in the six furlong dash. The Milky Way farm's No Competition kept up for a while with Torchy right beside him. On the turn Dora May opened up a lead of a length and a half. Smart Trick, which had been unable to keep up in the early running began working her way up on the outside. After taking part in a spirited stretch struggle with the pacemakers, she drew out in the last furlong and was a length ahead of Torchy at the finish. Dora May saved third, two lengths further back. The winner's time over a fast track was 1:14.

Calumet's Greeny Wins.

Frank Kearns, trainer for the Calumet Farm stable, had a homecoming present ready for Owner Warren Wright when the latter arrived from Kentucky last night. In yesterday's fourth race, a 6 furlong dash for the better grade of claiming horses, Kearns saddled Greeny and sent her out to win by five lengths.

Under Jockey Irving Anderson's urging, Greeny went to the front during the run down the back stretch, drew clear on the turn, and came home with something in reserve. Dolly Whisk, which had attempted to keep pace with the Calumet filly during the early running, saved second place, finishing more than a length ahead of Hope Diamond.

Prince Torch Repeats.

This was the second impressive victory for Calumet horses on successive days, Easy Mon having mastered a field of good 3 year olds in an allowance event the preceding afternoon. Greeny, which had earned a second place last Friday, was the favorite yesterday, paying $5, $2.60, and $2.20.

Frank Abbate's Prince Torch became the first double winner of the meeting by leading his field home in the seventh race. This veteran campaigner also had won on opening day.

The stewards set down Jockey J. W. Frye for ten days for allowing Royal Broom to carry other horses wide on the turn into the stretch in the second race.

THE HEIGHT OF CAUTION: YANKS SEEK A PITCHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., May 31.—Although Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees gave no hint of it when he brought his troupe here today there was gossip about the possibility of a trade being engineered with a western club before the deadline June 15.

At the moment the Yankees are carrying eight pitchers. The acquisition of at least one more capable of handling a starting job would round out the staff and make it better fortified for the double-headers soon to be encountered.

Smith to Face Senators for Sox in Opener

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Prof. James J. Dykes, the White Sox manager, who has a sideline hobby for picking up supposedly unimportant baseball material and by a little face lifting skill converting it into valuable timber, will reintroduce Edgar Smith to the Comiskey park patrons today.

The left-handed Smith, who is a sort of small, blond edition of Hack Wilson in stature and the professor's most recent bargain acquisition, has been seen here before, and those who saw him give the champion Yankees a spanking in his local debut haven't forgotten him. Neither has Dykes, proof of which is furnished by the fact that when Smith starts against the Senators today in the series opener it will be his fifth assignment since Dykes wangled him out of Connie Mack's clutch for a mere $7,500.

He's After Third Victory.

Smitty's record with the Sox is two victories against as many defeats, and while that isn't startling the victory side is only one game shy of his 1938 total with the Athletics. His second triumph for the White Sox was in the night game against his old mates last week. The defeats were hung on him by Cleveland and by the Yanks the second time he faced them, but in each instance Edgar was an excellent workman until he grew weary waiting for his fellow athletes to get him a few runs.

Dykes delights in talking about his athletes, especially those picked off the bargain counter, but there is one subject on which he has been noncommital this season. When he went to training camp with his boys the manager said Ken Silvestri was his first string catcher. He went along on this silent line for a long period, but finally, also quietly, switched to Mike Tresh. The latter now has caught the last eight games, which is fairly good evidence that he has become the first stringer without Dykes admitting it in that many words.

Lyons Recovers His Fast One.

Possibly the most surprising thing about the Sox thus far is the 38 year old Ted Lyons, who lost his first start of the season but has since won four in a row. Ted, who has been wearing Comiskey uniforms since he left the Baylor university campus in 1923, credits his amazing success to spring training and possibly a few new pitching tricks. He went to camp weeks ahead of the younger fellows, melted down his expanded waistline by daily exercise, and suddenly discovered he had recovered much of his one time fancy fast ball.

Without the unexpected help furnished by Lyons the Sox might not be enjoying their present stay in the first division. Some of the pitchers who really were counted on for help haven't come through. In this class are John Whitehead and Jack Knott and possibly John Rigney, who has won several times but only with the finishing touch of such as Doc Clint Brown. Unless one of these fellows enjoys a sudden revival, Dykes may be forced to award a starting assignment to Vic Frasier, whose training was delayed by a spring accident which sent him to the hospital with a fractured skull.

Club Honors Stratton.

Monty Stratton, White Sox pitcher, who lost his right leg in a hunting accident last fall, has been voted as the individual who has been the greatest inspiration to Chicago's citizens and youth during the last year by the Chicago Federated Advertising club.

A bronze plaque signifying the award will be presented to Stratton before today's game in Comiskey park between the Sox and Senators, said Elan Borton, president elect of the Advertising club. The presentation will be made by Alaine Brandes, 5717 Roscoe street, the Advertising club's recently elected queen.

SWANSON, HURT IN AUTO RACE, IN FAIR CONDITION

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—[Special.]—Physicians at St. Vincent hospital today reported that the condition of Bob Swanson, Los Angeles, was "just fair." Swanson was injured in the 500 mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Speedway yesterday which was won by Wilbur Shaw.

Swanson was thrown from his racer when it crashed with the car driven by another Californian, Floyd Roberts. Roberts, 1938 winner, was killed. Chet Miller of Detroit, also injured in the accident, was reported improved this afternoon.

They will be married here Sunday. Jim Turner, another Boston pitcher and Lou's roommate, will be best man, and Mrs. Danny MacFayden, wife of another Boston hurler, will be bridesmaid.

Cubs to Meet Dodgers Under Lights Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 31.—The Cubs, having set a record of thirty-nine straight games without a postponement since they opened the 1939 season in St. Louis, are here, making no apologies for the relaxation their immediate schedule offers.

The crew, happy over the double shutout victory over the league leading Cincinnati Reds yesterday morning and afternoon, arrived here shortly before noon today and the lads have nothing fatiguing they must do until the journey to Brooklyn tomorrow evening for their first night game of the year. And after the night game they will have Friday off. They will play Brooklyn Saturday. Sunday they will engage in their first doubleheader of the year, against the Phillies. The double bill was scheduled last winter and consequently presents no juggling of the calendar.

Passeau Makes Debut.

Claude Passeau, whom the Cubs obtained from the Phillies last Saturday, is scheduled to pitch against the Dodgers tomorrow night. Passeau has not worked since he struck out eight Cubs in five innings and held the team to seven hits in nine innings in Chicago a week ago today.

Manager Hartnett plans no new shakeups for the night meeting with Brooklyn except that he says he will not catch. Gus Mancuso says he never has caught a night game. Gabby has told him he no longer can say that truthfully after tomorrow night.

Leiber Is Still Disabled.

With Augie Galan's elbow on the mend, Hank Leiber remains the only seriously hampered athlete in the entourage. Hank says his charleyhorse is improving, but still pretty bad.

Scout Jack Doyle met the team on arrival here, acting sort of mysterious. Jack has been combing the country in quest of outfielders suspected of possessing hitting knowledge.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 31.—Max Baer arrived in New York today from his training camp. Lou Nova will motor to town tomorrow morning. Both will appear at noon before the New York athletic commission. Each is supremely confident of victory when they meet tomorrow evening in the Yankee stadium in the fifteen round heavyweight battle designed by Mike Jacobs to produce another opponent for Champion Joe Louis.

Like so many ex-heavyweight champions before him, Baer again is on the path he thinks will lead to recovery of the title he yielded with a slight dispute to Jim Braddock. Nova, comparatively inexperienced and practically unknown until six months ago, still may fail and yet return to major competition. Baer, however, unless he wins tomorrow night, definitly is finished. That he even has this opportunity is most surprising, explained only by Louis' ruthless successes and willingness to fight as often as his management and Promoter Jacobs can find opponents.

A Lot of Fans Will Miss It.

New York is not unduly excited over the bout, although if tomorrow's weather prediction is correct, some 25,000 will see the contest. Attendance rests on the gate sale and in particular on the disposal of many of the 20,000 general admission tickets priced at $1.15. It's that kind of fight, too, one to see if the weather is fine, but it is not a fight for which the average fan will risk getting wet.

If there is a favorite, it is Nova, although earlier wagers were made with Lou on the long end. But it is not Nova's ability that has produced this. Rather, it is Baer's lamentable lack of consistency, the frequent difference between his camp speeches and his ring exhibition. In the last four years, Baer has been a poor workman. He submitted gracefully to Braddock, collapsed before Louis, and has divided two contests with Tommy Farr, also beaten by Nova.

He'll Never Be any Better.

Baer is in better shape than when he fought Braddock. He also is four years older. His hands are better, and of this Max particularly was proud in his final interview. He believes sincerely that by abstaining from slugging in his camp drills he has achieved the desired goal of bringing perfect weapons to test against Nova's defenses.

Baer has confidence based primarily on belief that Nova cannot hurt him. Max went to pieces from worry before he faced Joe Louis. This, of course, points to another angle. What will Baer do if he finds he has been misled, that Nova can punch harder than he thought and the battle passes beyond the first five rounds

Galento to See 'Bums' Baer and Nova Tonight

Asbury Park, N. J., May 31.—[Special.]—Tony Galento, next challenger for the world's heavyweight championship, will be at the ringside in the Yankee stadium tomorrow night when Lou Nova and Max Baer meet.

"I suppose I will have to fight one of those bums in September, when I am the champion, so I better take a gander at them," Tony said today.

Galento went through a long workout today and will train again tomorrow for his bout with Joe Louis June 28. After finishing training tomorrow Galento will drive to New York with his manager, Joe Jacobs, to see the fight. Galento picks Nova to win and Jacobs picks Baer.

OARSMEN SPEED UP DRILLS FOR TRIBUNE RACES

Eight Prep Crews Meet for Trophies June 11.

The newly born rivalry in rowing among four Chicago high schools which will reach its climax the afternoon of June 11, when the Chicago river interscholastic rowing championship will be decided, also has created a competitive feud among those members of the Lincoln Park Boat club who are coaching the prep shells.

Announcement that the Chicago Tribune Charities, in conjunction with the Lincoln Park Boat club and Chicago park district, will sponsor the first annual Blade and Paddle regatta, caused the coaches of the prep crews to step up their training schedule. As a result, each of the eight crews, senior and junior, representing Lane Tech, Lake View, Amundsen, and Waller, will practice three times next week.

Hundreds to Compete.

The interscholastic event will be the highlight of a program of twelve events which will attract hundreds of competitors. During the afternoon's program, which will be held on the Chicago river between the new lock at the mouth of the river and the Michigan avenue bridge, the spectators lined along the course will see not only the rowing shells, but canoes, kayaks, and cutters in various types of competition.

The two-hour regatta will be free to the public. It is estimated there is space along the course for 100,000 spectators. The crowd will be informed of the progress of the race through a public address system.

The winners of the senior and junior championships will be presented with trophies by THE TRIBUNE. For permanent possession, a trophy must be won three times by the same school.

Lane Tech, coached by Walter Hollatz, captain of the Lincoln Park Boat club, is an early favorite to win both the senior and junior races, but the more rigid training schedule set down by the other coaches is evidence that they are conceding nothing to Lane. This is the second year in rowing for Lane and Amundsen. Waller and Lake View boys formed teams for the first time this spring.

Hollatz Pioneers Movement.

Hollatz is captain of the Lincoln Park Boat club and one of the pioneers in his club's movement to make rowing a sport in the Chicago high schools. He is chairman of the regatta committee and was a member of the Lincoln team that rowed in national competition several years ago.

The other crews likewise are coached by members of the Lincoln Park club. James Dodge, who stroked the Cornell university varsity in 1935 in the Poughkeepsie regatta, is coach of the Lake View junior team. He also is stroke of the Lincoln senior crew.

Louis Ruelius, coach of the Lake View seniors, is a lieutenant in the boat club and a member of the senior crew. The Waller coach, Arthur Skrabel, a veteran oarsman of the Lincoln club, is a graduate of Waller and was quite a prep athlete in his day. Richard Anderson, also a member of the boat club crew, is in charge of the boys from Amundsen.

Race Seven-Eighths Mile.

Both prep races will be over a course seven-eighths of a mile long, with the finish line near the Wrigley building. The senior event will be the windup of the program and is scheduled to begin shortly before 4 o'clock. The course will be 200 feet wide, affording each shell a 50 foot lane.

The Lane and Lake View crews practiced yesterday afternoon on the Lincoln Park lagoon. Waller and Amundsen will take to the water at 5 o'clock this afternoon for a few trial runs.

Nine Central Collegians Will Defend Titles

Milwaukee, Wis., May 31.—[Special.]—Champions in nine of the sixteen events on the program will return to defend their titles in the fourteenth annual central collegiate conference track and field meet in the Marquette university stadium here Friday afternoon and night.

Outstanding among the scheduled defenders is Johnny Woodruff, Pittsburgh's Olympic 800 meter champion who set a new meet record of 1:52 in winning the half mile run last year. The Panthers are definitly entered in the central meet, but Woodruff's coach, Carl Olsen, was not certain today that his Negro Olympian would be able to come along with the squad.

Defends Two Titles.

Frank Ohl, also of Pittsburgh, won two events in the 1938 meet, but this year faces trouble in both the 220 yard dash and the broad jump. He hit the tape first in the furlong in :21.5 and won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 10 inches. Other entries in Friday's program have bettered both marks consistently. Wilbur Greer, Michigan State, will defend in the 100 yard dash.

Marquette's 1938 quarter mile winner, Herman Carr, will have a fight on his hands. Greg Rice, Notre Dame, has a good chance to repeat in the two mile run, but will meet strong opposition from Walter Mehl, Wisconsin's national collegiate champion, and Gil Dodds of Ashland [O.] college.

Miami [O.] university, which won the half mile relay last June in 1:29.1, and Pittsburgh, mile relay winner in 3:21.7, will have teams in those events.

Burke Back Again.

Eddie Burke of Marquette, who tied with Pete Bennett of Pittsburgh for the high jump title in 1938 with a leap of 6 feet 4 inches, is now in his senior year of competition and should be at his best on the home takeoff.

The one mile winner and 4:10.6 record holder of last year, Charles Fenske, has been graduated from the University of Wisconsin, but will make an exhibition appearance Friday night and attempt to break the American and world records in the 1,000 yard run.

Entry List for Skokie Dog Show to Close June 10

BY BOB BECKER.

Dog owners who want to exhibit their pets in the Skokie Valley Kennel club show to be held in Evanston June 17 have ten days in which to make their entries. All entries must be in the hands of the show superintendent by Saturday, June 10. Entry blanks are available from E. W. Leach, show superintendent, Atlantic hotel, Chicago.

Mrs. Edith Newhouse, president of the kennel club, said yesterday that judging from advance entries there will be at least 500 dogs in the show. The event will be held in Dyche stadium, Evanston.

Most of the features which have been introduced in dog shows in recent years are on the program of the Skokie event. Children's handling classes, obedience tests, field trial classes, and a parade of champions will interest show spectators. THE TRIBUNE is sponsoring the children's classes and the obedience tests.

Persons owning dogs trained in obedience are urged to contact this department about entering their pets.

THE TRIBUNE will award beautiful plaques to the winners of each of the four classes and an additional trophy to the owner whose dog gets the highest rating in the open class. Sungold trophies will be given to second place winners in each class.

Boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 16 are eligible for the children's handling classes. THE TRIBUNE will award Sungold trophies to the best boy handler and also to the best girl handler, and the kennel club will give each entrant in the handling classes a handsome medal. There is no entry fee for the children's classes, but entrants must handle dogs which are competing in one of the regular classes.

Youngsters who wish to enter the competition, but who do not have a dog, may arrange to borrow dogs which are competing in the regular show classes. Miss Alma Dawell, 800 Greenleaf street, Evanston, club secretary, can make the arrangements. Children or parents who want more information about the handling classes should contact Miss Dawell or this department.

Smith Injured; May Be Out of Polo Opener

New York, May 31.—[Special.]—The American and British international polo teams today finished their hard practice sessions at the Meadow Brook club, Westbury, for their opening match on Sunday. Two important facts stood out during the long afternoon of play.

One was the great improvement shown by the British team as it defeated a strong rival group, 10 to 2. The other was the possible loss to the American team of Cecil Smith, the Texas rider and ten goal player.

In the sixth period of the American team's match, while trying for a goal, Smith attempted to cross behind Billy Post, the defender. His horse tripped over the hind legs of Post's mount and Smith went down heavily. Obviously dazed, he was removed to his home and later placed under observation in the Mineola hospital.

Dr. Robert Mellen, who examined Smith, said there were no signs of broken bones, but that there were evidences of a concussion and that X-ray examinations are to be made. It will not be known until tomorrow whether Smith will be available for the opening match.

The accident today took attention away from the British team's surprising reversal in the form. They went well with a changed lineup: John Lakin riding at No. 2 and Gerald Balding going back to No. 3. Eric Tyrrell-Martin remained at back and Bob Skene at No. 1.

In the American game, Mike Phipps, Smith, Hitchcock and Winston Guest rode in that order against Pete Bostwick, Jimmy Mills, Aidan Roark of the British squad, and Billy Post. The Hitchcock side gave them nine goals on handicap at the start and won after a hard match, 16 to 14.

Reds Dig Into 1st Place; Find a Gold Mine

Cincinnati, O., May 31.—(AP)—It's pay day every day when Cincinnati's Reds are in town.

The front office, with understandable pride, let it be known today that the baseball team which may win its first National league pennant in 20 years had drawn 244,862 paying customers in the first 21 games at home—an average of 11,660, or over 4,600 more per game than for the same 21 game period of 1938, when home attendance was 147,665. The season's total home attendance was well over 700,000, due in part to the Reds' late surge into fourth place.

The Reds played their 1938 Memorial day double-header on the road, but, even knocking off the 40,619 who saw yesterday's morning and afternoon shutouts by the Cubs, the club still is something like 57,000 up on the figure of a year ago.

Those big figures mean money, not only to the Cincinnati Baseball Club, Inc., but to everybody concerned.

The opposition gets 25 cents out of each ticket, so the other seven teams in the National league have taken away $61,215.50.

St. Louis Likes Them.

That isn't all of the story. The Reds draw crowds everywhere. One three game series in Philadelphia drew some 20,000.

Last Sunday in St. Louis 33,538 watched the Reds and the Cards split a double-header to decide the league lead.

ILLINOIS P. G. A. GETS 7 NATIONAL TOURNEY PLACES

Three Golfers Are Given Exemptions.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America will be represented by ten players in the national tournament proper, according to an announcement yesterday by Tom Walsh, national secretary of the organization. The tournament will be held from July 9 through 15 at the Pomonok Country club, Flushing, N. Y.

Illinois has been allotted seven regular places, and has three exemptions. These latter are Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake, Horton Smith of Oak Park, and Johnny Revolta of Evanston. Foulis and Smith will be free of the necessity of sectional qualification by reason of having reached the quarter-finals of the 1938 tournament, while Revolta was a member of the last Ryder cup team. Smith also played on the international squad, so that even though he had not reached the final eight last year, he would have been exempt.

115 Places Available.

In all 115 places will be available for the tournament proper, 102 of them in sectional trials and thirteen going to exempt players. A total of 1,319 members of the P. G. A. will be eligible to compete in twenty-seven centers throughout the country. The Illinois section will hold its qualifying round for the seven places on June 19 and 20 at the Champaign Country club, in connection with the Illinois state open conducted by the Chicago District Golf association.

The metropolitan [New York] and New England sections lead in number of regular places allotted, each with eight. Illinois and Philadelphia are second with seven. The complete list of sections, with regular berths allotted to each:

BROOKLYN RALLY IN 8TH DEFEATS GIANTS, 7 TO 4

Luke Hamlin Yields Six Scattered Hits.

New York, May 31.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tightened their hold on fifth place in the National league today with a stirring 7 to 4 victory over their city rivals, the Giants.

The victory, which came in the eighth inning when they shoved three runs across on four hits, gave them a 2 to 1 edge in the series.

Tied from the third inning, the Dodgers routed Hal Schumacher from the mound in the eighth with a four hit assault, good for three runs. John Hudson's single scored Dolph Camilli who had singled, and sent Manager Leo Durocher to third. Durocher's bounder had forced Mungo at second. Then Al Todd, batting for Tuck Stainback, doubled past Mel Ott in right center, scoring Durocher and Hudson.

Luke Hamlin, who pitched for the Dodgers, yielded but six hits in chalking up his fifth win of the season.

Prep Baseball

CITY LEAGUE—SEMI-FINAL.
Steinmetz, 8; Crane, 3.
Lane, 8; Amundsen, 0.

MISCELLANEOUS.
Austin, 3; Oak Park, 0 [5 innings].
Fenger, 8; Pullman Tech., 0.

Frank Marino pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Amundsen yesterday to put Lane Tech in the finals of the Chicago Public High School league.

Moore Leads Hitters.

Bob Moore led the Tech hitters with two singles and a double in three trips to the plate. He drove in two runs.

Steinmetz beat Crane, 8 to 3, in the other semi-final in Mills stadium, Stan Kafara striking out eleven and issuing no bases on balls. In west section games during the regular season Crane defeated Steinmetz twice, 6 to 4 and 5 to 3.

Play Final Saturday.

The finalists will meet Saturday for the pennant, either in Wrigley field or Mills stadium.

Austin invaded Oak Park and won a five inning game, 3 to 0, the battle being terminated after the first of the sixth, in which Austin scored its three runs, on account of rain. Bryant, winning pitcher, fanned six and didn't allow a hit.

The victory boosted the Grads' lead in the total point round to 87-63.

Baer Battles Nova Tonight for Title Shot

in which Max should be the better of the two contenders?

Baer is just as ready for Nova as a 30 year old man can be. He has reduced nearly twenty pounds and will weigh about 210, comparable to his weight the night he fought Primo Carnera and won the world's title. But he can not be any faster afoot, nor can he have the stamina that only is conserved for men of his age by careful living.

Lou Has a Wallop.

In his prime Baer could hit. But his best fights were against opponents who were easy targets—Carnera, Schaff, Levinsky, Farr. No one questions Nova's speed. And no one will doubt his ability to travel fifteen rounds at a pace faster than Baer can equal, barring, however, the effect Baer's early right hand sweeps will have if they land flush on Nova's chin.

Nova is inexperienced, but he knocked out Gunnar Barlund and hammered Farr unmercifully. Lou has no past to live down. He is 24 years old, possesses advantages of youth and reserve strength, and we suspect from watching his boxing drills that he can hit much harder than Baer realizes. Nova is no Joe Louis, but he's smart, keen to learn, and not even Baer, flamboyant, prepossessing conversationalist on the topic of himself, is more confident.

Nova may lose, but he'll never cease trying. And it's our guess that Max will need more speed and more boxing ability than he ever possessed to outpoint his fellow Californian. Baer must win in a hurry. If he doesn't, at the end of fifteen rounds he'll find himself very thoroughly whipped.

Nova Stands Erect.

Nova will fight in the style he has used in training. It's the only style he knows. He stands erect, uses his left effectively, and carries his right hand high. Braddock boxes much the same, and like Braddock, Nova will step inside Baer's right hand, a punch Max can not help but telegraph since its power is that of a flail. Equally important in our reasoning, is that in three workouts Baer continually retreated from Elza Thompson, his best sparring mate.

Baer can't fight effectively in retreat. Nor will he outpoint Nova in such fashion. Max must know this. He must come out rushing tomorrow night. He will be smarter in clinches, will administer punishment, and may push Nova around unmercifully, but only by landing his Sunday punch can Baer win.

Braddock in Corner.

Jim Braddock, who gave Nova a few lessons at Nyack and worked with him, believes he will whip Baer. Jim will help Ray Arcel, trainer, and Ray Carlin, Lou's manager, in the corner tomorrow night.

Trainer Issy Kline, Manager Ancil Hoffman and Whitey Bimstein will second Max. Baer spent tonight in a suite in a New York hotel with his wife and baby and intimate friends. Mrs. Baer will not attend the bout. The preliminaries:

Julio Ortenzio, The Bronx, and Jack Wofford, Arlington, Tex. [4].

All Battles on Baer-Nova Card to Be Televised

New York, May 31.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting company announced tonight the Max Baer-Lou Nova heavyweight fight tomorrow night would be televisioned direct from Yankee stadium by station W2XBS.

It will be the first television of a regularly scheduled fight in the United States. The program will include the preliminary bouts starting about 8 p. m. [Chicago time].

NEWS TO YOU—
This Glamour Cigar

HERE'S an entirely new conception of a ten-cent cigar—this Robt. Burns Corona. Frankly it is made to surpass cigars of its class—designed to surprise men paying more than ten cents for cigars. To say that it is better than ten-cent classification may sound blunt, but that's the fact of it.

With the prestige of its patrician corona shape, the classic model that has cast its spell over smokers for many a year, the luscious Robt. Burns Corona is the glamour cigar of the ten-cent field. It challenges you Havana smokers who love a hearty, full-bodied cigar. Many smokers find it hard to believe it can be sold at ten cents. Try it at a dime at any good cigar stand. Your doubt will vanish in fragrant smoke.

STADIUM BOXING SHOW EXPENSES REACH $11,000

Barlund to Get $1,500 for Boxing Musto.

Contracts of the twelve contestants on the Chicago Stadium's boxing card next Thursday have been filed at the Illinois athletic commission, along with purses guaranteed them.

The talent will cost Promoter Bill Rand $5,400. This sum is $300 more than the rental fee. Other expenditures, including $500 for more than 100 ushers, ticket sellers, and ticket takers, will realize an overhead in excess of $11,000.

Predict $12,000 Gate.

This means that the show, which is headed by a ten round bout between Gunnar Barlund, who ruined the heavyweight title aspirations of Buddy Baer, and Tony Musto must attract at least 6,000 fans. Barlund and Musto are rated among the ten top heavyweights.

Billy Burke, in charge of the ticket distribution, predicts that the program will draw in excess of $12,000. "Musto-Barlund is a better fight than New York's Nova-Baer offering and admission prices are much more reasonable," Burke said.

Barlund to Get $1,500.

The list of bouts and what each fighter will be paid follows:

Barlund, $1,500, or 15 per cent of the gate, vs. Musto, $750 [10], heavyweights.

At a conference in the Morrison hotel yesterday between Ticket Manager Burke and Promoter Rand it was decided to offer the loser of the Nova-Baer meeting a match with the winner of the Musto-Barlund encounter.

CLOSE ENTRIES FOR 5 ARLINGTON STAKES TODAY

Strong Fields Predicted by Track Official.

Nominations for five of the eight stakes featuring the 30 day Arlington Park meeting will close today, according to Maj. Louis A. Beard, director of racing at the Arlington meeting which opens on June 26.

With nominations notably increased over previous years in the $30,000 added Classic stakes, the $20,000 added Arlington futurity and the $10,000 added Lassie stakes, which already have been closed, Arlington officials look for new high marks in the five remaining stakes.

Hague Sends Out Army of Orators to Boost Mutuels

New York, May 31.—[Special.]—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City tomorrow will loose a horde of public speakers upon the citizenry from one end of New Jersey to the other. Inhabitants of all communities are going to hear a lot about horse betting until June 20, at least, when a referendum will be held on the amendment legalizing the pari-mutuel system.

The mayor, who is in favor of the proposed law, will give his speakers—600 in number—a pep talk tomorrow afternoon in Jersey City. To whip up a fever heat in his own town a rally will be held in Jersey City Friday with Assemblywoman Theresa Maloney, sponsor of the amendment, as chairman.

"I am behind the amendment," Mayor Hague said, "because it will mean the employment of thousands of persons and increase of property values in the state."

HARVESTER UNIT PUT 'IN MIDDLE' BY UNIONS' ROW

Opens Its Kentucky Mines Under Guard.

The Wisconsin Steel company, subsidiary of the International Harvester company, yesterday resumed operations in its coal mines in Harlan county, Kentucky, under the protection of the Kentucky National Guard.

The company announced through the office of the parent company in Chicago that it was forced to call for protection of the National Guard because the operation of the Wagner act had failed to settle a controversy between labor groups at the mines.

R. E. Galbreath, superintendent of the company's mines in Benham, Ky., said that there has been no strike at the mines, but that the company halted operations two months ago to avoid possible violence resulting from the dispute between the unions.

Tells Company's Efforts.

Galbreath said the company has exhausted every means available under the Wagner act to bring about an adjustment between the unions that would enable it to make an agreement with a group qualified by the National Labor Relations board.

Because these negotiations failed, Galbreath said, the company had no choice but "to reopen the mines for employés who desire to work, with the hope that the regional director of the national labor relations board at Cincinnati, O., can persuade both unions to take advantage of the provisions of the act."

The company, Galbreath added, has acted in good faith in following the letter and the spirit of the labor law.

Mines Closed Eight Weeks.

"When the tieup occurred in the bituminous coal fields," he said, "our mines were shut down, by agreement with employés in the interest of their safety. The mines have remained closed for eight weeks."

The conflict at the mines is between the United Mine Workers union, of which John L. Lewis is the national president, and the Progressive Mine Workers, a rival organization.

Until recently the workers at the mines were represented by the Benham Employés association, which was certified as the bargaining agency by the labor board after an election in August, 1937.

The company was notified three weeks ago by the officers of the Benham Employés group that it no longer represented a majority of the workers. Thereupon the Progressive Mine union demanded from the company recognition as the majority union.

Board Urged to Act.

Pending the holding of a labor board election to determine the majority union, the company asked the regional director of the board to seek an agreement between the Progressive and United unions that would permit resumption of operations.

The United Mines Workers refused to consent to an election, Galbreath said.

"We were left with no option but to reopen under military protection," he said. "All parties were so informed and the regional director stated he will continue his efforts to determine which union represents a majority."

Galbreath said the company has no choice between the two union groups. It has, he said, carried on collective bargaining with its employés for more than twenty years at the Benham mines.

"Our only desire," he said, "is to know with which group of employés we should deal. The national labor relations act compels us to deal only with the majority."

Adjourn Kentucky Parleys.

Harlan, Ky., May 31.—(AP)—John Conner, federal labor conciliator, announced today conferences on a "union shop" contract between representatives of the United Mine Workers [C. I. O.] and the Harlan County Coal Operators' association have been adjourned indefinitly subject to call by either side.

A three hour conference ended with no statement as to progress. Conner said he was leaving for Charleston, W. Va.

A. F. L. Union to Represent Chicago Company Workers

Washington, D. C., May 31.—(AP)—The labor relations board certified the International Association of Machinists, district No. 8 [A. F. of L.] as the sole collective bargaining agency chosen by a majority of the tool and die makers and maintenance machinists employed by the Wilson-Jones company, Chicago.

Employes of 2 Electric Rails Face Pay Cuts

The North Shore and the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin Electric railways yesterday were authorized to enter into labor contracts which provide wage reductions when revenues fall below fixed amounts. As revenues have been below the stated minimum amounts, wages will be reduced if the employés approve the contracts.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson authorized Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for both lines, to enter into the contracts with the electric line workers, all members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America. The employés are to be given copies of the contracts for their consideration in a day or two and it will take several days for them to vote.

Report to Be Made June 15.

An official report on the employés' decision is to be made to Judge Wilkerson on June 15.

The North Shore employés are offered a two year closed shop contract. The road's proposal accepts the basic wage asked by the employés—the scale now in effect—but asks that wages be reduced 10 per cent in any month when the daily average gross revenues of the road are less than $11,200. The road's daily earnings now are less than $10,300.

However, the contract provides that the deductions become smaller as earnings increase. When revenues reached $12,500 the basic scale is to be in effect. Wage adjustments based on earnings are to be made monthly.

O. D. Zimring, attorney representing division 900 of the union, which embraces the North Shore workers, told the court he believes the settlement to be fair as providing the only amicable means of continuing the operations. The North Shore was tied up for fifty days last summer by a strike against a wage cut.

Terms of C. A. & E. Plan.

The Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin employés are asked to accept a contract that proposes a 10 per cent cut if daily earnings are $5,500 or less. The road is reported as currently taking in an average of $5,300 daily. If earnings reach $6,100 daily the present wage scale is to be in effect.

Zimring said he would recommend that the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin employés not accept the proposal because of the wide spread between the level at which the 10 per cent reduction would go into effect and the amount which would have to be earned before the reduction was eliminated. He added outside the court, however, that he does not believe there will be a strike.

TWA Adds New Non-Stop Chicago-New York Flight

"Commuter service" between New York and Chicago will be expanded today when Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., adds a second non-stop flight between the two cities. A new Skyclub transport, the Gold Coaster, will leave Chicago at 4 p. m. central standard time, and arrive in New York at 8:55 p. m., eastern standard time. The westbound flight will leave New York at 4 p. m. and arrive here at 7:35. Skyclub service to Columbus and Philadelphia will also be begun by TWA today.

Newsprint Duty Free List Extended to 16 Inch Rolls

Washington, D. C., May 31.—(AP)—The treasury today advised publishers that all newsprint in rolls sixteen inches or more wide may be imported free of duty. The commonly used widths of newsprint were on the free list, but to eliminate red tape over the occasional importation of certain widths, the treasury changed its regulations to define "standard newsprint" as any sixteen or more inches wide.

PAINE, BROKER, IS INDICTED ON FRAUD COUNTS

3 Lawyers Named in Trust 'Loot' Case.

New York, May 31.—[Special.]—Stephen Paine, who was a partner in Paine, Webber & Co. until two months ago when he was suspended for three years by the New York Stock exchange, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on seventeen counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy. The charge arose from the alleged looting of two investment trusts of $1,250,000.

Jointly indicted with him were three Boston lawyers, Thomas W. Morris, S. Leo Solomont, and Ralph H. Robb, Howard F. Hansell, who was described as a Canadian stock manipulator, and the Northern Fiscal Corp., Ltd., which the three lawyers allegedly organized as a part of the conspiracy.

Charge Raids on Portfolios.

Paine is alleged to have arranged loans from Paine, Webber & Co., to the Boston men aggregating $600,000, with which they obtained working control of the two investment trusts, Insuranshares corporation of Delaware and Burco, Inc. Paine, it is charged, knew when he arranged the loans that the Boston men planned to exchange the liquid assets of the two trusts for relatively worthless securities.

United States Attorney John T. Cahill said specifically that neither Paine, Webber & Co., nor ay one connected with it, other than Stephen Paine, was accused of any wrongdoing.

"The indictment of Stephen Paine," he said, "in no way reflects upon the financial stability of Paine, Webber & Co., which is not a defendant in this case."

Assert Paine Was Warned.

The indictment, handed up to Judge John C. Knox, was obtained by Hugh A. Fulton, executive assistant to Cahill. Fulton said Paine was warned by William P. Yetman, investment counsel to both Paine, Webber & Co. and Insuranshares, that he should not participate or permit Paine, Webber to participate in any transactions involving Insuranshares stock, except ordinary brokerage transactions, and that in particular he should avoid any blind dealings with third parties.

Despite this, it was said, Paine proceeded to finance the acquisition of the stock control of the investment trust.

The benefit which Paine received was indirect, according to the federal authorities. They said the benefit to Paine, Webber & Co. was through the interest on the loans Paine arranged, and commissions on the purchase and sale of securities made under orders of the new officers and directors of the investment trusts.

Basis of Plan Told.

Paine is alleged to have made two loans, one of $310,000 and the other of $290,000 to Robb, Morris, Solomont, and Hansell, upon their promise that they would abstract from the portfolios of the investment trusts as soon as they had obtained control of them, securities worth more than these loans. These were to be delivered to Paine, Webber & Co. as collateral for the loans.

The net result, it is charged, was that Insuranshares lost approximately $500,000, and Burco approximately $750,000 through the substitution of comparatively worthless securities for valuable ones.

A representative of Paine, Webber & Co., which is considered one of the six largest brokerage houses in Wall street, said Paine retired from the firm immediately after his suspension by the exchange April 1, and that the firm had no comment to make.

STEEL OUTPUT RECORDS BEST GAIN THIS YEAR

Steel ingot production this week recorded the largest weekly gain of the year, Iron Age magazine said yesterday. Output rose 4 points from the preceeding week to 52 per cent of plant capacity.

This rate is within 4 points of the highest weekly figure of the year. The year's peak of 56 per cent was established in the week beginning March 12.

All important indices of iron and steel production, excepting automobile production, have moved upward. Besides the gain in ingot output, additional blast furnaces have resumed operations, the Iron Age scrap composite price has advanced, and the Iron Age capital goods index has gained for the second consecutive week. The scrap composite price index has advanced 13 cents to $14.21.

"Another favorable sign," Iron Age said, "is an expansion in the volume of structural steel awards, which this week total more than 35,000 tons, largest since the first week of January.

SEEK CHARTER FOR NEW BANK IN ROGERS PARK

Application will be made to the Illinois state auditor today for permission to organize a state bank to be located at the northeast corner of Clark street and Lunt avenue, Rogers Park, R. H. Brunkhorst, widely known in banking circles, announced yesterday.

Brunkhorst, who is leading the organizing movement, said that subscriptions have been received for $200,000 capital, $25,000 surplus, and $25,000 contingency reserve. He said he expects to obtain a state charter and to have the bank open by June 24. He said that he would be president of the bank, which would occupy the quarters of the old Phillip State bank.

Brunkhorst was with the Harris Trust and Savings bank for twenty-seven years, twelve years as controler. He retired some months ago and later entered the insurance business.

Lawndale National Bank to Cut Savings Interest

The Lawndale National Bank, 3337 West 26th street, yesterday notified depositors that the interest rate on savings balances will be cut down from 1½ to 1 per cent per year, effective July 1. Lawndale is the first member bank of the Chicago Clearing house to cut the rate. Four suburban banks operating in the same area are taking similar action.

WALLACE ASKS TEN NATIONS TO COTTON PARLEY

Marketing, Output Control Sought.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—(AP)—Proposing a broad, long term attack on the problem of surplus cotton, the United States today called an international conference of cotton exporting countries to discuss the possibility of world-wide control of production and marketing.

The conference will be held here beginning Sept. 5. Acting on behalf of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the state department invited Argentina, Brazil, Egypt, India, Mexico, Peru, Sudan, soviet Russia, France, and Great Britain, the latter two for their cotton exporting colonies.

The formal call came only a few days after Wallace had disclosed that these countries had replied favorably to American inquiries regarding such a meeting.

Parley Is "Exploratory."

Agriculture department officials emphasized that the conference would be of an "exploratory" character only. Its only function would be to determine whether it might be advisable to recommend to the respective countries that a later conference be called to draft an international agreement.

Such an agreement, if written along lines suggested by President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace, would provide export quotas assuring each country its "fair share" of world markets, and production control measures designed to prevent accumulation of price depressing surpluses.

A somewhat similar exploratory conference on world wheat problems has been meeting in London this spring. Now in short recess, this meeting is expected, American officials said, to recommend that a formal conference be called to draft an international agreement authorizing export quotas and providing for elimination of such price cutting practices as payment of bounties on exports.

Surplus Is Excessive.

Cotton, officials explained, is beset with two major problems—unsatisfactory producer prices and the existence of excessive supplies, located principally in the United States. On May 15, prices American growers received for cotton averaged about 8.50 cents a pound. This compared with the agriculture department's contention that 15.6 cents is a "fair price."

Officials have estimated that when this year's crop starts moving to market, there will be a surplus of about 14,000,000 bales of old American cotton alone. Normal annual domestic and export requirements take about 12,500,000 bales. Nearly 11,400,000 bales of the American surplus is stored as collateral for government loans to growers.

The conference was called at a time when American exports had fallen to the lowest point in 60 years.

Chicago Business Continues Gain that Began in February

Chicago business in April continued the upward trend that started late in February, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. The association's estimate on business activity was based on a survey which included most of the leading lines of endeavor. Only a few lines showed activity below that of April, 1938.

The association said that one of the best gauges was the report on Illinois occupational tax collections, which were about 10 per cent larger than in April, 1938.

Telephones in use, also rated as one of the best business barometers, showed a substantial gain in number over April 1938. Automobile sales were far above those of a year ago.

Employment and pay rolls at Chicago factories showed small gains over 1938. Pig iron production was substantially higher. Postal receipts, bank clearings, and railroad freight trafic were among the other lines which showed improvements.

Declines were reported in real estate activity and in total cost of building contracts. Fewer persons rode the street cars. A larger number of families was on relief. Department store business showed a small decline.

STELLE ASKS RIVAL MINERS TO END DISPUTE

Springfield, Ill., May 31.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. John Stelle today called on leaders of the rival Progressive Mine Workers of America and United Mine Workers of America "to settle their disagreements in Illinois" as a union delegation urged the pardon of five miners imprisoned for a slaying during the "mine wars" in 1933. C. I. O. and A. F. of L. leaders joined in the delegation that asked Stelle to intervene on behalf of the five, all from Du Quoin, Ill.

Stelle advised the union leaders to file a joint petition promising an effort to end the mine labor strife. He said he would take up the petition with Gov. Horner.

Leaders of the delegation, which included R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor [A.F.L.], Ray Edmundson, Illinois district president of the United Miners [C.I.O] and David Reed, Illinois district PMWA president, said they would file the "labor peace" petition later this week.

Lieut. Gov. Stelle to Talk at Motor Freight Meeting

John Stelle, lieutenant governor of Illinois, will address the ninth annual convention of the Central Motor Freight association tonight at the Stevens hotel. About 1,000 persons are expected to attend. Delegates representing truck interests from Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania will participate in the business session, which will open at 2 p. m.

START ASSEMBLY LINE TO SPEED PRODUCTION OF FLYING FORTRESSES

Seattle, Wash., May 31.—(AP)—Boeing Aircraft company announced use today of an assembly line system to speed manufacture of "flying fortress" bombing planes in harmony with the war department's augmented national defense program. The new mass production method is similar to that used in the automobile industry.

Thirty-nine of the four engined, 22 ton bombers remain to be completed. They embody several improvements over thirteen flying fortresses previously delivered. First bombers manufactured under the new system will be completed early next month.

REPORT CHAIN TAX APPLIES TO VOLUNTARY UNITS

The Dow-Jones news service reported yesterday that the Colorado Supreme court had ruled that the state's chain store tax law applied to "voluntary chain" systems.

The ruling held, the service reported, that independently owned retail units operating under a contract with a chain company could be taxed, the tax on the parent company to be determined by the number of such outlets.

EASTERN RAILS TO CUT FARES ON ROUND TRIPS

Maximum Slash Is 32 Per Cent.

Acting to increase their passenger business, the eastern railroads announced in New York yesterday that they proposed to reduce round trip passenger fares, including coach and Pullman, on a sliding scale to a maximum of 32 per cent from the present rates. Coach rates would be affected to a much larger extent than the rates for travel in Pullmans.

Approval by the interstate commerce commission will have to be given before the reductions can be put into effect, but such action is held to be a certainty. The reductions would affect the area east of Chicago and St. Louis and north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers.

Cuts Are Graduated.

The reductions will be made on a sliding scale, based on distance traveled. Round trip tickets for coach travel will be cut from the present rate of 2½ cents a mile to 2¼ cents a mile for trips of 100 miles or less. Reductions will be made progressively in fifty mile blocks to 1.7 cents a mile for trips of 901 miles or more. The 1.7 mile rate, which would affect travel between Chicago and New York, would represent a 32 per cent reduction from the present rate.

Rates for first class round trip tickets for travel in Pullmans other than for upper berths would scale down from the present 3 cents a mile rate to 2.7 cents a mile for trips of 901 miles or more.

Other Pullman Fares.

One way fares for travel in Pullman upper berths will be 2.7 cents a mile regardless of distance. Round trip fares for travel in Pullman upper berths will be scaled down to 2.43 cents a mile for distances of 901 miles or more.

The fare of 1.7 cents a mile for coach travel for distances of 901 miles or more actually will be below

Why Many Bond Investors Are Not Getting Service

Small supply of new issues and narrow profit margins now make it impractical for bond distributors to extend personal sales solicitation to more than a small part of the investment market. Thousands of occasional bond buyers—small investors—even investors of substantial means living at a distance from financial centers, are necessarily overlooked.

The simple solution of this problem is for such investors to take the buying initiative—make known their investment requirements—as they do in most other purchases. To facilitate this, we have set up a special service in our Chicago office whereby any bond investor, regardless of location or size of funds, may keep informed—get offerings suited to needs—handle all details most conveniently, either by mail or in person. This service is fully explained in our booklet, "'Going to Market' for Bonds." We would like to send you a copy. Simply mail request form below or write for booklet CT-80.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 31.—Stocks closed mixed today when early firmness gave way to easier tendencies. Price changes were small. The market's pause came after it had pushed ahead for five consecutive sessions. Turnover was 664,510 shares.

Representative steel and rubber shares moved lower after registering early gains. United States Rubber lost 1 point. United States Steel and Bethlehem both declined fractionally.

Motors were heavy throughout the session. Chrysler lost ½ point, but General Motors slumped 1¼ points. In the merchandising section Sears-Roebuck stood out with a gain of nearly a point. Montgomery Ward, however, slipped ⅝ in active turnover.

Aviation shares closed mostly fractionally lower. United Aircraft and Glenn Martin were exceptions, netting small fractions.

Most copper and oil stocks closed fractionally lower. Socony Vacuum was active. Announcement by eastern carries of proposed fare reductions had little effect on rail stocks. Fractional declines predominated.

Fractional declines also ruled among power and light shares. Consolidated Edison was fairly active and lost ½ point. North American company edged higher, however. Among specialties, Loft and National Dairy Products were active and fractionally higher.

Dealings on the exchange in May totaled 12,932,710 shares, the smallest since September, 1934, when they amounted to 12,635,870 shares. April volume was 20,246,238 shares. In May, 1938, it was 14,004,244 shares.

New York Bonds.

New York, May 31.—(AP)—Bonds were strong again today. United States governments drew fresh institutional support and moved up for gains of 1-32d to 9-32ds. Top flight corporates also edged ahead.

Speculative loans were inclined to irregularity at times, but under a fair demand and tapering offerings in the final hour a majority of trading favorites made modest improvement.

Several foreign loans showed a good tone, notably Japan 5½s and 6½s, and loans of Buenos Aires and Poland, up fractions to around a point. Italian issues were heavy.

Chicago Stocks.

A majority of the stocks traded on the Chicago exchange moved upward yesterday. Six new highs for 1939 were established. Sales totaled only 20,000 shares. Of the 100 issues traded 54 advanced, 24 declined, and 22 closed unchanged.

The following shares reached new highs, and in each case the high was the closing price for the day: Midland Utilities 7 per cent prior lien, 5½, up ⅜, and the 6 per cent prior lien, also at 5½, up ⅜; American Public Service preferred, 78, up 2; Bastian-Blessing, 15¼, up ⅝; Dayton Rubber A, 27, up 4; Mountain States Power, 55½, up 1½.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago banks stocks closed unchanged to slightly higher yesterday. Trading was dull. The bid quotations on American National, City National and First National were raised $1 to $3 a share.

COTTON

Reports of an active demand for cotton goods had some effect on futures yesterday. Buying of nearby deliveries by mills and spot firms featured trading. At no time was there any material pressure on the market and closing trades were at about the best prices with gains of .04 to .11 cent a pound. Bombay and the south sold the deferred futures.

Sales of cotton goods in New York were estimated at 15,000,000 yards, or about the same volume of business that was reported on Monday.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .07 cent a pound higher with New York, 9.81 cents; New Orleans, 9.40 cents; Galveston, 9.33 cents and Houston at 9.25 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Heavy demand for textiles in the wake of Monday's ⅛ cent a yard advance on popular lines was a feature of yesterday's commodity trading. Worth street sales of cotton cloths were believed to have exceeded the 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 yards moved Monday. Some mills refused to sell further ahead than for July delivery pending the outcome of producer negotiations for curtailment of output.

Rubber futures advanced .10 to .13 cent a pound. Some tin deliveries were bid up to new seasonal peaks, but there were no sales in this market. Copper and lead futures also moved higher.

Export copper was advanced .06 cent a pound to 10.25 cents as London wire bar values rose. Scrap copper also was boosted, the quotation being at 8⅝ cents a pound, up ⅛ cent. Domestic copper sellers held to recent prices, Phelps Dodge quoting 10½ cents and other producers 10 cents.

Hides, silk, coffee, and cocoa registered declines. Wool tops, sugar, and cottonseed oil were irregular.

BUSINESS RUINED BY FAVORITISM, ALWART CHARGES

Political Appointees Are Blamed by Coal Man.

Political favoritism of court appointed receivers of apartment buildings ruined the once-thriving business of the Alwart Coal company, established 67 years ago, Paul J. Alwart, son of the founder and president of the firm, charged yesterday.

Alwart said that "favorite" coal companies allied politically with building receivers took away practically all of his company's sales which exceeded one million dollars in 1932. The company and a sales subsidiary, the Alwart Brothers' Coal company, were ordered liquidated yesterday by Federal Judge Philip J. Sullivan.

Sales Million a Year.

"We were doing over a million dollars business from 1928 through 1932," Alwart said, after the court ruling. "Most of our trade was with large apartment buildings. The depression forced many of these properties into foreclosure receiverships.

"The receivers had their tie-ups with favored coal companies. We were cut cold. Our sales last year fell to about $160,000."

Attorney Louis E. Hart Sr., counsel for the coal firm, concurred in Alwart's diagnosis of the company's failure. Hart added that the tax muddle of 1928 placed a heavy burden of real estate taxes on the company.

"Real estate taxes accumulated for three years after 1928," Hart said. "When the company got around to paying all those bills the depression had set in and its sales began to fall because their business was taken away by favorites of the receivers."

Assets Mostly Realty.

The company came into federal court in April, 1938, asking reorganization. Listed assets of $750,000 were mostly real estate consisting of three coal yards. Liabilities included a first mortgage on the yard at 1854 Webster avenue of $60,000, including taxes paid by the mortgagee, and a $65,000 first mortgage on the yard at 6603 Ridge boulevard.

The trustees in reorganization reported to the federal court that no feasible plan of reorganization could be formulated because the assets were largely frozen in the form of real estate.

Peter B. Carey, former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, was appointed liquidating trustee. He and Alwart were the trustees in reorganization.

Carey was allowed twenty days in which to schedule the list of claims and the available property. The liquidation proceedings were referred by the court to Referee in Bankruptcy Wallace Streeter.

Owned by Three Sons.

Both the parent and subsidiary are owned by three sons of the founder, F. W. Alwart. Fred W. and Walter W. are the other officers of the companies besides Paul J.

A nine-acre tract in Evanston, formerly used as a coal yard by the company, is not mortgaged and will not be sold, Attorney Hart said.

Alwart said that he and his brothers are not "through."

"We are going to stay in the business," he said. "I have been in our company for forty years and I am not going to leave it."

DECIMAL SYSTEM OF QUOTING EGGS, BUTTER ENDED

After giving the decimal system of quotations a two week trial, the board of governors of the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday voted to return to the traditional quotations based on ⅛ cent a pound on butter and ⅛ cent a dozen on eggs. The order is effective next Monday.

The decimal system showed price changes of 1-100 of a cent on butter and eggs. Although it is generally regarded a more accurate measurement of price, it failed to find favor among the membership.

The governors also voted to put priority of trading in effect Monday. Under this system, a bid or an offer is posted on a board. Subsequent bids or offers at the same level cannot be filled until the earliest one is cared for. The exchange will also carry a book on open orders from day to day. It is, in effect, a system of "first come, first served."

David A. Noyes & Co. is taking over all the accounts of the stock exchange firm of Moore, McLean and McDermott as of today. Russell W. McDermott and George C. Good of Moore, McLean and McDermott will become partners in David A. Noyes & Co.

FIRST JAIL TERM UNDER PAY-HOUR ACT IS IMPOSED

Wheeling, W. Va., May 31.—(AP)—Federal Judge William E. Baker today imposed the first jail sentence under the fair labor standards act which became effective last Oct. 24.

He sentenced Sanford Lerner, vice president of the Standard Trouser company of Buckhannon, W. Va., to six months in jail for failure to produce records demanded by the wage and hour administration.

Judge Baker ordered the sentence suspended providing Lerner produces the records by June 7. He also fined the company $500 and costs for contempt of court.

The company previously had ignored a subpena for the records but produced part of them on a court order from Judge Baker.

GRAIN PIT SEEKS DISMISSAL OF CARGILL CHARGE

The Chicago Board of Trade, charged with corn price manipulation by Cargill, Inc., will ask dismissal of the charges when the hearings at the Hotel Sherman are resumed today, it was learned yesterday.

Howard Ellis, the exchange's attorney, said the exchange will argue that evidence presented by Cargill has not supported the complaint, which is being refereed by S. Abbott MacGinnis of the Commodity Exchange administration.

Thus far the board has presented no evidence. It has, however, cross-examined experts, who testified for Cargill. The testimony, now in its sixth month, has filled more than 12,000 typewritten pages containing an estimated 3,600,000 words. The charges grew out of the September, 1937, corn "squeeze."

Charges of manipulation filed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace against Cargill are yet to be heard.

Officers to Meet Tonight with Gen. Wood.

D. M. Nelson criticizes absentee ownership.

Almost 10,000 local companies have expressed a marked interest in the association's campaign, and officials of the movement said the definite backing of "big business" will give the drive new impetus.

The national firms division of the campaign met at the Palmer House yesterday and heard "absentee ownership" criticized by Donald M. Nelson, executive vice president of Sears-Roebuck.

Addresses Chain Leaders.

Nelson said absentee ownership has been responsible for many of the attacks made against "big business." He directed his remarks to leaders of chain stores and manufacturer to consumer industries.

"National companies with branch offices in any town or city are under obligation today to make a contribution to the civic affairs of that community," Nelson said.

"Big business throughout the country is being attacked in many ways. Some attacks are unjust, but there is one phase which perhaps needs our careful attention; that is the claim that national companies do business in a community, take money from the community, and do not take any part in the civic affairs of that community."

Cites Community Complaints.

Nelson added that numerous communities complain that chain store managements have replaced local managements who were in sympathy with local affairs with executives who are not interested in the towns in which they do business.

About fifty representatives of chain stores and national industries with branches in Chicago attended the meeting.

Garden Hoes Busy.

May 31, 1939.

THERE has been a rush of activity in the vegetable garden at the farm this week. A rain Sunday afternoon soaked the ground and not only stimulated growth of the vegetables but also gave grass and weeds a fresh start. Hoes and hand cultivators have been kept busy since the soil dried out enough to be worked.

The rain put the ground in fine shape for setting out plants. Cabbage, pepper, eggplant, and cauliflower plants were set out Monday. This was the second planting of cabbage. Another will be made later.

Sweet potatoes and tomatoes will be transplanted today. Sweet potatoes are not commonly grown in this region, but gardeners who have tried them say they do well. The sweet potato plants are being set about eighteen inches apart in a ridged row. The plants were bought from a nursery.

A Southern Practice.

The practice of ridging sweet potato rows has long been followed in the south, where the crop is grown regularly.

The plants at the farm are being set in a ridge nearly a foot high and about two feet across at the base. Soil will be worked toward the row as the crop is cultivated. Sweet potatoes need clean and thorough cultivation while the plants are small to keep down weeds. It is virtually impossible to cultivate them after the vines begin to spread. The vines cover the rows solidly and take root at the joints, pinning themselves to the ground.

Sweet potatoes grow best in sandy soil. They like hot weather, requiring more heat than almost any other garden crop. They are temperamental. If the soil is too rich in nitrogen the vines will grow all over the place, but the sweet potatoes will be small. If planted on clay or muck soils the crop is likely to be a complete failure.

Flower Seeds Planted.

Seeds of about twenty-five kinds of flowers are being planted around the edges of the vegetable garden this week. Most of them are annuals. Morning glories and hyacinth beans will be planted along the fence next to Maramy road. A mixture of gourd seeds already has been planted along the fence at the north side of the garden. They are coming up.

Included in the annual flowers are zinnia, marigold, ageratum, scabiosa, gaillardia, centaurea, cosmos, dianthus, portulaca, bachelor's button, alyssum, 4 o'clock, balsam, calendula, calliopsis, aster, dolichos, nicotiana, sanvitalia, and petunia.

Some of the flowers were started in boxes indoors several weeks ago. They will be transplanted to the open garden this week.

EASTERN RAILS WILL CUT FARES ON ROUND TRIPS

Maximum Reduction Is 32 Per Cent.

the 1.9 cents a mile rate for round trip coach travel on western roads. Western railroad officials said yesterday that they would "doubtless do something about meeting the new low eastern coach rate."

The railroad fare question has long vexed eastern railroad officials, some demanding reductions in an effort to stimulate business and others holding that reductions would not produce the desired results. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, has been one of the leaders in the group that held that lower fares were vital to the bringing back of travel to the rails.

Williamson Announces Move.

The announcement of the proposed reductions was made yesterday by F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central and president of the Eastern Railroads conference.

Up to June, 1936, the eastern roads maintained a 3.6 mile rate despite large cuts made by the western and southern roads. Then a 2 cent basic coach rate was put into effect and retained for two years until the group favoring the higher fares was able to bring about a boost to 2½ cents a mile. Since the 2½ cent a mile rate has been in effect, trafic is reported to have declined on the eastern roads. The western carriers said that they were highly pleased with the results obtained from their low fare operations. With so many persons owning automobiles, they said, low fares were necessary to take auto travel off the highways into the trains.

Pioneered by Southern Lines.

The southern railroads have been pioneers in experimenting with low fares to get business. Fares in the southern territory generally have been lower than those in the west. The southern roads yesterday asked the interstate commerce commission for a 10 per cent reduction in round trip coach fares. The present coach fare in the south is 1.5 cents a mile, but there is no round trip rate.

Power Rate Cut Totaling $918,000 Yearly Effective

The Illinois commerce commission announced yesterday that electric rate reductions totaling approximately $918,000 annually would go into effect today for 349,885 customers in the state. The reduction for the Public Service company of Northern Illinois totaled $741,000, benefiting consumers in Chicago suburbs, Waukegan, Kankakee, and Joliet.

PET MILK.

Investors' Guide: I have been solicited to buy some stock of the Pet Milk company, but before I do so I would like some data on the company's sales volume, assets, and liabilities, number of plants, and dividends. How does this stock rate? Pet Milk has no preferred stock outstanding, has it? What is its earnings picture now and for recent years?—N. M.

Answer: Pet Milk company, one of the largest domestic producers of evaporated milk, has operated profitably through the depression years. Its net income last year was the second highest since 1927, and first quarter earnings of $50,519 this year compared with a loss of $78,994 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Its thirty-three plants are located in leading dairy sections from Maryland to California. Headquarters are in St. Louis. The company does a substantial export business to Europe. It makes all its own cans.

Lower prices in 1938 caused a decreased sales volume in dollars compared with the peak year of 1937, but unit sales were higher. The record of sales and earnings in recent years follows:

1938	..$28,555,163	$901,001	$2.04	$1.00
1937	.. 29,702,594	699,155	1.59	1.00
1936	.. 25,105,479	911,552	1.99	1.50
1935	.. 23,093,138	787,921	1.59	1.00
1934	.. 19,420,411	647,267	1.27	.75
1933	.. 15,682,833	468,776	.85	.50
1929	.. 26,896,786	660,936	1.26	1.50

Capitalization consists of 441,354 shares of no par common stock. A 25 cent dividend was paid April 1 this year. A similar payment has been declared for July 1 to stock of record June 10. The common stock is listed on the New York Stock exchange. The company's preferred stock was retired in 1936 and none has since been issued.

Serial notes totaling $400,000 and held by bankers are due in 1940 and 1941. The average interest rate on the notes is 2½ per cent. Total assets at the end of 1938 were $14,144,444. Current assets amounted to $5,617,301, against current liabilities of $2,035,670.

SERVING CHICAGO Chicago Tribune FOR 91 YEARS

PRICES OF GRAIN BOOSTED BY DRY, HOTTER WEATHER

Profit Selling Reduces Early Upturn.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .78⅜	$ .78¼	$ .68⅝
Corn	.51⅝	.51⅝	.55⅝
Oats	.34¼	.33⅝	.25⅞
Rye	.54¼	.53	.50¼
Soy beans	.91½	.91¼	.84¼

Dry and hot weather over the grain belt brought aggressive buying of wheat, oats and rye futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat futures advanced more than 1 cent a bushel at one time, and all deliveries equaled the high prices of the season. Rye went into new seasonal high ground.

Heavy profit taking developed on the advance. Wheat closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Rye was up 1⅛ to 1¼ cents and oats gained ⅜ to ½ cent. December corn sold at 54¼ cents early, a new high for the season, but reacted to close ⅛ cent lower. The nearby deliveries of corn gained ¼ cent.

Crop Damage Feared.

Hot winds accompanied the high temperatures in the Dakotas. Reports from Minneapolis expressed fears of damage to the spring wheat crop. Temperatures as high as 101 were reported Tuesday in North Dakota.

The United States has a prospective wheat crop this year of about 661,000,000 bushels, as estimated by Mrs. E. H. Miller, statistician for Shields & Co. This is about 39,000,000 bushels less than the average domestic disappearance in the last few years. The yield of winter wheat was placed at 492,000,000 bushels and spring wheat at 169,000,000 bushels. In 1938 the winter wheat harvest was 687,000,000 bushels and spring wheat 244,000,000 bushels.

Other Crop Estimates.

Mrs. Miller estimated the oats crop at 975,000,000 bushels, or 79,000,000 bushels less than harvested last year. Rye has been severely damaged by hot and dry weather and the prospective yield was placed at only 38,000,000 bushels, or about 10,000,000 bushels less than a month ago. Last year's crop was 55,000,000 bushels.

Cash houses were persistent sellers of September corn, while commission houses bought December. The latter is favored by smaller speculators, brokers said, as it is a new crop month.

Farmers in the northwest have taken advantage of the strength in the wheat market recently to redeem large amounts of grain pledges as collateral for government loans.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Brisk competion featured the Chicago market for hogs yesterday. Prices were relatively the highest in the country. Buyers gave strong to 10 cents higher prices compared with Monday. Top loads reached $6.95 per hundred pounds.

Prices advanced despite new low quotations for fresh pork in wholesale markets where demand was reported narrow due to warm weather. Losses of 50 cents were incurred in heavy loins.

PUBLISHING FIRM DEMANDS NLRB DROP COMPLAINT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 31.—The Easton Publishing company today charged the national labor relations board with improper attempts to force the company into a closed shop contract. The charges were made in an answer filed late in the day with the board's district office, demanding dismissal of the complaint of unfair labor practices.

The answer charged that the board, through Bennet F. Schauffler, regional director at Philadelphia, threatened to issue the complaint of unfair labor practices unless the company and representatives of the union. ternational Typographical union for a closed shop contract covering all employés in the composing room of the Easton [Pa.] Express, published by the Easton company.

Balks at Closed Shop.

The controversy between the publishing company and the board began last November when agents of the board started to sit in on negotiation meetings between officials of the company and representatives of the union. The company agreed to enter into a contract, but refused to accept the closed shop provision.

According to the company's answer, the union then complained to the labor board and from that time the board sought to direct negotiations to the end of forcing compliance with union demands. Frequently throughout the negotiations, according to the company's answer, Schauffler threatened the issuance of a complaint unless the company yielded to union demands.

Demands Dismissal.

In demanding dismissal of the complaint the company's answer said:

"This proceeding is in violation of the due process clause of the fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States. There is nothing in the national labor relations act that requires an employer as an evidence of bargaining in good faith to agree to sign any contract or specifically to agree to sign a 'closed shop' or 'preferential shop' contract.

"There is nothing in that act that requires an employer to comply with the demands of a union, or with any particular or specific demand of a union for terms in a contract, under penalty of being cited by the national labor relations board in a proceeding charging unfair labor practices for failure to so comply."
